Czech Ice Victory Makes Up 'for August'

PRAGUE (UPI) — Thousands of Czechoslovaks burst into the streets of Prague Friday night in a fiery frenzy of celebration for the nation's 4-3 victory over the Soviet Union in the semi-finals of the world hockey championships. (See Page 12.)

Most of the celebrants converged on Wenceslas Square, where they waved burning brooms and newspapers, chanted "For August! For August! For August!" and demolished the offices of the Soviet airline Aeroflot.

● Cougars even series with 7-5 victory. Page 12.

The Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia took place last August, and Soviet occupation troops are still stationed in the country.

The square, whose official capacity is 200,000 persons, was jammed with yelling celebrants.

The crowd singled out the Aeroflot offices, the only Soviet office on the square, for destruction and had virtually demolished it before police fought through to set up a protective cordon. The office's windows and signs were smashed, its files scattered and burned and its furniture pitched into the street.

"It is a revolution of good feeling," cried one man. But another shouted "Russian beasts, go home."

Old soldiers never die

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ike is dead.

Soldier, president and one of the revered figures of American history, Dwight David Eisenhower died Friday at 9:25 a.m. PST in Walter Reed Army Hospital.

His death ended a heroic struggle against a long series of major illnesses with a heart weakened by repeated attacks.

He was 78.

Final state funeral services will be held Monday in the National Cathedral here. Burial will be Wednesday in Abilene, Kan.

He had led the mightiest armed force ever assembled to victory over the German Nazis in the Second World War.

D-DAY ARCHITECT

He was the architect of D-Day, the invasion of the European continent that broke the back of enemy resistance.

He was the 34th president of the United States during eight cold war years.

His was a Republican administration of domestic tranquillity.

The country will pay final tribute to Ike in a state funeral that, beginning today, will span three days in the U.S. capital before the body is borne by slow train to his boyhood home in Abilene.

MOURNING DAY

There, near the Eisenhower Library, Ike will be buried.

President Nixon, who was Eisenhower's vice-president for eight years and who assumed some presidential duties during the president's illnesses, formally announced the death in a proclamation.

Designating Monday a national day of mourning, Nixon said

New Car Insurance Protection for First $250

B.C. Fills Liability Gap

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

B.C. drivers will be able to buy third-party liability insurance to protect themselves against damage claims up to $250 if they are negligent, Attorney-General Leslie Peterson told the Legislature Friday.

The government's change in plans was announced as the Legislature gave approval in principle to legislation setting up a new compulsory, non-cancellable car insurance scheme which will provide basic, no-fault coverage for 1,000,000 licensed B.C. drivers.

Mr. Peterson indicated the government bowed to public pressure demanding the change. But he told the House the government hoped the majority of drivers would not take advantage of the easing of the previous prohibition on third-party liability coverage for property damage up to the $250 maximum that can be recovered in a damage suit.

By agreeing that "if negligent, they should assume this cost out of their own pocket," drivers who don't purchase the supplementary third-party coverage will be helping to fulfil the government's original intent of promoting defensive driving on B.C. highways, the attorney-general said.

THREE HOURS

For much of the three hours of debate on second reading of amendments to the Insurance Act, the government's new insurance scheme came under heavy attack from the opposition. Both NDP and Liberals voted against approval in principle of the bill which was passed by a vote of 28 to 19.

William Hartley (NDP-Yale Lillooet), acting as spokesman for his party, said it was immoral for the government to force every licensed driver in the province to contribute to the income of a private industry "that has been condemned for price-fixing and gouging for years."

FUNDS POINT

The NDP member tried to claim that a portion of compulsory premiums would find its way into the campaign funds of Social Credit but was sharply ordered by Speaker William Murray to withdraw the remark and apologize to the House.

Mr. Hartley did as he was asked and added that a government-run car insurance scheme was the only way the Legislature could live up to its

Students advance on Sherbrooke Street

McGill Fuss Fades

MONTREAL (CP) — As roving bands of demonstrators smashed some store windows in downtown Montreal Friday night, about 500 persons attempted to return to the McGill University campus, scene of an earlier 6,000-strong march to show support for converting the university into a French-language institution.

The 500 were quickly chased back downtown by police on motorcycles and other police squads quickly broke up the wandering groups of window breakers.

There were unconfirmed radio reports of some minor looting.

MINOR SCUFFLES

The banner-waving 15-block march by about 6,000 persons along Sherbrooke to the university had been relatively orderly. Minor scuffles broke out in front of the university, but there was no major clash with reinforced squads of police.

No demonstrators managed to get on to property owned by the 148-year-old university and marchers began dispersing about 1½ hours after reaching the university gates on Sherbrooke Street.

SUCCESS CLAIMED

Organizers claimed the demonstration had succeeded in publicizing their demands and appealed to marchers to head for home.

However, police later moved in with vehicles in riot equipment to break up lingering groups of hard-core demonstrators.

At least eight persons were reported arrested and there were four persons injured in the later clashes.

SEA OF FACES

Sherbrooke Street in front of the university was a sea of faces dotted with placards, flags and banners.

Raymond Lemieux, president of the Ligue pour l'Integration Scolaire, an organizer of the demonstration told the crowd:

Disaster?

SHE'LL NEVER KNOW

SPOKANE (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth Steen, 29-year-old Spokane seeress who had predicted an earthquake for California next month, died Friday.

Doctors said cause of death was a heart attack but that Mrs. Steen had been ill for some time with Collogan's disease. The ailment involves deterioration of the body's connective tissue.

She came to Spokane last November from the San Francisco area. The move here with her husband and children was based on her forecast of an earthquake for the Pacific coast sometime in April.

Mrs. Steen had been the subject of articles in national magazines after predicting Martin Luther King would be shot to death April 6, 1968. He was killed in Memphis, Tenn., last April 4.

Hunt for Nazis Now Unlimited

BONN (Reuters) — The West German government has announced it intends to abolish the statute of limitations restricting the prosecution of Nazi war criminals.

Justice Minister Horst Ehmke told the Bundesrat (upper house) Friday that the bill would be introduced before the end of the present legislature period in July.

The statute of limitations originally would have barred courts from opening proceedings covering Nazi murders and genocide after 1965, but the 20-year limitation was extended until the end of this year.

Saddened de Gaulle Flying to Funeral

Colonist Los Angeles Times Service

PARIS — President Charles de Gaulle, who now is the last of the living great figures of the Second World War, will fly to Washington to attend the state funeral of Dwight Eisenhower.

In a message to President Nixon, released a few hours after the announcement of Eisenhower's death, de Gaulle said: "For me, I see disappear with much sadness a dear companion in arms and a friend."

To Mrs. Eisenhower, de Gaulle messaged: "I want to assure you in these painful circumstances that I will keep forever the memory of he who was a great soldier, an eminent statesman, a sincere friend of France and for whom I had a deep affection."

'Only to Smile' Monty Recalls

LONDON (UPI)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery answered the telephone himself when it rang Friday evening at his country estate just outside London.

"I know, I know," he told a newsman calling to inform him of the death of his old comrade-in-arms. "All my old friends are dying."

His voice shaking with emotion, the 81-year-old British hero of the North Africa campaign who served under Eisenhower in the invasion of Europe and has since criticized Eisenhower's military ability, said his death "leaves a gap in my life."

"Ike was a very great human being, utterly sincere and incapable of anything mean or underhanded," Montgomery said. "His passing leaves me very sad."

The field marshal recalled that Eisenhower "had only to smile at you and there was nothing you would not do for him. I served under his command from April, 1943, to the end of the German war and was proud to do so."

Montgomery said the Eisenhower family had asked him to go to the funeral but he had declined.

"I said I was too old and would probably break down. They will understand, I feel sure."

Insurance Company Fires NDP Member and Agent

William Hartley (NDP-Yale Lillooet) in the Legislature Friday linked his surprise dismissal after nearly 19 years service as an agent with a B.C. insurance firm with his role as chief spokesman for the New Democratic Party on car insurance. He sold all types of insurance, including car.

★ ★ ★

During the debate on second reading of the government's proposed new car insurance plan, Mr. Hartley recalled that he was attacked by Jim Chabot (SC-Columbia River) who claimed that as an insurance agent the NDP member should not be allowed to sit on the Legislature's committee studying the Wootton report.

After the question had been referred to Speaker William Murray he was allowed to sit on the committee, but recalled that Philip Gaglardi (SC-Kamloops), minister without portfolio, kept up a continual sniping by asking "are you still selling insurance?"

Hartley

★ ★ ★

"I did not pay too much attention to (Mr. Gaglardi's) wisecracks," Mr. Hartley said. "However, it would appear that these representatives of the Social Credit party were either acting for, or just thinking, as the insurance industry, when they called for my removal from the insurance committee.

"An odd coincidence happened just a few hours after Bill 74 (establishing a new car insurance plan) was tabled in this House. I received a letter from the insurance company with

McGill: 6,000 March, Disperse

"We showed them McGill is ours. We have achieved our aim."

Among the symbols waved by the marchers were the black flag of anarchy, the red flag of revolution, posters of Che Guevara, the late Cuban revolutionary, and placards bearing various slogans supporting the French language in Quebec.

Other placards protested subjects ranging from the Vietnam war to a recent increase in bus and subway fares in Montreal.

The 6,000 who took part in the march had their numbers swelled at McGill's main gates by about 2,000 more who were awaiting their arrival.

The march from St. Louis Square, a picturesque park on east-end St. Denis Street to McGill was peaceful. It started at 8:15 p.m. and was preceded by six motorcycle policemen.

Some missiles were hurled at police at the university campus after the marchers had milled there for about an hour.

Police wearing helmets and carrying heavy anti-riot batons stood four deep and shoulder to shoulder in front of the gates across the main road into the university grounds.

A police spokesman told a news conference that weekly leaves for city police were cancelled to beef up protection.

About 1,200 of the city's 3,700-man force were on duty throughout the city Friday night.

However, about 300 provincial policemen were on the university campus.

RCMP officers in plain clothes also were on duty, an RCMP officer said. He said they were wearing red armbands reading "Montreal police."

The McGill campus was closed at 6 p.m. Friday and all buildings were locked, including the Hugh McLennan Library that normally is open until 11 p.m. Fridays.

Be There!

THIS is a story about people who do things for people. Famous people who are willing to give up time and money to help a cause.

Next Tuesday night at the Empress, the Kiwanis Club and the Victoria Sports Council present their second annual sportsman's dinner. The idea is to honor our local sporting stars and to dress it up, many celebrities of the sports world will be on hand.

Now the going rate for grabbing such people is anywhere from $200 to $1,000. Pretty steep for the local budget, so, through twisting a few arms, calling on past associations, etc., those behind the dinner have been able to get a lot of talent for very little money.

DEWEY SORIANO, the big wheel of the new Seattle Pilots baseball team in the American League, was contacted by our Jim Tang. Soriano listened to the pitch and said he'd be glad to come—didn't even mention expenses. And remember, Soriano is up to his ears with preparations for the start of the ball season, he's knee-deep in little problems connected with the opening of his park in Seattle. Fitting Victoria in to such a tight schedule took some sacrificing.

MLA Herb Capozzi, quite possibly one of the three or four best after-dinner speakers in Canada, will speak at a similar dinner in Chilliwack Monday night and then back here for the Tuesday night affair. Pretty taxing for a guy already loaded with many forms of work.

A PHONE CALL was put through to Jim Finks, the general manager of the Minnesota Vikings and this one-time quarterback star of the NFL simply asked, "When would you like me to be there?" Nothing about a fee, nothing about expenses from Minneapolis to Victoria and return. I think Victorians will be impressed by him. I rate him the finest gentleman I've ever met in sport.

The horse-racing fraternity volunteered the services of Frank Barrobey, the leading jockey in B.C. last year and one of the best in the business. Track and field champion Irene Piotrowski has to take time off from her school teaching profession in order to be here.

B.C. Lion boss Jim Champion is up to his southern drawl with football signings, training camp negotiations and the myriad other details connected with a pro team, but he'll be on hand and he'll wow 'em with his accent and his anecdotes.

THE WORK behind this venture runs into the hundreds of man hours and nobody asks for time, far less time and a half. The sponsors don't really look to make any money. Breaking even is their happiness.

I've heard it mentioned that ten bucks a plate leans to the expensive side and that Victorians can't afford such a tariff. You mean to tell me our city can't afford $10 when a city like Lethbridge turns out 1,000 strong at $25 a head for a similar function? I hardly think the affluence of Lethbridgians is two and a half times that of Victorians.

I couldn't care a hoot or a holler if the Kiwanis club loses money on the whole production, because they are the ones in charge of ticket sales. They must make up any losses incurred.

BUT I do care about the image of Victoria—the image that the guest speakers will take away with them. If they come here from hundreds of miles away and find the place half empty, then they'll merely believe the old story that Victoria is a sleepy little bit of England, a sort of retirement cul de sac beside the sea with no get up and go.

It's not a stag affair. All you wives out there, get busy on your husbands this weekend. Get them to take you out for a fine meal and a lot of good entertainment at the Empress next Tuesday night.

And I'd like everyone to remember, the guests who'll do that entertaining, are here to help a Victoria project—not to make a buck.

Your Good Health

Turista Stays in Family

By G. T. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For some years my family has been bothered with recurrent spells of diarrhea. The symptoms are the ones experienced with "turista," which people get when visiting foreign countries.

When my grandchildren come to visit, they nearly always pick it up which leads me to suspect that someone in our family could be a carrier. Is this possible? What would the germ or virus be?—Mrs. R.B.

"Turista" can be due to a germ which causes bacillary dysentery. More recently some studies (rather than mere guesswork) suggest that similar troubles can really come from differences in the water or the type of food eaten. We do know that people from other countries can get "turista" when they come here!

The point of all this is that different factors may be causing the trouble in your family. It could even be that the water has laxative properties. It might be a good idea to have a sample of water checked by your county (or estate) health department. Do you by chance, have a well that could be contaminated by a septic tank field? Further, some water is high in magnesium which can have a laxative effect, especially if a person is not used to drinking it.

Your suggestion of a carrier in the household is not impossible, although in such a case I would be inclined to think that the symptoms would be more persistent rather than recurrent.

Stool analysis involving a culture to seek out disease-producing germs could be undertaken, to learn if any member of the household is chronically carrying some such infection.

Otherwise, protection from such a carrier would require exceptional attention to personal hygiene—scrupulous washing of the hands (and scrubbing, not just rinsing them) after every visit to the bathroom, and care to see that all members use their own personal towels and linen.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain what tinnitus aurium means. What are the symptoms and what can be expected in a curative way?—K.L.M.

It means ringing noises in the ears. The symptoms: ringing noises in the ars. Curative prospects? Variable, depending on the cause—which may be high blood pressure, certain medications, some types of damage to the ear mechanism, sometimes no ascertainable cause at all.

Packard, Scientist

Airport Encounter ABM 'Consultation'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A scientist said Friday that a consultation the Pentagon claimed to have had with him before its decision to deploy a missile defence system consisted solely of a casual, accidental airport meeting.

Dr. Wolfgang Panofsky, director of the Stanford Linear Accelerator Centre, told the Senate disarmement subcommittee he ran into Deputy Defence Secretary David Packard by accident three weeks ago in San Francisco.

IT WAS INFORMAL

He said they engaged in an "informal discussion" about the anti-ballistic missile system and that was it. What's more, he said, he opposed the Safeguard Nixon administration's system as technologically "unwise."

Six days ago, Packard told the subcommittee he had consulted with scientists outside the Pentagon prior to the ABM decision. When pressed to name one, he named Panofsky.

WOOL PULLING

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D—Ark.) said the testimony reinforced his impression that the Pentagon had not consulted anyone.

He said the Pentagon was "trying to pull the wool over our eyes" and there was now a "very serious question of credibility" about the new administration.

Panofsky was one of three experts who testified before the subcommittee as part of its continuing effort to give a forum to non-government scientists on the ABM controversy.

Fulbright

Donald Brennan, a mathematician and former president of the Hudson Institute, said he not only favored the Safeguard but thought it should be expanded to provide the thickest possible protection for the nation's cities. Brennan contended American-Soviet arms control talks should concentrate on limiting offensive weapons.

But Dr. George Rathjens of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology said the Safeguard defence system to protect U.S. Minuteman missile silos was based "on a much exaggerated view of the threat to our retaliatory capabilities and is definitely premature. Moreover, the defence proposal would be at best marginally effective in saving Minuteman."

MAJOR FLAW

Rathjens and Panofsky both contended that Safeguard had a major technological flaw that called its reliability into serious question. They contended its radar was so vulnerable that it could be easily destroyed by a light nuclear blast, thus nullifying the AM defence of missile silos.

Panofsky said the design of the Safeguard was "inefficient" since it essentially had the same components which were to have been used in the old Sentinel defence of the cities, which the Nixon administration largely scrapped.

Referring to the Packard-Panofsky meeting, Fulbright told the Stanford scientist, "I judge from your testimony he didn't listen to your advice."

Biafra-Bound

Canada to Switch Team Personnel

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department Friday announced a change in officers representing Canada on the international team observing the 20-month civil war in Nigeria.

Maj. George R. Harper, 39, of Timmins, Ont., now serving at the Canadian Forces staff school in Toronto, will succeed Lt.-Col. E. B. M. Pinnington, 43, of Cobalt, Ont.

The team, made up of representatives of Britain, Canada, Poland and Sweden, has been observing the conduct of the federal troops in their war against secessionist Biafra.

The team was invited to the war zone by the Nigerian government following reports of atrocities by federal troops.

Maj. Harper, a veteran of 20 years service, served in Korea and has held a number of staff and field appointments.

Wilson Continues Talks

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson Friday visited a centre of fighting in the bitter Nigeria-Biafra civil war and then returned to Lagos for new talks on the conflict with the federal Nigerian chief of state, Maj.-Gen. Yakubu Gowon.

"General Gowon said it would be his policy to offer a hand of friendship to the Ibos (the major tribe inhabiting Biafra)," Wilson told the staff of a hospital he visited near the front. "We, too, have insisted this is a vital necessity and is an essential part of making a peace settlement workable."

The government of secessionist Biafra, whose secession from federal Nigeria nearly two years ago led to the long civil war, announced it also would welcome a visit by Wilson.

The prime minister, who arrived in Nigeria Thursday on a personal campaign to try to stop the fighting and ease the suffering of war victims, flew to Enegu, former capital of Biafra, and now back in federal hands, for a look at relief work being carried out by government forces in captured areas.

Both before and after the visit to the war-torn area, Wilson conferred with Gowon. Sources with his entourage said the two leaders discussed the possibility of a ceasefire.

No dramatic peace move was expected despite a statement by Gowon that Nigeria had never wanted a military solution to the secession.

Peking Troops Launch New Attacks on Soviets

MOSCOW (UPI) — Chinese troops along the Ussuri River frontier have launched new attacks on Soviet border guards, it was reported Friday.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda, in a dispatch from its military correspondent on the scene, also said the Chinese were building a military post a short distance from Damansky Island, scene of two bloody battles earlier this month.

The report by Pravda correspondent Col. Sergei Borzenko was the first mention of new incidents along the border area in nine days. He said the Chinese threw "several mortars on Damansky" and a Chinese patrol "penatrated on the island." No date was given.

"They were stopped by our fire," he said.

The correspondent said he could hear construction work and explosions on the Chinese side of the river where "they are exploding rocks, equipping a command post and setting up lines of communications."

Borzenko pinpointed the site of the new Chinese fortifications as opposite Kirkinsky Island, which lies just north of Damansky Island.

The Soviet lost at least 43 troops in major battles with Chinese forces near Damansky Island March 2 and 15. Numerous sporadic fire exchanges were also reported in recent weeks.

Meanwhile, the Soviets continued their campaign to attract new settlers to the far eastern maritime province which is claimed by the Chinese.

"Yesterday 83 families from the central region of our country arrived in one of the border districts," reported Komsomolskaya Pravda, the Young Communist League newspaper.

"These people arrived in the far eastern part of our fatherland to plough the virgin soil, to erect new buildings, to weld metal and to plant orchards. But if need be, they will take arms into their hands, just like the old families of that district did."

Disease Hits Vietnam GIs

LONDON (Reuters) — The Observer, a Sunday newspaper, reports that in one American military unit in South Vietnam an estimated seven out of 10 men become infected with venereal disease each year. The report says gonorrhea has developed resistance to a whole range of antibiotics.

'68 Tet Executions Uncovered

Marines Record Big Kill

SAIGON (CP) — More than 330 North Vietnamese soldiers have been killed and massive supplies of food and ammunition uncovered in new fighting and tactical operations near the Laotian border, military spokesmen said Friday.

In other war developments, South Vietnamese troops uncovered a mass grave containing the decomposed bodies of 68 persons thought to have been executed by the Viet Cong during the 1968 Tet offensive near the ancient imperial capital of Hue.

The Associated Press reported one official as saying 57 bodies were found.

BIGGEST CLASH

The biggest clash in the new fighting occurred Thursday five miles south of the demilitarized zone between the Vietnams where American marines supported by tanks, armored carriers, artillery and air strikes killed 120 North Vietnamese in an eight-hour battle. A total of 14 marines were killed and 30 wounded, a military spokesman said.

There are 80,000 U.S. marines in the five northern provinces battling to disrupt North Vietnamese infiltration routes across the Laotian border by swooping in on food and ammunition dumps.

THIRD DROP

American paratroops have moved into the area for the third time since April, 1968, to aid in the campaign.

In the last few days, American forces have uncovered 1,000 tons of rice, 125,000 pounds of dynamite, 11,000 mortar shells and 100,000 rounds of ammunition.

An American spokesman said the supplies would have kept a North Vietnamese regiment of 3,000 men operating in the area for nine months.

NEW TANKS

Elsewhere U.S. infantry crushed an attempted North Vietnamese ambush northwest of Saigon Friday with the aid of the new Sheridan tanks that an American congressman has called unsuitable for war in South Vietnam.

U.S. headquarters said 46 North Vietnamese were killed. U.S. losses were given as three killed and six wounded.

Representative Samuel Stratton (Dem. N.Y.) charged in Washington Tuesday that the Sheridan tank, introduced in Vietnam last month, had so many defects it was unsuitable. He said that although the tank is for reconnaissance, it can be heard three miles away, that its exhaust system makes it an easy target and that these and other defects amount to a "billion-dollar boo-boo."

U.S. officers agree there are defects but said they are being overcome and the tanks have increased combat capability.

Hope Not Dead In U.S. Camp

PARIS (UPI) — U. S. negotiators to the Vietnam peace talks still held hopes Friday that the communists would agree to Saigon's offer of secret political talks with the Viet Cong, U.S. delegation sources said.

The American attitude appeared guardedly optimistic despite the National Liberation Front's violent denunciation of Saigon's offer Thursday to discuss the future political shape of South Vietnam.

The front is the political arm of the Viet Cong.

In its stand, backed by the North Vietnamese delegation, the NLF "walked all over" the proposal—in the words of one allied source—made by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

But allied officials in Paris, Washington and Saigon refused to accept the communist stand as a rejection and indicated they had not given up hope.

U.S. delegation sources in Paris said Friday they felt they had not yet had the communists' definitive answer on the issue.

Other sources close to the conference felt that while the NLF may have turned down the specific Thieu proposal, they had not slammed the door to the concept of direct talks with the Saigon government which they term a U.S. "puppet."

Pilots Taking Trip to Cuba

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — The International Federation of Airline Pilots Association decided Thursday to send its leaders to Havana for consultations with the Cuban government on the hijacking of airliners.

The decision was taken on the final day of IFALPA's 24th congress, but no details of the planned Cuban visit were disclosed.

During the eight-day congress, attended by 190 pilots, the congress also voted in favor of IFALPA's taking strong measures against the hijacking of civil aircraft.

Passing of a Hero

WHILE A GALE LASHED the English Channel and advisers hesitated to offer any hope of its abatement, General Dwight Eisenhower pondered the most momentous decision of his lifetime, pacing up and down the room which was headquarters for the mightiest invasion force ever assembled. Unless the storm subsided it might wreck the hopes of the Free World, along with the vast fleet which was to land a quarter-million men and arms to smash into Hitler's Fortress Europe.

On that dark, chill June night the commander-in-chief faced an agony of choice, for if precipitate action risked disaster, delay could be equally costly, not only to morale but in the preservation of the best-kept secret of history ... the Normandie invasion plan.

"Go," he said. And the word went out to the sea and air armadas.

The morning of June 6 dawned clear and bright, with the wind moderating. The Allies were in Europe.

That decision in some sense gave the measure of the man.

In death, he will be remembered as a two-term president of the United States dedicated to the peace of the world as much as for his reputation as a soldier.

But in fact, he was no politician, and had a distaste for the trade. Both Democrats and Republicans wanted him as presidential candidate, which is all the proof needed that he was in no way party-affiliated. In spite of the acceptance of the Republican nomination, he preserved a sort of neutrality in his time in office.

He has left the American people a splendid example of service and devotion to high principles, and the democratic world with an enduring sense of gratitude.

Lost Opportunity?

'ALL OF A SUDDEN, where there were sounds of gunfire on the Sino-Soviet frontier, screaming invective in Moscow and Peking, threats of fearful retaliation, even to the use of nuclear weapons, and one of the wildest propaganda campaigns ever mounted by either side, there is quiet. But it is a silence which might be shattered at any time by new explosions along the long, tense border, for the original causes of recent clashes still remain.

In the light of disclosures made by Mr. Alvin Hamilton Friday there is good reason to believe that the crisis is not yet passed. The former Conservative government minister of agriculture said he was told by China's Premier Chou En-lai in 1964—during his grain selling expedition to Peking—that the Communist government was prepared to take steps to ease relations with the United States, even to the extent of accepting self-determination for the people of Formosa—but it was determined to recover territories which were part of the empire up to 1900, including huge areas ceded by treaty, but under duress, to Soviet Russia.

Moreover, Mr. Hamilton told a closed meeting of the Canada-U.S. inter-parliamentary group as recently as last year that China was getting ready for a major confrontation with the Soviet.

It was, apparently, Premier Chou's intention that Mr. Hamilton should pass this information to the United States in the hope of reaching some sort of understanding with Washington. But there was no American reaction.

It is entirely possible that Russia recognizes the Chinese intentions with respect to its "lost territories." It would follow that the Ussuri river incidents would have a greater significance in Moscow than they had in other capitals.

Some observers of the Asian scene see China as a people of perhaps 800 million in a geographical and political box. Two sides are impenetrable—the sea to the east and the mountains of Central Asia to the west. But to the north and south there is room for manoeuvre.

The Economist, of London, observes: "The Russians in Siberia and the Americans in southeast Asia have shut the door on regions that China considers to be part of its natural sphere of influence. The central question about Chinese policy is which of these two locked doors it will choose to rattle hardest."

It is possible, of course, they might rattle both at once. But, no more than the Soviet would they relish confrontations in two directions. That may explain Premier Chou's evident concern with reaching some sort of rapprochement with the United States, as indicated in his inverview with Mr. Hamilton, back in 1964.

It is permissible to wonder whether that prospect is still valid, and, if so, whether it should be explored. For it would seem to offer all sorts of rewards, not excluding an abatement of pressures on Indi-Burma-Assam and even "an arrangement" in Korea and Vietnam.

Moreover, any progress towards settlement of the rivalries in those dangerous areas could lead to a better bargaining position for the western allies in future dealings with the Warsaw Pact nations. It might not please the Russians, but it could provide useful tools for the architects of lasting peace.

Merit of Demerits

BEFORE THE LEGISLATIVE session opened Mayor Hugh Stephen said there should be some provincial subsidization of the magistrates' courts or a system of cost recovery from motorists receiving demerit points. The municipalities have got both. The province intends to take over the payment of magistrates' salaries and to require motorists appealing violation reports to make deposits for court costs, to be forfeited if the appeals fail.

It remains to be seen, however, if the latter move will achieve one object, of reducing the courts' load of contested traffic cases—which increased greatly when fines went out and demerits leading toward licence suspensions came in.

The likelihood appears to be that the deposit requirement won't make much difference in this trend. Drivers who think they have been wrongly ticketed won't mind making a deposit which they expect to recover, and the rest are not going to be any more concerned about a small deposit than they were about fines in the pre-points-loss days.

If this is so, it will just go to show the deterrent merit of demerits.

Trudeau, Armed With Devastating Power, Shows Impotent Enemies How to Use It

THE Conservatives keep complaining that Prime Minister Trudeau is uncaringly arrogant.

The New Democrats continue crying that he's cynically callous.

The Liberals concede their leader is "different" — and they see this difference in terms only of the prime minister's tremendous parliamentary power and his utter lack of hesitation in using it.

In the plain language of the taxpayer, that translates simply into the PM being a tough guy who knows his own hard mind.

But the BASIC "difference" in this prime minister from some others is that he is the first one to lead a majority government in seven years.

Actually, the way things worked out, he is the first real majority prime minister since Louis St. Laurent.

* * *

For while John Diefenbaker headed a huge majority administration backed by 208 of Parliament's then 265 members from 1958 until '62 when he was whittled down to a losing minority, he never really changed his underdog ways, deep-rooted from 17 unbroken years in the Opposition.

To his utter astonishment he won power in 1957, but it was minority power.

And when a year later he converted it into a majority, it was so immense as to be completely unwieldy, and to the new prime minister, still thinking and acting like an opposition leader, unreal.

He could never never really believe he held more parliamentary power than any prime minister in history, and so he never used it as he could — and perhaps should

So for all practical parliamentary purposes, Trudeau is the first majority prime minister in more than a decade.

And he knows it.

There is no question of Who's-In-Charge.

Nobody, either in his own cabinet or in the Opposition, has challenged him. His ministers don't dare. and the Opposition hasn't learned how.

Indication of his supreme self-confidence has been the building of his staff into a small-scale replica of the White House establishment in Washington.

* * *

When Prime Minister Pearson vacated the East Block, the Privy Council staff numbered 190.

Trudeau is adding another 100, and the cost of the prime ministerial operation has soared to $3,468,000.

Of the 290 Privy Council hands, some 40 are the prime minister's "own" men, the chosen few, the power elite, the confidants, the specialists personally selected by Trudeau himself.

But are 40 all that many for the palace guard?

Well, it's on the record that when Diefenbaker took over in '57, he called for the staff structure of Louis St. Laurent.

It showed just 14, and that included secretaries and stenographers.

So the new "Chief" said he could have no more than 14. To have more might invite criticism.

Now Trudeau has nearly four times that many and NOT counting the secretarial and stenographic hands

And if there is criticism — and there has been some — he simply shrugs it off.

This is power. The understanding of it and the sure knowledge of its use. It makes for security, for greater self-confidence.

So great that the prime minister's posture in Parliament of casual, offhand consideration of opposition attitudes and feelings is being regarded by Tory and Socialist alike as a new outbreak of the political disease of "Liberalitis."

And that is the word they use to capsule the feeling that the Liberals see themselves governing by nothing less than Divine Right.

The symptoms are easy to see.

When he is being heckled — and never very effectively — by the Opposition, the PM is quite capable of sitting down to express his unconcern.

Scornfully he will motion the heckler to take the floor and speak his piece.

This never fails to stop the Opposition cold.

They can be so astonished or enraged by his studied indifference they become tongue-tied. Even Conservative Leader Stanfild can be struck dumb by the prime minister's uncaring cool.

It's been so long, most people on the floor of the Commons have forgotten, or never knew, just how potent majority power can be when in the hands of a toughly confident, hard-headed PM.

I Beg to Differ . . . — By FRANK LOWE

Why Fight Twice If Once Will Do?

FOR years now it has been my policy never to phone home to announce I would be late. Mind you, this caused my wife, and any other wife who knew of this habit, to castigate me as some kind of a matrimonial sadist.

You are all familiar with that wifely plaint:

"The least you could have done was phone — there was the roast getting cold and no word from you. When you're going to be late, you should phone and tell me."

Well, I had a good reason for not phoning. That reason was that I believe a man should never take on two fights when one fight will clear up the matter.

I will explain. The husband who listens to his wife and phones home to say he will be late for dinner is asking for double trouble.

First, he will have a fight when he phones his wife.

Second, he will have a fight when he does get home.

My 'no phone' technique eliminated half of this trouble. By not phoning, I made sure that I would have only one fight—when I eventually reached home.

(And with any luck I wouldn't really understand what this fight was all about anyway.)

But apparently there is something written into the marriage contract—a clause no male eye is able to detect—which obligates a husband to phone home if he is to be late for the evening joint.

* * *

So my wife, and everybody else's wife, it seemed to me, eventually got to me and weakened me to the point where I decided to change my age-old practice.

So the other night, as I chatted with the boys in a small tea room I happen to frequent, someone mentioned that it was nearly seven o'clock.

"My goodness," I exclaimed, spilling some of my cold tea in my nervousness, "I must call my wife and tell her I will be a little late for dinner. You know how wives are—they appreciate these little courtesies."

So I phoned. When my wife answered I said:

"Hello dear—just thought I would call to say . . ."

"You're in jail," my wife shrieked.

"No, no," I assured her. "I merely phoned to say I would be a little late tonight."

"Hah!" she hahed. "A likely story. If you called to see if you can cash a cheques on our joint account, the answer is 'no'. That is, unless the cheque is for less than 50 cents."

I told her again that all I wanted to do was tell her I would be late for dinner.

"But why tonight?" my wife asked suspiciously. "You've been late practically every night for 20 years—so why phone tonight?"

"Look, honey," I said patiently, "for all of those 20 years you have been telling me to phone. 'If only you would phone when you are going to be late,' is what you always said. So now I'm phoning. I'll be late tonight."

There was a lengthy silence and then I heard my wife scream.

"What's the matter?" I yelled into the phone.

"The gravy splashed over into the burner," she replied.

"I don't understand," I said.

"There's only one of me," my wife replied. "When you phoned I was stirring the gravy so I had to bring the phone over to the stove so I could continue to stir—after all, you can't just let gravy sit or it will burn— and while I was listening to you I kept stirring but I was so startled by your phone call I stirred a little too vigorously —and ohhh, now the potatoes have boiled over."

For the next few moments the phone was dead. But eventually my wife came back to say:

"I don't know how you expect me to talk to you and get dinner at the same time. What did you call about?"

"Never mind, dear," I said. "I'll tell you all about it later."

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Spanish Civil War ended 30 years ago today — in 1939 — with a victory for Franco's right-wing rebels. Hitler and Mussolini had aided Franco, while the Soviet Union supported the Loyalists with arms and an international brigade. One unit of the brigade, Mackenzie-Papineau battalion, was made up of several hundred Canadian volunteers.

1943—Meat was rationed in the United States.

1959—Three hundred and five persons died in a four-day storm over Madagascar.

SECOND WORLD WAR: Twenty-five years ago today — in 1944 — strong Pacific fleet forces started attacks on the Japanese held Palau Island. American planes bombed Brunswick, Germany, and the French invasion coast.

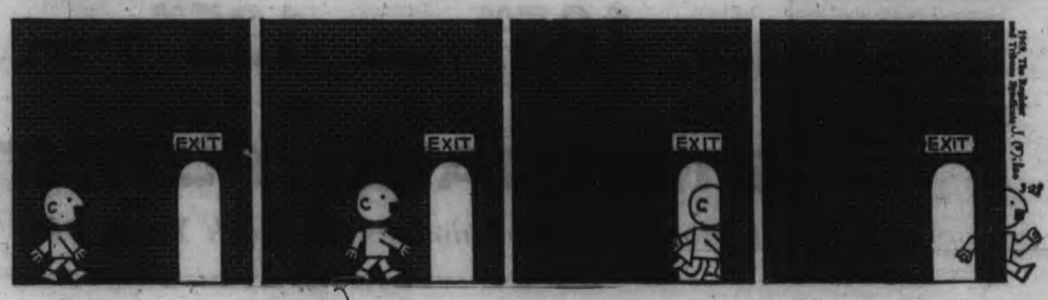
Gone to Pot

From The Albertan

The Gresham's law of language continues on its relentless course, leaving noble words contorted in its wake.

We were momentarily startled the other day, for instance, to read in our favorite newspaper the headline: "Range men eye problems of grass." The story, of course, was about the convention of the American Society of Range Management. But to the modern city-dweller, the combination of "problems" and "grass" tends to conjure up a different sort of range.

PERKINS — by John Miles



For How Long?

Vietnam Endures The Unendurable

By MARQUIS CHILDS, from Tan An, Vietnam

HIS name is Nguyen Van Phan. Two days ago he defected from the Viet Cong force that had infiltrated Long An Province. He says he defected because he found out that what he had been told about a Communist victory after the big Tet offensive a year ago was a lie.

In this one faceless individual, this statistic on the charts of officials plotting the defector program can be summed up much of the ordeal of the Vietnamese people, north and south.

And whether Phan will sooner or later find a place in a peacetime society that will give him the fundamental rewards of life is the question no one can answer with any certainty. If the government in Saigon falls, then Phan will have made a fatal error, for in the Communist take-over he and the other Chieu Hoi (open arms) defectors will be first on the executioner's list.

He looks hardly old enough to be an Eagle Scout. But he has been with the VC, he says, since 1961 when he was 16. His manner is self-possessed, resigned, as though, having at last torn himself out of the tightly controlled net of Communist ideology and discipline, nothing more can happen to him.

Have you ever seen an American before? For the first time in the interrogation there is a slight smile as he looks up at the towering American interrogators. No, never before.

In 1963 he was wounded and sent to a VC field hospital in Cambodia. His left arm and hand are partially paralyzed and there is a great red welt on his upper arm where the wound healed improperly. Yet he returned to his cadre and continued to be a platoon leader — a platoon leader does not carry a weapon — and chief of his Communist cell, or chapter as he calls it. The one thing of value he possesses is a rather exensive-looking wrist watch. He bought it in Cambodia.

* * *

To rehabilitate him will take expert medical care. For the Vietnamese who have been wounded, maimed, burned in the crucible of war adequate medical care is in very short supply. Medicine was close to the primitive before the war. Civilian hospitals are today a shambles, so overcrowded that two or three children, sick or wounded, occupy a single bed. It is one of the unbearable aspects of this seemingly endless conflict.

Those who look beyond the charts, the graphs, the computerized reports, which show progress that may indeed be real progress, ask how much more for all their apparent passivity the Vietnamese can endure. For Phan and the other defectors in the Chieu Hoi rehabilitation centre the immediate future is satisfactory enough. Training classes for the men in masonry, typing, and woodwork are going forward, while for women there is sewing with treadle sewing machines and also nursing care.

During the six weeks to three months they spend in the centre at least two hours a day are devoted to indoctrination. Having been indoctrinated, many become members of the armed propaganda teams that go into unsecured areas to recruit new VC and North Vietnamese defectors. They are also able to finger the Communist caches that in increasing numbers are being uncovered with hundreds of tons of weapons, food and medical supplies. The government of South Vietnam just reported a total of 100,140 defectors since the amnesty program began in 1963, with more than 40,000 serving in the armed propaganda teams.

But the whole structure of Vietnamese life has been so disrupted by the massive American intervention that it is hard to see how this pitiful Humpty-Dumpty can be put together again with any semblance of normal life for the Phans in the hundreds of thousands whose lives have been shattered. For the refugees — at least 750,000 — and the war victims — another two or three hundred thousand in that category — tolerating the intolerable is an endless process.

* * *

It repeats itself with a numbing inevitability as this reporter saw in the aftermath of a VC attack on two villages near the huge American air base at Bien Hoa. At the start of the latest offensive the VC smashed their way into the town of Bien Hoa, blowing a hole in the city wall and for a time holding the principal street.

On the heels of the Bien Hoa destruction two other VC contingents dug into neighboring villages within sight of the vast Bien Hoa air operation. The villagers were Roman Catholics who had come down from North Vietnam after the country was, in effect, partitioned under the Geneva accords of 1954. They had built churches and what by Vietnamese standards were comfortable small houses. An irrigation project had made it possible to raise two or three crops a year.

Once the VC were dug into the villages the military problem was how to get them out without killing all the inhabitants along with the invaders. As the events of that day — the kind of incident repeated over and over throughout the south — are reconstructed, the villagers managed to escape from their houses. All, that is, except one family.

Then the American gun ships and fire ships rained down total destruction with bombs and napalm. The score was 11 civilian dead, 47 VC captured, 40 VC dead. After the bombardment a tempory church with a temporary altar went up first. A school is being built and the villagers have put together crude shacks where their houses once stood.

How many times can this happen? Can it happen in Saigon, that rumor-infested hive where 400 VC sappers are said to be preparing to blow up principal buildings? Will the gun ships and the fire ships rain down their annihilation on the wicked and the innocent alike?

Critical Referendum

France Testing Public Opinion

By JOHN DE ST. JORRE from Paris

THE French government, now seriously worried by the bewildering mixture of confusion and indifference among its own supporters and by the growing cohesion of its opponents, has launched a massive campaign for the referendum on Senate and regional reform.

Gaullist ministers, deputies and party workers, although themselves far from united on the issues and tactics involved, have been instructed to do whatever they can to achieve the triumphant "Oui" for President Charles de Gaulle and his government on April 27.

The prime minister, Mr. Couve de Murville, has shed some of his characteristic "cool" and thrown himself into the fray, even though the campaign has not yet officially started.

Mr. Georges Pompidou, the former prime minister, has had politically significant meals with both General de Gaulle and de Murville and will take an active part in the campaign. A "task force" of competent and dynamic publicity men will help project the government's views throughout the country.

The referendum, although dealing with constitutional and legislative matters, has become a political affair amounting to a popular vote in the government. Whether or not it is also a vote of confidence in General de Gaulle himself will probably not be made clear until his television appearance scheduled to take place just before the referendum.

The latest opinion polls indicate that up to half the electorate has not yet made up its mind about voting and a large proportion may well abstain. The majority of these voters are traditional supporters of President de Gaulle and they are the people who are worrying the government most.

Among them are several important groups, such as the small shopkeepers and businessmen, who are bitterly critical of the government's taxation and fiscal policies. Others, particularly the hard core of the bourgeoisie, have not yet responded to General de Gaulle's apocalyptic but familiar presentation of himself as being the only buffer between anarchy and stability in France.

Mr. Pompidou, popular, a sound conservative and triumphantly successful in the rigorous test of the upheavals last May, is now seen by this group to be an acceptable alternative to the General.

The Gaullist Party is equally divided and confused. Its right wing favors the referendum as an admirable exercise in the autocratic Buonaparte tradition. The Gaullist Centre — by far the largest group in the party — is worried about the erosion of parliament's power and feels that the Senate should not lose its legislative function and that regional reform could and should be dealt with by parliament where the Gaullists possess a huge majority anyway.

Left-wing Gaullists, fierce opponents of Pompidou and loyal followers of the General, support the referendum because they see it as a genuinely democratic method of testing the people's will.

Nobody is predicting the outcome but it seems likely that General de Gaulle will get his "Oui" providing the traditional Gaullists can be persuaded to turn out in force. But what he hopes to achieve by it all, apart from eroding parliamentary institutions still further and bypassing the politicians, is not at all clear.

Committee Breaks Up in Confusion

Gaglardi Tab Sparks More Fire

By IAN STREET

The Legislature's public accounts committee met for an hour Friday before breaking up in utter confusion without coming any closer to resolving the question of who paid former highways minister Phil Gaglardi's hotel bill in Vancouver.

The session was highlighted by an exchange between Opposition Leader Robert Strachan and Trade Minister Waldo Skillings who picked up where they left off in a shouting match in the same committee on the same issue last Wednesday.

Mr. Skillings said the government wasn't trying to hide anything, but he added that further investigation into the matter of Mr. Gaglardi's hotel bill should be carried on in private because oppositon members of the committee had already done "too much playing to the press."

He also charged the opposition had been "trying to get" the former highways minister for the past two years.

"That's a damned falsehood and you know it," shouted Mr. Strachan. "You want the investigation in camera because you want this thing closed up, shut up so that in the Legislature it can be all swept under the rug."

Committee chairman Evan Wolfe (SC—Vancouver) then leapt to his feet, banging his gavel while yelling at the NDP leader: "Will you shut up and let the gentleman speak to the chairman."

Later, Mr. Wolfe told reporters that although he had attempted to obtain a committee decision on the proposal that further inquiries be held in camera, the meeting wound up in "such wild confusion and shouting" he couldn't be sure what action was taken, if any.

Friday's committee session broke up in a general hubbub of charges and countercharges after Mr. Skillings said he was quite willing to support a motion by Liberal leader Patrick McGeer to call departmental controller James McDiarmid as a witness.

In an inter-office memo supplied to the committee Mr. McDiarmid, whose duties as controller for the provincial secretary's department include dealing with expense accounts for ministers without portfolio, gave his version of Mr. Gaglardi's hotel vouchers.

★ ★ ★

"I have discussed this matter with Hon. Gaglardi," the memo stated, "and he is in agreement that the government does not maintain accommodation for him in the Vancouver Hotel. This is a matter between himself and Hotel Vancouver and all accounts are made out in his name.

"Hon. Gaglardi's opinion is, with which I agree, that as long as he keeps within his expense account he is entitled to stay where he wished, (provided the rates are in line with every day accommodation).

"Any expenditure for a hotel room is part of his travelling expense and is incurred while he is on official business."

★ ★ ★

Mr. McDiarmid added: "Indeed I have pointed out to the minister without portfolio that inasmuch as a living allowance is received during a session by all members of the Legislature while the House is sitting, it would not be possible to reimburse him for expenditures from any other appropriation during the sitting of the House.

"Hon. Gaglardi agrees and this office is no longer accepting expense accounts as from the opening of the Legislature."

★ ★ ★

Dr. McGeer said in his opinion the memo "points out by implication" that the practice of Mr. Gaglardi's hotel bill being paid by government during the session was followed in the past, and added that Mr. McDiarmid had indicated that in his judgment this was wrong.

The Liberal leader said it took a great deal of courage to express such views because any civil servant places himself "in jeopardy" if he disapproves any minister's expense account.

Comptroller general C. J. Ferber told the committee he took exception to Dr. McGeer comments, adding that whatever is done by departmental controllers the "ultimate responsibility for ministers' expense accounts is mine."

Mr. Ferber added: "During a session, when a minister has travelled on government business it has always been accepted that he is to be reimbursed. This government has not maintained a hotel room (for Mr. Gaglardi's use).

"We have reimbursed (Mr. Gaglardi) for expenses incurred and the minister has certified he was on government business."

Mr. Skillings supported the comptroller general saying that since he became a minister last June he has found that the civil service never hesitated to "blue pencil" items out of his expense accounts.

The minister told the committee that in all fairness" Mr. Gaglardi had been placed in an invidious position by publicity surrounding his hotel bill for the disputed period of two weeks in March, 1968.

"We must put this into perspective," he said. "This province has a budget of over $1,000,000,000 and here we are arguing about $45."

The Opposition members of the committee chorused: "We're arguing about a principle."

★ ★ ★

Mr. Skillings then made his remarks about "playing for the press" and the opposiotn "trying to get" Mr. Gaglardi over the past two years.

"I'm calling for order, Mr. Chairman," shouted Dave Barrett (NDP—Coquitlam). "The minister is trying to impute motives, he is smearing us. I want him to withdraw."

"I'll withdraw nothing," retorted Mr. Skillings.

Mr. Barrett said later he has several other vouchers to bring before the public accounts committee when it meets again at 10 a.m. Monday and woud propose that a further public meeting be held to discuss these and the unresolved matter involving Mr. Gaglardi.

Stricter Bond Provisions Urged for Strip Mining

New and stricter bonding requirements for strip mining operations were recommended Friday by a committee of the Legislature studying the government's proposed legislation on land reclamation controls.

The committee also recommends that mine operators have the right of appeal to government should they disagree with rulings of civil service inspectors.

Reclamation plans should be approved by the mines minister in consultation with other ministers, particularly the ministers of lands, forests and water resources, recreation and conservation, and agriculture, the report says.

★ ★ ★

The report, filed in the Legislature Friday by chairman Dean Smith (SC—North Peace River), is the result of 12 meetings, and 31 submissions and testimonies from conservationists, mining companies and other interested parties.

The government's bills have already received approval in principle from the Legislature and the committee report will come under consideration as the House undertakes detailed study next week.

As well as the initial bond of up to $500 an acre that the bills would already demand from companies undertaking stripmining operations, additional bonds to cover the total cost of an approved program of reclamation should also be posted with the government, the committee recommends.

★ ★ ★

An appeal procedure wider than the one written in the proposed bill would place disputes between mine inspectors and mining companies before the cabinet, a cabinet committee or another appointed committee. As it stands, the bill makes the mines minister's decision final.

Another proposal by the committee further dilutes the mines minister's discretion on reclamation issues and spreads it over cabinet ministers whose departments deal with matters relating to natural resources and conservation.

This recommendation specifically makes the mines minister responsible for consulting with ministers of lands, forests, water resources, recreation and conservation, and sometimes agriculture, before approving a plan of land reclamation or making revisions to an existing one.

The committee asks that it meet again no later than 1971 and every two years following to review and update the rules in the Coal Mines Regulation Act.

The report says the committee found the most prevalent theme of submissions received to be an agreement that land reclamation should take place but that it should not be so restrictive as to unduly limit mining operations.

Mining companies should have a longer period of time (six months) to prepare a program of reclamation or conservation than the bill now states (three months). The word "restore" should be removed from the legislation and replaced with "reclaim and/or conserve," the report says.

Mining explorations by bulldozers should also be specifically included in the regulations imposed on full-scale mining operations, the report says, but this should be done by order-in-council after the bills are passed by the Legislature.

Another amendment proposed by the committee would make it mandatory for every "colliery" or underground section of a mine to be under continual inspection by a government inspector.

House Committee:

Probe Needed On Farm Tax

A full-scale examination of taxation on farm lands was recommended Friday by a legislative committee studying produce costs and farmers' incomes.

Tabled in the House by committee chairman Willis Jefcoat (SC — Shuswap) the report says taxation was often a "contentious problem" among witnesses and briefs before the committee this session, and the "committee recommends the subject be a matter for study by the select standing committee on agriculture next year."

Taxation on farm lands repeatedly crept into debate in the Legislature during the agriculture department estimates debate and at other times, and was often ruled out of order. The report neglected to mention any specific testimony it may have received because "it is very doubtful this aspect is within the provisions of the committee's terms of study."

★ ★ ★

Matters under the committee's terms of reference included the proportion of retail dollars that producers receive, technology as a benefit or detriment to the producer, and steps that may be taken to bring farmers' income in line with average income in other sectors of the economy.

★ ★ ★

The committee said the producers' return varies from 70 per cent on fresh eggs to 2 per cent on potato chips, "but according to federal reports, he (the farmer) receives a smaller percentage than 10 years ago."

The committee also said technology "has improved his take-home pay position," but the major benefits of technology have gone to the consumer.

The report urges "consolidation" of existing marketing boards to improve their organizations and administrative powers. Bulk purchasing has already shown itself to be advantageous, the report says.

★ ★ ★

The boards "should review unduly severe regulations regarding local distribution of farm produce to local consumers and retailers adjacent to marketing areas."

A further recommendation is that "an immediate approach be made by the provincial government to the federal government with the intention of clarifying the areas of co-operation with a view of defining the production of oyster growing as an agricultural activity," and that the government should "endeavor to provide the oyster grower with a more bona fide security of tenure for his foreshore ground lease."

Learned Lots

MPs Tour Bonnie At Dock

CP, from Halifax

Members of the Commons public accounts committee Friday described as "shocking" the cost estimates prepared by the federal defence production department for a recent $13,000,000 refit of the aircraft carrier Bonaventure.

Committee chairman Alfred Hales, Conservative MP for Wellington, said the committee "learned plenty" in a three-hour inspection of the ship at the naval dockyard here.

Norman Cafix, Liberal member for Ontario, produced a sheaf of what he said were defence production work specifications and estimates. They showed such figures as $776.60 for expected cost of fixing a drawer and putting new hinges on a metal wardrobe aboard the ship.

Hales said the estimates were so out of line as to be "scandalous for the modest kind of repairs involved." The work was done in refurbishing crew accommodations aboard the carrier.

Twenty committee members came here Thursday to inspect the Bonaventure and the experimental hydrofoil submarine chaser Bras D'Or.

'Mature' Clause

Nurses Applaud Change in Act

Recently enacted changes in the Registered Nurses Act by the B.C. Legislature, allowing colleges to apply their mature-student clause to nursing education courses, were welcomed Friday by the Registered Nurses Association of B.C.

Until now, there was only one way for nurses to get the necessary training and that was through a hospital course, the association said.

★ ★ ★

"The changes have enabled colleges to accept students for nursing education courses under the mature-student program, provided they have the necessary academic qualifications," said a spokesman.

She said there had been some misunderstandings and misconceptions regarding the legislative changes.

★ ★ ★

Many people had been under the impression that "just about anyone who is old enough" could now enroll in a nursing education course.

"Of course, that's not so. Just like before, students have to have the proper qualifications, but the college has now the freedom to decide whether or not a person qualifies."

Standards of training would not be lowered, and no changes had been made in the entrance requirements to schools of nursing operated by hospitals, she said.

Canada Aids U.S. Research

Secret Out After 11 Years

CP, from Ottawa

Canada has been doing secret research for 11 years for an American counter-missile system, informed sources said Friday.

This research at the Canadian Armament Research and Development Establishment near Quebec City will continue for another 18 months to two years, the sources said.

The research has been conducted by teams from Canada's defence research board and the U.S. defence department's advanced research projects agancy. Most of it has been paid for by the U.S.

In response to inquiries by The Canadian Press, the board said in a statement that the results of the investigations have been "extremely useful in the detection and recognition of ballistic missiles during the re-entry phase into the earth's atmosphere."

Sources said all information gleaned from investigations at the research centre have been passed on to the U.S.

Prime Minister Trudeau discussed with President Nixon in Washington earlier this week the American Safeguard counter-missile system to be started in Montana and North Dakota.

Trudeau has said Canada reserves the right, to condemn the system if it considers it to represent an increase in the nuclear arms race. He has said the problem is "moral" as well as political.

★ ★ ★

The Canadian research has involved construction of hypersonic gas tunnels in which upper atmospheric conditions can be simulated.

Missile models are fired down the tunnel ranges at hypervelocities.

The board said that missile models leave "signatures" through the turbulence they create in the simulated upper atmosphere.

Thus research into detection of missiles has concentrated on study of the turbulent wakes they leave in near space.

The Safeguard system employs two counter-missiles: the long-range Spartan which can climb nearly 400 miles into outer space and the short-range Sprint which would operate in the earth's upper atmosphere.

It is believed that Canadian research has dealt more with the Sprint side of Safeguard than with the Spartan aspect.

Youth's 'Shocking' Record Longer

A youth, with a "shocking" criminal record for breaking, entering and theft and for the possession of stolen property in Alberta, was sentenced to three years in penitentiary Friday by Magistrate William Ostler in Central Magistrate's Court when he admitted breaking and entering with intent.

Court was told that at 1:20 a.m. March 22 Ronald Quiring of 1631 Kings climbed on to the roof of Victoria Collision, 1321 Quadra and gained entry into the premises by removing a plate of glass on the roof.

UNDER CAR

Police said Quiring was found lying beneath a car inside the building.

Crown counsel Peter Birkett told court that Quiring had several previous convictions in Alberta for breaking, entering and theft, the possession of stolen property and false pretences.

He also said Quiring was currently on parole for a two-year sentence imposed in 1967 in Alberta.

Magistrate Ostler told the accused: "You have a shocking record."

□

It took three constables to restrain and handcuff 17-year-old Sylvester Gutkowski of 1025 Nicholson, following a struggle on the sidewalk March 11 at Douglas and Yates, Magistrate Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre was told.

HIGHER COURT

Gutkowski pleaded not guilty to assaulting a peace officer and was transferred to the adult court from the juvenile court earlier this month.

Constable Walter Sagert testified that he noticed Gutkowski was shouting at Douglas and Yates about 7 p.m.

Constable Sagert said that Gutkowski used abusive language. And he was placed under arrest for causing a disturbance.

Constable Sagert told court that Gutkowski had swung away and then kicked him. A struggle ensued and he and another constable had difficulties in restraining Gutkowski.

NO RESPONSE

At one time, Constable Sagert said, he shouted to the large crowd of people that had gathered for assistance, but there was no response.

During the struggle, the witness said, he was kicked and punched several times by Gutkowski, receiving injuries to his back, fingers and face.

A third constable arrived shortly afterwards and they managed to press Gutkowski onto the ground and handcuffed him, court was told.

In his defence, Gutkowski said he had been drinking before the incident, and he could not remember clearly what had happened.

He said the reason why he "kicked like a mule" was that he was trying to get loose when the police grabbed him.

He admitted he disliked the police as he had had trouble with them before.

The magistrate found him guilty and remanded him to April 3 for a pre-sentence report.

□

Magistrate Ostler was told at the trial of John Vosper charged with fraud, that the defendant purchased an $89.50 watch with an account card from a department store and pawned it later the same day for $30.

A Victoria department store sales clerk testified that Vosper bought the watch in the jewelry department of the store on Jan. 24 with an account card in the name of J. Bradshaw of Edmonton.

Henry Gutovich, a pawn broker, told court Vosper entered his shop at 7 p.m. Jan. 24 and pawned the watch for $30. At that time, the witness said, Vosper told him he needed the fare to return to Edmonton.

After evidence was given by other employees of the store and police officers, defence counsel David Wilson submitted that the charge should be dismissed on the ground that there was no evidence that the store had suffered a loss from the alleged fraud.

Magistrate Ostler reserved judgment until April 2.

□

Three youths admitted consuming liquor Thursday in a car in Oak Bay and were each fined $50 or one month by Magistrate Ostler.

They were Frederick Low of 626 Dunedin, Karl Rice of 2554 Shakespear, and Albert Thiebeault of 2700 Scott.

□

Fined $25 each or five days for causing a disturbance on Victoria streets Thursday were Edna Gladu and Francis King of 1140 Government and Anthony Ranger of no fixed address.

□

For impaired driving, Lloyd Konopski of 790 Hutchinson and Howard Leverington of 731 Goldstream were each fined $300 or 30 days by Magistrate Joseph Byers.

Their drivers licences were also suspended for four months.

Rabies Report Awaited

Four-year-old Andrew England of East Sooke Road remains in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph's Hospital after he was viciously attacked Monday by his dog.

Meanwhile, Victoria health officials are awaiting a report from the federal animal pathology institute in Vancouver which is examining the dog's brain for rabies.

Although there is only a slim chance the test will have a positive result indicating the disease, the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health is somewhat concerned.

"We'd still like to find out as soon as possible, but I'm afraid it will take another few days," the board said Friday.

Without provocation, the dog attacked the boy and tore a piece off his scalp.

Mrs. England was bitten in the shoulder when she tried to pull the animal away from her son. She managed to lock the dog into the basement, but it broke loose later and was shot by a neighbor on advice of police.

Rabies is a disease that normally occurs in wild animals only. If not treated properly, it can be fatal to humans.

Indecency Leads To Prison

A 60-year-old man pleaded guilty Friday to committing an act of gross indecency with a 12-year-old girl, and was sentenced to three years in penitentiary by Magistrate William Ostler in Central Magistrate's Court.

Police told court that, between Sept. 1 and Oct. 31, Cyril Jackman of 1168 Oscar had a number of photographs taken with the girl in his apartment on Yates with a camera equipped with a self-timer.

The girl had been delivering newspapers to Jackman's apartment for some time. The pictures were found in an album when police visited Jackman about another matter.

Crown counsel Peter Birkett said Jackman had two earlier convictions for indecent exposure and for contributing to juvenile delinquency.

The firm of Clark & Pattison came into being some 16 years ago as painting contractors in the City of Victoria. Progressing from a two-man partnership, they now employ 25 or more, and the business embraces in addition to painting contracts, steel scaffold rentals and sales, and a complete paint store featuring quality products of four major paint manufacturers. The original premises at 760 Princess came under the Urban Renewal and Rose Street Extension plan and this year the new building was completed on Bay Street across from the Armory. The firm pioneered in the concept of painting the high and difficult portions of a home, giving the home-owner the opportunity to complete the less difficult portions himself.

The new Color Centre, with its colorful rotating sign, is a focal point of attention on Rose Street at Bay, with ample parking on the large blacktop frontage.

B.C. Fills Car Insurance Liability Gap

responsibility to provide compulsory coverage for everyone at the lowest possible cost. He promised that an NDP government would provide government insurance and claimed that with a uniform premium rate, the new basic coverage could be sold efficiently by vending machines.

NEXT ELECTION

"I'll wager that the government will not proclaim this legislation before the next election," Mr. Hartley said. "It's an election hoax and the government will go down to defeat on this issue, just as the Coalition did in 1952 because of their mishandling of hospital insurance."

He was made to withdraw the reference to "election hoax" by order of the speaker.

Garde Gardom (L-Point Grey) called the legislation "Dr. Peterson's sugar-coated Panic Pill" and claimed that a woolly approach to the property damage issue means that the cost of premiums for "the total package" will be much higher than the government is willing to admit.

PRIVATE FIRMS

Mr. Gardom said a Liberal government would allow private firms to tender for provision of basic no-fault coverage which would be handled by a government agency.

He added the government-controlled scheme should provide the same coverage against property damage — between $500 and $5,000 — that are now provided in the province under the Traffic Victims Indemnity Fund. Mr. Gardom also proposed the legislation be held over for study until the next session.

RATES CITED

Mr. Peterson gave the Legislature the following comparison of liability insurance rates for the common type of motorist, which he defined as an owner driver who uses his car for pleasure, including travelling to and from work, with a three-year accident-free record. The car is not used by anyone under 25.

"For $50,000 liability coverage, the existing rate in Vancouver is $85 and in Victoria $52," the attorney-general said. "Under the proposed insurance plan in this bill, the rates of insurance in Vancouver would be $61 and in Victoria $41 — a reduction of 28 per cent and 21 per cent, respectively."

STUDENT'S CAR

He added that a 20-year-old university student in Vancouver, with an older car which doesn't require collision coverage, could expect a reduction of about 30 per cent in his premium rates under the new scheme.

Mr. Peterson said there was no cost estimate on third-party liability coverage of property damage up to the $250 limit of court action.

"Our first thought," the attorney-general said, "was that this ($250) should be paid out of the negligent driver's own pocket. The legislation prevented insurance coverage of this risk.

'NO REASON'

"However, on further reflection we see no reason why a person should not be able to buy such insurance if he wants to pay the cost. This will be purely voluntary."

He told the House: "It is estimated that the average motorist, if there is such a person, who has collision and comprehensive coverage, will experience a net reduction in insurance costs from approximately 5 per cent to 10 per cent."

IN WINDUP

Mr. Peterson said when B.C. drivers apply for licence plates in 1970, they will be required to supply the motor vehicle office with the name of their insurer and policy number.

Winding up the debate, Mr. Peterson said he "repudiates" the suggestion by Mr. Hartley that Insurance Superintendent Tom Cantell was "playing politics" by speaking to reporters in favor of the bill.

Mr. Hartley interjected, "He had no right to go to the newspapers."

Mr. Peterson said the Liberal party members had suggested that the $250 limit on suits for recovery of property damage should have been $500. "I thought $500 was too high and that's why I changed it to $250," Mr. Peterson said.

"I have said all along that you could have the same kind of collision insurance today as you had before," he added.

Mr. Peterson said he was "not suggesting for a moment," that the whole bill was drafted after the legislative committee report was filed. There was consultation with actuary experts, he said, for the general purpose of the bill.

He called the opposition estimates of rate increases "100 per cent or more out." This was "political propaganda," Mr. Peterson said, and "I assure you my estimates are very close."

He said that 99 per cent of the claims on incidental property damage of the kind Mr. Gardom mentioned are already covered in other insurance policies.

whom I'm licenced as an agent, cancelling my contract, as of April 1. No doubt this will make some MLAs happy and possibly the insurance industry happy as well."

The NDP's long-standing policy on insurance is pro-government and anti-company.

NOT NEW

Mr. Hartley told the House this kind of experience wasn't entirely new to him, recalling that after he first sought election as a member of the CCF he was dismissed by the now defunct B.C. Electric.

Mr. Gaglardi complained to the speaker that Opposition Leader Robert Strachan had pointed at him during Mr. Hartley's statement, indicating that the minister was responsible for the NDP member's dismissal. He denied the charge.

NOT NAMED

Garde Gardom (L-Point Grey) said if what Mr. Hartley alleged was true it was "absolutely disgraceful" and suggested the NDP member name the company and say it had dismissed him for political reasons.

Soldier's Heart Stilled

his mentor had exerted for a quarter of a century "a moral authority seldom equalled in American life.

"As long as free men cherish their freedom," Nixon said, "Dwight Eisenhower will stand with them, as he stood during war and peace—strong, confident, and courageous. Even in death he has left us a great spirit that will never die."

HALF-STAFF

By presidential order, the American flag will fly at half-staff across the world for 30 days.

First word of general's death came from Brig.-Gen. Frederic Hughes, commandant of Walter Reed army hospital in nearby Bethesda, Md., that had been Eisenhower's home since last spring. Ike suffered his fifth, sixth and seventh heart attacks there in 1968 and was believed near death last August.

HEART FAILURE

The blow that ultimately brought him down was congestive heart failure, diminishing the flow of blood through his weakened body.

His wife, Mamie Doud Eisenhower, and members of the immediate family were nearby when Eisenhower died in his third-floor presidential suite.

Nixon cancelled all appointments for the next five days and went immediately from the White House to the hospital with his wife and eldest daughter, Tricia.

The only living former presidents — Democrats Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson — paid their tributes.

COMRADES-IN-ARMS

In Independence, Mo., the 84-year-old Truman, whom Eisenhower succeeded in 1952 after a bitter political campaign against Democrat Adlai Stevenson, said he and Eisenhower "became political opponents, but before that we were comrades-in-arms, and I cannot forget his services to his country and to Western civilization. . . . He must be long and gratefully remembered."

'GIANT OF AGE'

From the LBJ Ranch in Texas came tribute from the man who worked with the Republican president as leader of the Democratic majority in the Senate—and eventually became president himself:

"A giant of our age is gone . . . I treasured him always as my close and lasting friend. His death leaves an empty place in my heart as it will in the hearts of men and women everywhere. America will be a lonely land without him but America will always be a better nation—stronger, safer, more conscious of its heritage, more certain of its destiny—because Ike was with us when America needed him."

Several hundred persons gathered about the hospital entrance to watch quietly.

LIKE KENNEDY

The U.S. capital prepared for a state funeral similar in some respects to the solemn rites for President John Kennedy in November, 1963.

Plans for the funeral have been in print since February, 1966. Eisenhower himself approved them. They are detailed down to the last salute.

Dignitaries from around the world are expected to attend.

Ike's funeral begins today when the body will be moved from Gawler's Funeral Home to the Bethlehem Chapel of the National Cathedral. The church is Episcopal (Anglican), although Eisenhower was a Presbyterian.

The body will lie in repose there for 24 hours after a brief, relatively private service. A guard of honor of enlisted military men and non-commissioned officers will be posted about the coffin.

Late Sunday morning, a hearse will carry the body to a point on Constitution Avenue in sight of the White House. There it will be transferred to a horse-drawn caisson, which will transport it to the U.S. Capitol in a grand procession.

Cannon will thunder 21-gun salutes. The rumble of muffled drums and the flourishes of military bands will accompany the procession. Air force planes will fly overhead. A riderless black horse, boots reversed in the stirrups, will trail the caisson.

FINAL RITES

The former president's body will lie in state in the Capitol Rotunda nearly 24 hours before being borne back to the National Cathedral on Monday for the final Washington services.

Toward dusk, a train bearing the body will pull out of Union Station for a slow journey across half the continent to Kansas.

The burial will be Wednesday in a small chapel in the Eisenhower Centre after a brief, private service.

SEVEN ATTACKS

Eisenhower had fought off seven heart attacks in 13 years. The first struck Sept. 4, 1955; the last in August, 1968.

Even his doctors thought him to be at death's door last August. He had entered Walter Reed after his fourth attack in April, just after finishing a round of golf in California.

When he rallied last August, the army surgeon-general said it was "almost approaching the proportions of a miracle."

Ike was considered on the mend in February when the doctors discovered an intestinal obstruction caused by scar tissue from earlier surgery. In the full knowledge of the risk he was taking, the general accepted "with equanimity" their decision to operate.

PNEUMONIA NEXT

The sorely tested heart held. The former president came out of the surgery satisfactorily, then successfully turned back a bout of pneumonia in one lung.

His recovery had reached a point where the hospital had stopped issuing regular medical bulletins, when Mamie Eisenhower, who had been staying in an adjacent suite, remarked at a party last week that her husband had had a bad day.

Queries to the hospital brought the news that Eisenhower was suffering from congestive heart failure. The heart, taking in blood from the veins, was failing to empty completely on contraction. Blood was not getting through the vessels. Moisture was accumulating in the lungs.

WEST POINTER

Born in near poverty in Denison, Tex., Oct. 14, 1890, Eisenhower came from a Fundamentalist, deeply religious household. He attended the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., and as most army officers between the world wars, remained in obscurity.

A full-fledged hero after the war, Eisenhower shucked his uniform to become president of Columbia University, New York. But President Truman had other ideas and handed him one military assignment after another.

He became supreme commander of Allied NATO forces in Europe once more—this time in peace, seeking to hold back Soviet advances in Europe.

SOUGHT AS CANDIDATE

In 1948, Democrats and Republicans sought him as a presidential candidate. But Eisenhower did not like partisan politics and said as much—even sticking to it after winning the presidency.

The Republicans prevailed upon him, nevertheless, to go after the party's nomination in 1952 and he won it after a spirited convention battle with Senator Robert Taft. He swept into office with a victory over Adlai Stevenson and beat him again for re-election in 1956.

His presidency, compared with some, was not dramatic.

KOREAN WAR

Eisenhower presided over the end of the Korean War, ordered federal troops into Little Rock, Ark., to enforce school desegregation orders, and supported his controversial secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, in the cold war policy called "brinkmanship."

During the Eisenhower years, communism got a foothold near the United States in Fidel Castro's Cuba; The Russians launched Sputnik and the space age, and an American U-2 spy plane was shot down over Russia, prompting Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to torpedo a summit meeting with Eisenhower in Paris.

Leaving the White House in January, 1961, Eisenhower happily got his military rank back and preferred to be called "General" rather than "Mr. President."

PHOTOGENIC QUALITY was often displayed by Dwight and Mamie Eisenhower, as witness this 1961 Associated Press photograph. It was snapped at moment that train taking them to Gettysburg, Pa., home from California stopped suddenly while they signed autographs.

World Mourns Eisenhower

First in War, Peace First in Our Hearts

President Nixon Friday visited the hospital where Gen. Dwight Eisenhower died and said the former president's greatness came from an unwavering sense of duty and dedication to doing what he thought was right.

The president said Eisenhower "held a unique place in America's history and in its heart and in the hearts of people the world over."

Nixon said it was necessary to reach back two centuries, to the first president, George Washington, to find another American who was "a citizen, first in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen."

★ ★ ★

"Dwight Eisenhower was selfless," said Nixon. "He was devoted to the common cause of humanity, to his beloved country, and to his family and friends. He was both a great man and a good man. To millions the world over he was a symbol of decency and hope."

From Ottawa, Prime Minister Trudeau sent a message to Nixon that "the government and people of Canada share with you and your countrymen a sense of grief and deep loss at the death of Dwight Eisenhower."

In a message sent to Mr. Dwight Eisenhower, Trudeau expressed "heartfelt sympathy of the government and people of Canada at this sad time."

★ ★ ★

Opposition Leader Stanfield was "saddened to learn" of the death, saying Eisenhower had "won our respect as a leader of free people, even before he sought elective office."

Elsewhere around the world, there were many sympathetic reactions.

● In Britain, Queen Elizabeth said Eisenhower's death "will be keenly felt not only by all America, but also by the people of Britain and the Commonwealth.

"He will always be warmly remembered here for his presence among us in the war years as a great soldier and leader of the Allied forces and later, especially during his two terms as president of the United States of America, for his statesmanship," the Queen added.

● "The United States has lost a great soldier and important president," said an official statement by Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democratic party in West Germany.

In a condolence telegram to Nixon, Kiesinger said "we honor the memory of this great American who after the Second World War was indefatigably working for the safeguarding of peace and freedom in the world and who, in pursuing these great goals, had furthered close and confident co-operation between our two peoples."

● At the Vatican, a spokesman for Pope Paul said the pontiff was grieved at the death of Eisenhower and was praying "for the repose of his soul."

● In the first official public Soviet reaction, Jacob Malik, Moscow's UN delegate, called Eisenhower a "great statesman and soldier" and a leader who "evinced great wisdom."

● German generals, crushed in the Second World War, lauded him for being a "chivalrous military commander, who did not misuse the right of the victor as a pretext for force."

● A discordant note was struck by East Germany, as its official news agency described the general as one of the most stubborn defenders of cold war politics. It accused him of causing the breakdown of the 1962 world summit conference in Paris by sending U-2 spy planes over the Soviet Union.

● Major stock exchanges across the U.S. will be closed Monday, declared by Nixon an official national day of mourning.

Ike Prepared Plans If Invasion Failed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former president Eisenhower "was a man ready to take the consequence of decision," Richard Nixon said Friday.

As proof, he offered a statement the general had prepared in case the D-Day invasion of Europe failed. It read:

"Our landings in the Cherbourg-Havre area have failed to gain a satisfactory foothold and I have withdrawn the troops. My decision to attack at this time and place was based upon the best information available. The troops, the air and navy did all that bravery and devotion to duty could do. If any blame or fault is attached to the attempt it is mine alone."

Father Figure to All, Except Military

By JAMES M. MINIFIE
Former CBC Washington correspondent

Dwight D. Eisenhower was a father figure to millions of Americans, who sought his opinions on war and peace as assiduously as the post-Waterloo generation of Britons sought those of the Duke of Wellington.

The military were privately less enthusiastic about their former commander-in-chief, except as a useful crow-bar for prying military supply out of economy-minded Congressmen. Many field officers were senior to Col. Eisenhower when he was chosen over their heads by Gen. George C. Marshall to command the forces of the western allies.

★ ★ ★

These former mess-mates scoffed at Gen. Eisenhower's claim to be a political innocent, and resented his tolerance for extroverts like Gen. George Patton, whose exploits in Sicily, France and Germany irked his more conventional though perhaps less successful colleagues.

The armed services particularly disliked President Eisenhower's farewell warning to beware of the power and influence of the military-industrial complex. This, they felt, was biting the hand which had fed, clothed, housed and medicated him since he was 17 and was capable of injuring their own claims to comparable benefits.

In military affairs Gen. Eisenhower had a talent for picking capable staff officers. He gave them responsibility, authority and full support, and they repaid him with unquestioning devotion. Men like Omar Bradley and Bedell Smith could speak and act for him in full assurance of approval. They were a loyal family.

★ ★ ★

There was a deeply affectionate relationship also between President Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles, his Secretary of State, and Richard Nixon, his running mate in two successful campaigns. He put in Mr. Dulles the same trust that he gave his staff. They talked over problems of government together by the fire in the White House in the evening. It ended by Mr. Dulles formulating policy and President Eisenhower trying to popularize it.

He sometimes submitted to extraordinary public correction, when he had inadvertently given a wrong impression of what Mr. Dulles had in mind. For instance, after the neutrality of Austria had been proclaimed, President Eisenhower wondered aloud to his press conference whether such a good principle could not be more widely applied in central Europe.

The line had barely appeared on the ticker before the German ambassador was over at the State Department in a mood of concern and distress. In time for the afternoon papers the State Department explained that the President had not quite meant what the wire copy seemed to imply. What he meant was that the neutrality principle was fine for Austria, provided those untrustworthy Russians respected it, but it should not be carried any further. And that was that. Chancellor Adenauer breathed more freely.

Dwight Eisenhower and Richard Nixon were like father and son, except that there seemed to be no conflict between the generations. Both were instinctively conservative, proud of the old order, committed to what they understood to be the American way of life.

Gen. Eisenhower saved Mr. Nixon's political life when a storm blew up over his alleged personal use of campaign funds. His dog Checkers was pressed into service, but Mr. Nixon's salvation was not assured until Gen. Eisenhower put his arm around his shoulder in a loving gesture which disarmed criticism.

A second stamp of approval came when President Eisenhower chose Mr. Nixon as his running mate for the second term. He relied heavily on Vice-President Nixon's political savvy and his instinct for the old order.

Mr. Dulles at State completed the old-order team during his life, and it turned out in force for Mr. Dulles's funeral. Beside the open grave under a yellow-wood tree in Arlington National Cemetery sat President and Mrs. Eisenhower, Vice-President and Mrs. Nixon, correct, reverent but impassive in the sunshine. To one side of them sat Chancellor Adenauer, stony-faced and dour, and the beautiful Madame Chiang Kai Shek. The living old order saluted their dead.

★ ★ ★

With President Eisenhower gone, President Nixon now has to deal alone with a world in which everything the old order revered is questioned. But his native political intuition has been sharpened by eight years of close association with a great if instinctive politician, and it will not be surprising if the fatherly influence of President Eisenhower lives on in the man whose political fortune he did so much to establish.

Both Parties Wanted Him as Candidate

Grin, Nickname Gave Ike Fame

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

WASHINGTON (AP)—From the day he entered West Point to the day he left the White House 50 years later, Dwight David Eisenhower achieved personal popularity seldom matched in the United States. His grin and folksy nickname were his hallmarks.

There was a simple plainsman's eloquence about Eisenhower that touched Americans. He had no flair as an orator, little sophisticated wit, and no flamboyance.

But "I Like Ike" was a national sentiment—so much so that the Democratic and Republican parties both sought to make him president, even while his political persuasion was unknown.

★ ★ ★

He was the only Republican president in a generation. And his party controlled the House of Representatives for only two of his eight years in office, yet he rolled up majorities matched previously only by Franklin D. Roosevelt in his first two terms.

He was a career soldier who called war "this damnable thing;" who said he hoped to see "people in my profession permanently put out of a job."

It was characteristic of Eisenhower that in his speech to the 1968 Republican national convention—piped to the delegates from his hospital room—he subordinated politics to a plea for "travelling the pathways of peace, with honor and justice."

★ ★ ★

Peace and honor. The words surfaced again and again in a brilliant career that was a succession of peaks with few valleys: general of the army, allied commander-in-chief for North Africa, commanding general of Allied powers in the European theatre, chief of staff of the U.S. Army, president of Columbia University, two terms as president of the United States.

Always he spoke of the strength of America. "Let us first remind ourselves of the greatness of this nation and its people," he told the Republican convention. "Let's not waste time this year searching out someone to blame, even though some seem more disposed to concede rather than to stand firmly for America."

Less than 12 hours after he spoke, Eisenhower was stricken with his third heart attack of the year—the sixth one since 1955.

Eisenhower, 34th president of the United States, was the third of the seven sons of David and Ida Stover Eisenhower. One of his brothers, Paul, died in infancy; the others were successes in their own right: Arthur, a banker; Edgar, a lawyer; Earl, an electrical engineer; Milton, a government official and college president; and Roy, a druggist.

★ ★ ★

Their grandfather travelled west with the wagon trains in 1878 and settled near Abilene, Kan. Their father failed with his general store and moved his family to Denison, Tex., where Dwight was born Oct. 14, 1890. A year later the family returned to Abilene and the father took a job in a creamery.

Young Eisenhower graduated 61st in a class of 164 from West Point in 1915. As a lieutenant at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., he met a Denver girl, Mamie Geneva Doud at a party. They were married July 1, 1916. A son, Dwight Doud, born a year later, died of scarlet fever at three. A second son, John Sheldon Doud, followed his father to West Point.

★ ★ ★

In the 1930s, then Maj. Eisenhower accompanied Gen. Douglas MacArthur to the Philippines. Early in the Second World War, he came to the attention of Gen. George C. Marshall, the army chief of staff, who summoned Eisenhower to Washington. Ike was sent to London to make recommendations about the organization and development of American forces in Europe. To his surprise, he was named to the European Theatre command with orders to execute his own plan.

Eisenhower first headed the expeditionary force to North Africa in 1942 and early the next year was made commander-in-chief of all Allied forces in the North African campaign.

In 1943, Eisenhower was named Allied commander for the invasion of Europe. D-Day came on June 6, 1944.

He directed the Allied forces to victory over Germany and presided over surrender ceremonies. Soon after, he returned to Washington to become army chief of staff, holding the post until 1948 when he became president of Columbia University.

But President Harry Truman summoned him to Washington to serve temporarily as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Later he took a longer leave of absence to organize and command North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces.

The affection the country felt for Ike paid off in the 1952 election. He had a plurality of more than 6,500,000 votes over Democrat Adlai Stevenson, carrying 39 of the 48 states. He did even better in his 1956 re-election, topping Stevenson by 9,500,000 votes.

The Korean War was ended by an armistice in Eisenhower's first term after a dramatic visit to South Korea before his inauguration.

It was in the Eisenhower years that both the United States and Russia developed hydrogen bombs, engaging in a grim race for superiority. It was also the time when the Space Age dawned with unmanned satellites. Man travelled under atomic power under the sea for the first time.

★ ★ ★

In 1954 the Supreme Court declared the segregation of schools to be unconstitutional.

Three years later, Eisenhower became the first president since the Reconstruction period after the Civil War to use federal troops to enforce a court order—the integration of schools in Little Rock, Ark.

The United States, under Eisenhower, severed relations with Cuba after Fidel Castro's revolution, but it did not support the Hungarian uprising.

Eisenhower sent Marines to Lebanon at that country's request after a coup in neighboring Iraq. But he criticized Britain and France after their attack on Egypt.

★ ★ ★

In the twilight of his second term, the United States and Russia appeared to be moving closer than at any time since the Second World War toward the detente that Eisenhower so long had sought.

Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev had visited the U.S. and asked Eisenhower to visit his country. A summit conference was planned.

Then, May 1, 1960, disaster struck. A U-2 spy plane piloted by Francis Gary Powers was shot down over Soviet Russia.

An angered Khrushchev scuttled the Paris summit before it got started and the uproar that ensued cast a shadow that lingered until the end of Eisenhower's term of office.

He married Mamie Doud back in 1916

High Lumber Cost Rocks Continent

Recent increases in the price of lumber have put $1,000 on to the cost of building a $20,000 home, according to a Canadian construction company's estimates, bringing criticism upon the forest industry, not only in B.C. but elsewhere on the continent.

In the U.S. Senate investigators are probing into the why and wherefore of the abnormal rise in prices.

Plywood, which sold a few months ago at under $80, recently reached a peak at $142 per thousand square feet. Green two-by-fours have risen from $70 to $132.

The senators have asked if the U.S. import duty on plywood was reduced, could Canada supply enough to influence the market.

The facts are, of course, that lumber and plywood prices in Canada and the U.S. are relatively the same, allowing for the difference in dollar values.

Indeed, in the past two weeks the move toward lower prices has not come from Canada but from Oregon.

A Roseburg, Oregon plywood manufacturer recently cut the plywood price from $142 to $118, and since then confused merchants and distributors have been anxiously waiting to see if the new lower price will stick.

Buyers, meantime, are living on their inventories and manufacturers unwilling to sell at the new levels are curtailing production.

In Canada there have been mumblings from Ottawa that the Canadian forest industry is not doing its best to hold the line on prices. Both Forest Minister Jack Davis and Housing Minister Paul Hellyer have been critical.

One of the lumber barons offended by this criticism was J. V. Clyne, chairman of MacMillan-Bloedel.

In an open letter to Davis, Mr. Clyne strongly denied the minister's reported remarks that the lumber industry was gouging the public with its new price structure.

Mr. Clyne said lumber prices were not controlled by Canadian or British Columbian producers, but by world markets.

"If the prices of lumber went up in the U.S., they had to go up in Canada too," he said.

"If producers in British Columbia combined to reduce the price of lumber, such action would be ineffective and possibly illegal."

Mr. Clyne did not say who would raise the legal difficulties, but he did deny that the increase in lumber prices was putting $1,000 on to the price of a $20,000 home, but something between $280 and $385 for the average house.

And to expiate his industry from the brunt of the blame he added, "Rising land costs and taxes would affect the price by many times that amount."

However, spokesmen for the B.C. lumber industry said that if U.S. lumber prices continued to decline, Canadian prices would go down correspondingly.

So far there was no sign of a reduction in Canadian prices, and there were signs of a halt in the declining trend of U.S. prices.

L. L. G. Bentley of Canadian Forest Products did not believe lumber prices would fall far.

DIVIDEND RESUMED

Happy days are here again for the preferred shareholders of Columbia Cellulose Co. Ltd.

Directors have approved the payment of a 90-cent dividend on the preferred shares on April 30.

Dividends on these shares were stopped last September and the deferred dividend of 90 cents will cover payment for the past three quarters and bring the issue back up to its obligations.

Improving performance has made the cash available for the payout, the directors state.

PLACE TO SAVE

Stuck with a loss of $8,667,461 in the last three months of 1968, Great Canadian Oil Sands is planning to save an annual $8,700,000 in interest money by retiring the 7-per-cent note it owes to the company's parent, Sun Oil of Philadelphia.

Great Canadian, pioneering extraction of oil from the Athabaska tar sands, is planning to raise the required funds through the sale of 3,000,000 preferred shares with a par value of $100.

Further details of the offer are not available, but Kenneth Heldon, president, told the annual general meeting the new shares would not pay the 7-per-cent dividend until the company starts making a profit.

The extremely cold winter and other troubles beset Great Canadian during the past few months, and although the prospects were brighter, the company would require substantial sums this year for operating expenses.

Sun Oil has put about $295,000,000 into the development.

During 1968, Great Canadian managed to produce only half of the amount allowed by the Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board.

BELL MOVES WELL

Bond prices were steadier this week, and the new Bell Telephone 8-per-cent issue is reported to have moved well.

In the money market, short-term rates were easier, with the government of Canada borrowing at a yield of 6.58 per cent on its 91-day bills. The previous week the yield had been 6.63 per cent.

February Housing Starts Soaring

OTTAWA (CP) — A surge in apartment building last month pushed housing starts to a new height which Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. regards as peak activity.

The government housing agency reported Friday that construction on 10,974 dwelling units started in February, two-thirds more than during February, 1968.

Adjusted for seasonal factors, the February building rate projects to a pace of 293,000 dwelling starts a year, an acceleration from the projected rates of 245,600 in January and 231,000 in the final three months of last year.

"This high rate of activity seems unlikely to be sustained," CMHC comments.

All the increase in February from January was in starts of apartments and other multiple-unit dwellings, mainly in Toronto and Vancouver.

Airline Loses Horse Suit

VANCOUVER (CP) — Judgment for $35,000 was awarded in British Columbia Supreme Court Friday to the owners of a harness racing horse killed aboard an aircraft when it broke from its stall and endangered the plane and crew.

Mr. Justice Peter Seaton gave judgment in favor of United International Stables, Ltd., against Pacific Western Airlines Ltd., for the loss of the stallion Vanderford in May, 1965.

Justice Seaton said in his ruling that no one suggests that the aircraft captain's decision to destroy the horse was unwise under the circumstances.

But he said the height of the stall provided by the airline was inadequate and this was a direct cause of the loss of the stallion.

According to evidence the horse climbed over the side of his stall and at one stage of the flight actually pushed its head into the pilot's compartment of the aircraft which was carrying the stallion and five other horses from New Zealand to Canada.

The stable provided handlers equipped with tranquillizers but the stallion became uncontrollable.

The judge said the defendant failed to take all reasonably necessary measures to avoid damage that was clearly avoidable by the exercise of reasonable skill and care.

Automobile Group Mushrooms

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Automobile Association reached a record membership during 1968 and boosted its income by almost $300,000, the BCAA annual meeting was told here Thursday.

Membership increased by 15,490 to 186,133 for the largest yearly gain in its 63-year history and increased the income by $297,733 to a total of $1,990,387.

Vancouver Getting Huge Crane

VANCOUVER (CP) — The National Harbors Board Friday announced it has awarded the contract for building Vancouver's first container crane to the city firm of Canron Ltd.

The 40-ton crane, to cost about $867,300, will bring the city up to port of Montreal standards when it goes into operation a year from this week.

Evans Provides Punch, Cougars Square Series

By KEVAN HULL

Victoria Cougars 7, Lethbridge Sugar Kings 5, and the best-of-seven junior hockey series is tied at two games apiece. But without Grant Evans for Cougars—forget it.

The red-headed centre was the lone bright beacon for the home club Friday at Memorial Arena as Victoria bounced back in the B.C.-Alberta Memorial Cup series before 4323 fans, a record crowd for junior hockey here.

Fifth game of the series goes tonight at Memorial Arena at 8:30 p.m. and tickets for Monday's game will go on sale following the game. Seventh game, if necessary, will be played Tuesday.

FIVE-POINT DISPLAY

Playing with the confidence which was missing in the two games in Lethbridge, the slick stickhandler followed up his improved Wednesday performance with a tremendous effort.

Blanked in the first game of the series and held to two assists in the second, Evans scored three times Friday to bring his output to five goals for the two game in Victoria.

He also set up John Van Horlick for two goals to figure in five of Victoria's six goals in the first two periods.

And Cougars needed all the help they could get from their scoring star as they were again horribly sloppy around goalkeeper Ron Grahame and did their best to let Sugar Kings back in the game.

SCORES OPENER

Evans, who scored 51 goals in the regular season and an additional six in the B.C. playoffs, got Cougars off to the lead for the first time in the series with a perfect pass to defenceman Van Horlick on a give-and-go play.

Van Horlick sped in over the blueline and beat Don Hall with a hard drive to the long side at nine minutes for the only first-period goal.

Evans then gave Cougars the lead they needed with three spectacular rushes in the second period to score on breakways in each case.

He boosted the margin to 2-0 early in the period when he burst around Larry Bignell and pulled Hall easily.

The victim on the other two goals was captain Craig Simmons, who was left flat-footed and struggling in both instances.

KINGS STAGE RALLY

And the third goal was a giant one, coming with Cougars shorthanded and tiring mentally if not physically. That made it 6-2 going into the final 20 minutes and Lethbridge made it close with their best burst of the game in the opening 10 minutes.

But for the first time in the series, the breaks appeared to be coming Victoria's way despite sloppy play by the defence through much of the game, and failure of wingers, with the notable exception of Reg Cherenko, from playing their positions.

KNIBBS SCORES TWICE

Persistent forechecking by Adrian Blais enabled Lon Miles to sandwich the Victoria insurance goal between opportunist goals by Sugar Kings' Darrel Knibbs, the Alberta league's scoring champion.

Dave Shardlow, scoring on a power play, brought Kings to within two goals at 7:21 of the period but Grahame, slightly off form from his fine performances earlier in the series, stopped the visitors the rest of the way.

SCORES ON RICOCHET

Doug Gibson, who had only one shift in Wednesday's game, scored the fifth Cougar goal unexpectedly when his passout from behind the net went in off Hall's skate.

Simmons and pesky leftwinger Gary Paskuski socred the second-period goals for Lethbridge.

It was the poorest performance of the series for the usually hard-skating Sugar Kings.

CAME OUT HITTING

This was largely due to the fact that Victoria came out hitting from the start for the first time against Lethbridge. Laurie Moore and Murray Kennett did most of the job and Sugar Kings couldn't get rolling.

Referee Al Paradise allowed a lot of leeway in the hitting department and most of the penalties in the most rugged game of the series came for retaliation.

FIRST PERIOD

Stops:

Grahame (V)	6	14	9—29
Hall (L)	8	9	13—30

Attendance 4323.

Cougars' Ron Grahame, a series standout, stopped Darrel Knibbs (10) of Lethbridge on this first-period play, with the help of John Van Horlick (3), but the Sugar King star did his best to spark a rally with two third-period goals. Cougars held on to win, 7-5.—(Jim Ryan)

JIM TANG

No sport demands the perfection that curling demands from a skip. He must be infallible in his reading of ice, his strategy must be good enough to work even if he gets six straight misses, he must never miss his last rock and he must have the ability to inspire confidence and faith in the three critics who have condescended to let him call the shots.

Faith is a tangible intangible — intangible when it's there but, as one skip discovered during the recent men's bonspiel at the Victoria Curling Club, quite tangible when it's missing.

It matters but little that the signal-caller in this little story could be called a skip only because two of his crew signed up near the end of a cheer-filled evening and that the third member joined up later because he never realized that an appearance among the prizewinners the previous year was one of those unlikely events which happen from time to time in any sport.

Filled with enthusiasm and good will because of the unexpected series of events which put him on the teehead, he impulsively invited the out-of-town member of his rink to be his house guest during the bonspiel. And he understood when his rinkmate, who likes nothing better than sleep and wanted to retain his independence in this important (to him) matter, preferred the privacy of a motel.

Well, things went along swimmingly once bonspiel play started. There were five successive defeats but no one panicked although one more miss would have meant elimination. Loose as ever, the motley combination finally broke its losing streak on Saturday morning, left the ice about midnight quite effectively concealing its wonderment about a second straight win which had put it in the eights of the last event.

There was no elation, just the satisfaction of having avoided acute embarrassment. It was just as well. On the way to the locker room, the "import" asked if the invitation to be a house guest was still open.

"I checked out this morning," he explained quickly to break the pregnant silence which followed.

Although he had the grace to blush, there is no doubt but that this shattering disclosure, the tangible about faith, was the reason for the sixth defeat and the elimination which followed Sunday morning.

But one can say this for "Big Dick." The former Victorian took it in good part and assured his rinkmates that he had never enjoyed a bonspiel more before heading home for Nanaimo to resume his work as an agent for a Vancouver Island brewery. No, I'm not going to tell you who he is. Not even a skip could be so callous.

B.C. LIONS are hoping to be able to do their pre-season training at Royal Roads for a third consecutive year but could, it's been reported, wind up at the University of Victoria . . . Bob Laycoe, the University of British Columbia student who recently won the Canadian freestyle heavyweight championship, is the son of Hal Laycoe, the Western Hockey League's most-successful coach. Bob is also considered quite a football prospect but would be rated as an 'import' by the Canadian Football League because he played his high school football in the U.S. The fact that he is Canadian-born and that the Laycoes have retained their Canadian citizenship doesn't count under those strange CFL rules . . . New York Rangers will play to an all-time high of more than 610,000 home-game fans this season. In keeping with the NHL practice of milking down to the last drop, ticket prices are due for another boost next season. And it's the same story in Boston, where the Bruins are also planning an increase in prices although they bumped their top seats from $5 to $8 this season . . . he probably won't win the honor but the coach of the season in the NHL could well be Emile Francis, who got the Rangers straightened out and into the Stanley Cup playdowns . . . John Bate is rated a chance to become a passable curler but he's convinced, and so is everybody else, that he'll never cut it as a bonspieler . . . heard again is the rumor that Toronto Maple Leafs may be sold to the Columbia Broadcasting System, which already owns baseball's New York Yankees . . . Wally Weinberger, recent Victoria addition from Kitimat, must be the best double-threat bowler in these parts. He took a 263 average into The Daily Colonist's Vancouver Island Fivepin Bonspiel and has a 173 average for the matching tenpin event which starts Thursday at Mayfair Lanes . . . it will be at least another year before there is the chance of the unlikely sight of the winner's jacket at the Masters being draped on a Negro golfer. Charlie Sifford didn't make it this year on the point system used to determine who should be invited, and he lost his chance when former champions, who have the right to select one entrant, made Bob Murphy their choice . . . Boston Bruins, who appear likely to meet the Maple Leafs in first-round Stanley Cup play, haven't won a game in Toronto since Nov. 27, 1965. Bruins lost 0-2 and 4-7 and played to 1-1 and 5-5 ties in their four games in Maple Leaf Gardens this season.

Kings Build Series Lead

DAUPHIN — Dauphin Kings of the Manitoba league came from behind a 2-1 first-period deficit Friday to defeat Fort William Hurricanes, 7-3, and take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Western Canada junior hockey semifinals.

Sunday Sport Amendment Approved

A bill to permit Sunday sport received third and final reading in the British Columbia legislature Friday.

The amendment to the existing Municipal Act was among a number of changes in a bill introduced by Dan Campbell, Municipal affairs minister, and cleared in committee earlier this week.

Subject to a 60 per cent favorable referendum, municipalities will be permitted to pass local bylaws for public sport and entertainment with admission fees after 1:30 p.m. on Sundays.

Horse racing is specifically excepted from the permissive legislation.

Al Thibeault Gets Trophy

Al Thibeault of the juvenile Victoria Nixon's Trucking who was judged the player best combining sportmanship and ability in local minor hockey play this season was presented with the Kelly Memorial Trophy Friday.

The presentation was made by Doug Fletcher, prominent Victoria sportsman, during the second intermission at the Victoria-Lethbridge junior game.

City Teams Win, Lose

SALMON ARM — Victoria Metropolitan boys team won and Victoria First United Sneakers girls team lost in four-team double-knockout British Columbia bantam basketball tournaments here Friday.

Metropolitans edged Penticton Pogos, 49-47, and meet Vancouver Winston Churchill at 10:30 this morning. Jim Nemec led the winners with 17 points.

Sneakers were defeated, 53-44, by Salmon Arm Jacks.

Czechs Trim Russians Again

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Czechoslovakia defeated Russia, 4-3, Friday night in a highly-emotional game in the world hockey championship, a result which left the Czech team one point away from clinching the title.

The Czechs, now leading the Russians by two points with one game left for each club, will win their first title in 20 years if they can tie or defeat Sweden in their last game on Sunday.

Defeat against Sweden would almost certainly allow Russia to retain the championship. The Russians finish Sunday against Canada and are overwhelming favorites to score their eighth victory.

Sweden could create a three-way tie by defeating the U.S. team today and Czechoslovakia

A sellout crowd of 10,144 fans, on Sunday. The title would then be decided on the difference in goals for and against, and the Russians have a huge margin, almost all of them cheering lustily for the Czechs, watched the drama in Johanneshov Stadium.

Few of them expected that the Czechs could repeat the 2-0 win they scored over the Russians earlier in the tournament but as the game neared its end with Czechoslovakia ahead, the clamor grew in intensity.

PARTISAN CROWD

As was the case in the first game last week, the partisan Swedish fans set up a chant of "Dubcek, Dubcek," for Communist leader Alexander Dubcek as the game ended.

Overjoyed Czech fans mobbed their team when the game was over and centre Josef Golonka lay flat on his face shouting with joy while his teammates sent helmets flying into the air, kicked over their goal and pounded their star goalkeeper, Vladimir Dzurila.

POLICE EVERYWHERE

Armed police were in evidence everywhere throughout the stadium but Friday's game lacked the tension and political undertones so evident in the bruising first tussle between the two teams.

There were minor isolated scuffles but the game was cleanly played, referees Olle Dahlberg of Sweden and Marcel Viallancourt of Canada calling only seven penalties, four against Russia.

For the second time, however, the Czechs refused to shake hands with the Russians at the end of the game.

The Czechs were never behind in scoring their third straight win over the Russians — a streak which started with a 5-4 win in the 1968 Olympic Games.

Victory was a particular triumph for the Holik brothers, Jaroslav, 27, and Jiri, 25.

EARLY LEAD

The younger Holik, who also had two assists, scored the first goal of the game while Jaroslav, who set up his brother's goal, scored what was to be the winning goal in the third period.

The determined, fast-skating Czechs broke on top with two first-period goals. Jiri Holik got his goal at 14:16 by beating the off-color Victor Zinger with an angled 30-foot shot and Vaclav Nedomansky followed with a power-play goal at 19:13.

Outshooting their opponents, 12-6, the Russians made the second period their best.

Valery Charlamov cut the lead in two in the second minute and Anatoly Firsov got his 10th goal of the tournament on a power-play at 13 minutes to send the clubs into the third period at 2-2.

But the Czechs made a comeback of their own in the last 20 minutes. Defenceman Josef Horesovsky put them ahead at 1:50 with a low shot from the blue line and Jaroslav Holik scored at 10:41.

Dzurila, playing superbly behind the tenacious defensive support from there, yielded only to Alexander Ragulin, at 17:37.

The Czechs won the world championship in 1949 by defeating Canada's Sudbury Wolves, who finished second, 3-2.

Today's Canada - Finland game will be telecast at 4 p.m. and film of the Russia-Czechoslovakia game will be shown at 11:30 p.m., both on Channel 8.

Foreign Players Grab Spotlight

TORONTO — Foreign stars dominated the opening day of the Canadian open badminton championships Friday.

Sture Johnsson, Sweden's No. 1 singles player since 1964, eliminated Canadian closed champion Jamie Paulson to advance to the semifinals along with Rudy Hartona of Indonesia and brothers Tan Aik Mong and Tan Aik Huang of Malaysia.

WORL DCHAMPION

Hartona, world champion for the last two years, ousted Cannarong Ratana-Suang-Seang, Calgary coach from Thailand, who is U.S. national champion. Mong outlasted Ippei Kojima of Japnn while Huang got by Muljadi of Indonesia.

Six-time Canadian closed singles champion Wayne Macdonnell, who won his opening match against Robert McCoig, later lost to Muljadi.

Former Victorians Judy Rollick and Allison Daysmith advanced to the women's singles semifinals along with Eva Twedberg of Sweden, who defeated Sharon Whittaker of Vancouver, and Retno Koestijan of Indonesia.

Bruce Rollick, who lost to Hartona in the first round of the singles, and wife Judy were eliminated in the mixed doubles by Hartona and Maida Barnett of Calgary, who later lost to Marge Shedd of Toronto and Jim Carnwath of Woodstock.

Miss Retno and Ng Boom Bee also reached the mixed doubles semifinal, by defeating Rolf Paterson and Mimi Nilsson of Vancouver.

Mrs. Rollick and Mrs. Nilsson advanced to the semifinals of the women's doubles where they will meet Miss Retno and Miss Minarni. Miss Shedd and Barbara Hood of Toronto, and Nancy Lynch and Nancy McKinley, also of Toronto, reached the other semifinal.

Accent Will Be on Speed At Sandown Race Meet

Spring racing means that the accent is more than ever on speed, and that's the way it'll be for the second successive year at Sandown Park.

Stan Goddard, racing secretary for the B.C. Jockey Club, yesterday made the expected announcement that all eight races on opening day — Saturday, April 5 — will be three and a half furlongs.

That includes the Colonist Handicap. The opening-day feature is expected to draw a field which will include Yankee Fighter, Louk, Never Charge, In Solid, Hard To Forget, Hermine's King, Milact and Indian Bug.

Because training was set back for five or six weeks by unusual weather, most of the early races will probably be over the three-and-a-half furlong distance but six or six-and-a-half furlong races will dot the program as the meeting progresses.

Featured riding performer is expected to be Mary Cowan, 32-year-old mother of three who has applied for a riding licence.

Mrs. Cowan will have a lot of good opposition to overcome before she can make her first trip into the winners' circle. Other riders expected for the meeting include Frank Barroby, leading rider in B.C. last year; Brian McLeod, top apprentice in B.C. last year; Kerry Sam, Basil Frazier, Maurice Milne, Ronnie and Jim Arnold, Jim Broomfield, Jim Dailey, Charlie Ulrich, Les Parsons, Gene Salsa, Raphael Estapper, Tim Evans, Al Ventrella and Jimmy Gilbert.

Racing is scheduled each Friday and Saturday until the last day of the 10-day meeting on Monday, May 5.

First post time each day is a 2 p.m. and buses will leave downtown Victoria each racing day from 12 noon. Season tickets for the Sandown meeting, priced at $6, are now available at the Century Inn.

Murphy Takes Lead With Red-Hot Putter

MIAMI (AP) — Bob Murphy, a part-time watermelon salesman from Bartow, Fla., Friday re-discovered the putting stroke that made him pro golf's top rookie last year, and swept into the halfway lead of the $200,000 National Airlines Open with a score of 135, nine under par.

The former national amateur champion exploded four birdies in a row, eight for the day, and putted brilliantly for a six-under-par 66, tying the course record.

He moved a single stroke ahead of wiry Dale Douglass, who scrambled out of traps and from behind trees for a 68 and a 36-hole 136, with Lionel Hebert and Butch Baird, both 68-69, trailing at 137.

Tied at 138 were five players: former Masters champion Gay Brewer, 69-69; Australian Bruce Crampton, 68-70; Terry Wilcox, 69-69; Terry Hill, 71-67; and darkhorse Dick Rhyan, 71-67.

Jack Nicklaus, who will be the favorite in the Masters two weeks hence, had three sixes, including a two-over par at the 12th, where he drove out of bounds, and shot himself out of the tournament with a 75 after an opening 73.

With 148, Nicklaus failed to survive the 36-hole cut. Seventy-three players with 146 and better will play in the final two rounds today and Sunday.

Fred Marti	73-68	141
Ken Still	73-68	141
Bert Greene	72-69	141

Old Sam Snead continued to delight the oldsters by rallying from hte brink of a blowup for a 72 and a score of 139, five under. This put him in a strong position tied with young DeWitt Weaver, the first-round leader, who put a 73 on top of his record 66 of Friday, and Howie Johnson, with 69-70.

Al Balding led the Canadian contingent with his second 72 while Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg carded 74 for 145. George Knudson of Winnipeg missed the cut as did Ken Fulton of Trail and Alvie Thompson of Toronto. They had 149, 150 and 154, respectively.

Barabara Jo No Godiva

BALTIMORE (AP) — Barbara Jo Rubin, the leading female jockey in the U.S., has rejected offers to ride in the $10,000 Lady Godiva handicap, an all-girl stakes scheduled for Suffolk Downs April 19.

"Barbara Jo has made a place for herself among all jockeys," trainer Bryan Webb, Miss Rubin's contract holder, said Thursday of the 18-year-old who has won 11 thoroughbred races.

"She has nothing to prove by riding against girls," Webb said.

Suspension Results In O'Keefe Shuffle

Coach Bill Abbott of Victoria O'Keefes has had to do a bit of shuffling for today's Pacific Coast Soccer League game in Vancouver with North Shore Luckies.

Halfback Brian Robinson has been handed a one-game suspension for his part in a fracas with Firefighters' Louis Trischuk two weeks ago and will have to sit out the important game. The two clubs are in the fight for the final playoff berth with Westminster Labatts.

Bruce Twamley, back from his ankle injury, will take Robinson's place on the defensive line of the four-two-four formation with George Paul and Peter Brett working as the link men.

Alcindor Picks Milwaukee

NEW YORK (AP)—Lew Alcindor, possibly the most sought-after college basketball player in history, has decided to sign with Milwaukee Bucks of the National Basketball Association, he disclosed Friday night in an interview on a New York radio station.

"I had to weigh two decisions, the ABA American Basketball Association and the NBA, and the NBA seemed most solid and sound," Alcindor said.

Alcindor, the 7-foot-1½ three-time All-American from UCLA, did not reveal the terms of the contract, which was rumored to be a multi-year pact approaching $1,000,000.

Joins Stamps

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference today announced the signing of Paul Maki, a quarterback and defensive halfback from Lakeland College in Sheboygan, Wisc. Maki, six-foot-three and 195 pounds, is the 11th player the Stampeders have signed for the 1969 season.

Montreal Blasts Champion Tigers

The fledgling Montreal Expos scored seven runs in the eighth inning to trounce the world champion Detroit Tigers 8-0 in exhibition baseball Friday.

It was the fourth straight exhibition loss for the Tigers and their 10th setback in the last 12 games.

Lefty John Hiller was the victim of the Montreal expansion team's seven-run outburst after the Expos had nursed a 1-0 lead. Then came seven hits, one walk and an error giving Expos their biggest inning of the spring.

Winning pitcher Bill Stoneman hurled the first inning; and relievers Skip Guinn and Carroll Sembera teamed with Stoneman for the two-hit shutout.

Expos May Have Trouble Staging Opener

MONTREAL (CP) — Lew Martin, director of operations for Montreal Expos of baseball's National League, said Friday the club may find it "tough, real tough" to stage its scheduled home opener here against St. Louis Cardinals April 14.

Martin said Montreal's first-ever major league game conceivably could be postponed if the city's unseasonable spring weather doesn't improve—and in a hurry.

Martin said the lingering winter conditions have placed "a distinct hardship" on the construction crews working on the 28,450-seat, city-owned Jarry Park which will serve as home grounds for the Expos.

Continued snow flurries and winter temperatures have prevented the necessary drying-out period for the actual playing field and while Friday was a sunny day with the temperature in the high 30s, Martin said the long-range weather forecasts remain ominous.

"Any further delays caused by the weather could force postponement of our home opener," Martin said. "We must have eight to 10 days of good warm weather in the next two weeks to allow our new field to dry out.

"It is extremely hard and could become unplayable if the frost doesn't get out of it in a hurry," he added.

Libel Fines Paid By Hippie Paper

VANCOUVER — Fines totalling $1,500 were paid by the hippie newspaper Georgia Straight, editor Dan McLeod and writer Robert Cummings, just minutes before a court deadline expired.

The fines were for libel against Vancouver Magistrate Lawrence Eckardt last July. Only hours after they were paid, RCMP in Richmond seized a number of copies of the paper's March 21-27 edition and charged Kirk Norman Day, 21, with possessing obcene written material for the purpose of distribution.

□

The Valley ford Caradon, British UN representative, arrived on the tiny Caribbean island of Anguilla and almost immediately promised to have the rebel islanders' problems "straightened out" by Monday.

□

OTTAWA — Conservative lawyer-MP Eldon Woolliams demanded the resignation of Transport Minister Paul Hellyer and Rural Development Minister Jean Marchand for leaking information by videc-taping an announcement about a new Montreal airport before the Commons learned of it. Speaker Lucien Lamoureux delayed a decision until he can hear the two ministers' views.

□

HOLLYWOOD — Tom Smothers of the Smothers Brothers said they will continue their television show next fall despite what he said was a CBS refusal to relax censorship.

□

KARLSRUHE — The West German supreme court ruled the director of the Nazi propaganda film Triumph of Will is not entitled to receive payments for use of the film. The court rejected the claim of Leni Riefenstahl, 66, at one time Adolph Hitler's favorite film director, that Swedish producers of an anti-nazi documentary pay her $12,500 because they used excerpts.

Peninsula

Concert Nicely Varied

By BERT BINNY

The Peninsula Concert Orchestra, substantially aided by the Metchosin Choral Group, staged its fifth annual concert at Royal Oak junior high school Friday.

Both these organizations are conducted by Derek McDermot. The program was not only well chosen but also nicely varied, with Brahms, Beethoven and Benjamin Britten.

★ ★ ★

In fact, with Britten's Simple Symphony, the orchestra was at its best; incisive and purposeful. Another pleasing item was the combination of the Metchosin Choir and the orchestra string section in two Bach chorales.

There were occasions when a slight lack of cohesion became apparent in orchestra selections and there was some doubtful intonation in the choir rendition of Brahm's How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place.

★ ★ ★

A Menuetto from Mozart's Quintet in A major for clarinet and strings was a feature of the second half along with a 16th century chorale by the choir and the brass.

The concert was well attended and well worth attending.

Prostitute Calm, Lawyer Tells Court

TORONTO (CP) — The lawyers for Judge Lucien Kurata and the commission of inquiry into his behavior will open their submissions when the inquiry resumes April 2.

The eighth and last day of evidence-taking ended Friday with testimony from Lucien Kurata Jr., 18, and a young lawyer.

The lawyer, Bernard Cugelman, said he was introduced to Mrs. Catharine Lossberry last Nov. 1 at about the same moment she claimed earlier this week to have been propositioned in the judge's chambers.

Cugelman, 29, in his second year of practice, testified he attended the cross-examination of Mrs. Lonsberry because he knew her and because he admired Arthur Maloney, counsel for Judge Kurata.

Mrs. Lonsberry, 24, testified Tuesday she had been awaiting trial on charges of theft and fraud outside No. 33 Court in Toronto's old city hall Nov. 1 when Judge Kurata led her to his office and asked her to do him a favor.

In cross-examination Wednesday by Maloney, Mrs. Lonsberry set the time of the incident at about 9:30 a.m.

After this cross-examination, Cugelman said, he went to Maloney and said he had been introduced to Mrs. Lonsberry by her co-defendant whom he was representing at the same time. The coincidence, he said, only occurred to him as he listened to the testimony.

Cugelman told the inquiry Mrs. Lonsberry was not out of his sight for the next 20 minutes and she appeared "completely unperturbed about anything."

He said he came forward to Maloney because "her evidence just did not jibe with my recollection."

Judge Kurata's son told the inquiry he had been playing football with his father a few hours before the judge is alleged to have attempted suicide last Sept. 1.

He said he found his father in a state of near-collapse when he went into the house to ask to borrow the family car. His father said he was feeling sick, the son testified, and he helped him lie down on the floor before calling for help from a neighbor and for an ambulance.

He thought his father had taken a stroke, he told the judge's associate lawyer, Gordon Ecclestone.

Judge Kurata, in his own testimony, maintained he had taken two sleeping pills, two tranquilizers and two or three ounces of brandy to help him sleep. He said he could not remember anything until the next day when he woke up in hospital.

Winnipeg Cardinal First in West

VATICAN CITY (CP) — Most Rev. George Flahiff, 63, archbishop of Winnipeg, will become Western Canada's first cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church at a Vatican consistory April 28.

Flahiff, among 35 new cardinals nominated by Pope Paul Friday, will be Canada's fourth cardinal, the highest number in history.

The Pope named 33 of the 35 cardinals. It was indicated the other two are from communist countries.

★ ★ ★

Flahiff, whose ancestors came from Ireland, was born in Paris, Ont., and thought of a career in diplomacy when he was a student of history tutor Lester Pearson. But the priesthood won out and he was ordained in 1930, becoming archbishop of Winnipeg in 1961.

He was the third of eight children. His sister Margaret of

Flahiff

Halifax is secretary-general of the Sisters of Mercy.

The other 32 cardinals designate:

Most Rev. Paul Yu Pin, archbishop of Nanking, China, currently residing in Formosa; Most Rev. Julio Rosales, archbishop of Cebu, the Philippines; Most Rev. Alfredo Vicente Scherer, archbishop of Porto Alegre, Brazil; Most Rev. John Deardon, archbishop of Detroit.

★ ★ ★

Most Rev. Terence Cook, archbishop of New York; Most Rev. Gordon Gray, archbishop of St. Andrews and Edinburgh, Scotland; Most Rev. Joseph Walula, archbishop of The Congo and the third black African cardinal; Most Rev. Francois Marty, archbishop of Paris.

Most Rev. John Wright, bishop of Pittsburgh; Most Rev. Paul Gouyon, archbishop of Rennes, France; Most Rev. Mario Casariego, archbishop of Guatemala City; Most Rev. Vicente Henrique Tarancon, Archbishop of Toledo, Spain.

Nonbelief Parley

Fight Promised To Halt Trend

ROME (LAT) — The historic Vatican conference on nonbelief has ended with a commitment from Pope Paul to try to halt the trend away from God.

"We also are contestants," Paul told delegates to the conference, choosing the name usually applied to demonstrators and activists in the turbulent movements for social reform.

But he gave no clue that he could accept the untraditional interpretations on belief and nonbelief that emerged from the conference.

He specifically challenged Dr. Harvey Cox, an American Protestant theologian at the conference, whose views on secularization also had been singled out for criticism by the Pope in a speech in Bogota last August.

"We have been looking forward to meeting you," the Pope said to Cox. "We are fighting against you, but we read your books with great interest."

Cox was left speechless, but said, he is planning to pursue the matter with a letter to the Pope explaining his views.

Contradictions of the six-day conference and the papal audience left experts convinced the work of the conference probably would be continued on a permanent basis but no immediate impact could be expected on the top leadership of the church.

The Vatican secretariat is expected to establish an international committee. Details will be worked out at a meeting in New York in May.

Church Chronicle

Former Kuper Principal Joins Oblate Council

A former principal of Kuper Island Indian residential school — Father Herbert Dunlop — has been named first western assistant director of INDIANNESCOM, the Oblate Indian-Eskimo council of Canada.

The Roman Catholic priest has had 20 years' experience in the field of Indian education in the province, having also been principal of Indian schools at Sechelt and Mission City.

INDIANESCOM, which has its headquarters in Ottawa, represents all the oblate bishops and provincial superiors in Canada who have Indians and Eskimos within their religious jurisdiction. Its purpose is to provide a service for all Catholic Church authorities and the Indian Affairs Branch in their work among the native peoples.

In his new assignment the Oblate father is providing a communication service between the church and the Indian Affairs Branch in western Canada. He also acts as coordinator of programs and policies for the 19 Indian student residences and boarding schools directed by the Oblate Fathers in B.C., Alberta and the Yukon.

His office is located at 2015 West 8th Ave., Vancouver.

The Singing Ambassadors from Multnomah School of the Bible will give a program of inspirational music at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Central Baptist Church, 833 Pandora.

The group comprises 16 students of the school in Portland, Ore., and is travelling in the area as part of a 17-day tour of western Washington and southwestern British Columbia. Director of the group is Frank Eaton.

□

A special Palm Sunday service will be held at 10:30 a.m. in St. Matthias Church with the blessing and distribution of palm crosses.

The crosses are made by ladies of the Altar Guild. Church school will be held as usual.

On Maundy Thursday, April 3, a rice and tea supper will be held in the parish hall. It will start with a film at 6 p.m. dealing with the problems of the hungry. Supper will follow. All those attending are asked to bring a bowl and mug for their rice and tea or coffee.

After supper the events of the Upper Room will be recalled by the rector, Canon Jack Rogers, followed by Holy Communion. On Good Friday, two services will be held — a children's and family service at 9:30 a.m. and meditations on the Cross at 10:30 a.m.

□

The sacred cantata The Darkest Hour by Harold Moore will be sung by the augmented choir of Belmont Avenue United Church under the direction of Bert Storar at 11 a.m. Good Friday.

□

A church family service will be held in St. Luke's Anglican Church at 9:30 a.m. Good Friday.

The service is planned to enable parents and children to worship together as families. At 11 a.m. the Good Friday liturgy will be celebrated and the Passion According to St. John will be read. The rector, Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff, will preach on the subject The Cross — Its Meaning For Us Today.

□

The Emmanuel Baptist Church choir will present Stainer's Crucifixion at 4 p.m. Palm Sunday.

Guest soloists will be John Bray, baritone, and Norman Tyrell, tenor. The choir will be under the direction of Hans Fogh-Domschmidt and the organist will be Henry Pluym.

□

The first performance of the newly-formed Saanich Oratorio Choir is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Sunday in Metropolitan United Church.

The choir will sing John Farmer's oratorio Christ and His Soldiers, accompanied by organist Eric Boothroyd. Soloists are Mrs. Merna Dighton, soprano; Mrs. Arla, Rendle, contralto; Robin Greenwood, tenor, and Walter Janzen, bass. The choir is a community group which practices weekly in Shelbourne elementary school under the direction of Helmut Janzen.

Pay Increased For Seamen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pay and benefit increases averaging $60 a month have been granted to crewmen of West Coast ships.

The raises, retroactive to Jan. 1, go to some 6,500 members of the Sailors Union, 5,000 members of the Marine Cooks and Stewards Union and 3,000 members of the Marine Firemen's Union.

Jetliner Stung By Flat Tire

VANCOUVER (P)—A Pacific Western Airlines Boeing 737 with 28 persons abroad was forced to turn back from a flight to Kamloops because of a blown tire. The aircraft, which is equipped with dual tires, landed without incident.

Royal Heirs Planning Four Concerts Here

The Royal Heirs from Vancouver will give four concerts in Victoria this weekend.

The young instrumentalists have played in churches of all denominations, at youth services, concerts, in radio and TV broadcasts in B.C., Washington, Oregon and Alberta.

They will play at a Youth Challenge meeting in Oaklands Chapel at 7:45 p.m. today; in North Douglas Pentecostal Church at 11 a.m. Sunday; in Alliance Church at 11:30 a.m. Sunday, and at Glad Tidings Pentecostal Church at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Dennis Schafrick plays lead alto saxophone; Jim Thirsk, second alto saxophone; Bob Davies, tenor saxophone and Don Stenson, tenor and alto saxophone. Pianist and musical arranger is Harvey Loland. David Ehrhardt is featured on the bass. Dennis and Bob also double on clarinet.

Bishop Scott Speaks Twice On Victoria Visit

* * *

Scott

Bishop E. W. (Ted) Scott of Kootenay will speak at the Maundy Thursday evening eucharist at 8 p.m. and the three hours' devotion on Good Friday starting at noon in Christ Church Cathedral.

The bishop will also speak at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Lenten series of talks sponsored by the Greater Victoria Council of Churches. The series, under the title What is Your Response?, is being held in the Youth Room of First United Church.

WELL KNOWN HERE

Bishop Scott is well-known in Victoria. He is secretary of the House of Bishops (B.C.), chairman of the board of Sorrento Anglican Lay Training Centre, secretary of the joint committee of Anglican Training college and United College in Vancouver, a member of the Primate's commission on marriage and related matters, and a member of the general synod committee on women's work in the church.

He was consecrated, in January, 1966, the sixth Bishop of Kootenay diocese. Born in Edmonton, he completed his higher education at UBC, graduating from ATC in 1942.

FIRST PARISH

His first parish was St. Peter's, Seal Cover, in the diocese of Caledonia. He moved to Winnipeg in 1945 where he served in various capacities until 1964, when he became associate secretary of the Christian social service department of the church in Toronto.

PROBABLE ORIGIN

Chess probably originated in India during or before the 7th century.

Appeal Loses Money

By DON GAIN

The Colonist this week received a touching letter from Father N. J. Hendriks of Kipalapala, Tanzania.

The Dutch priest sent the results of a Christmas card campaign for funds which he launched last year on the people of Victoria. Unfortunately Victoria was not ready for it. In his letter of this week Father Hendriks reported that more than 60,000 cards were mailed at a cost of $4,300.00. He received 146 replies with a total of $1,620.00 in donations. This means TMP Printing Department lost $2,680.00.

BLAMES HIMSELF

"A flop for which I have to blame mainly myself," Father Hendriks wrote.

"I should have better explained and given better information beforehand. Most people of Victoria have feared a racket. They had serious doubts and consequently have thrown the card in the wastepaper basket. You will understand that we are disappointed that so few have reacted upon our cry for help."

LEGITIMATE

Father Hendriks' project has been checked out and found to be legitimate. His printing department supplies school books, newspapers, and other necessities for the area. It is not self-supporting and requires outside help.

Father Hendriks put in his letter: "Easter is approaching! Perhaps some good people in Victoria will still find an Easter egg for us to get us out of the dump." The address for donations is TMP Printing Department, Box 314, Tabora, Tanzania, East Africa, or Bank of Montreal, 1225 Douglas, Victoria.

Island Shantymen Hold Annual Dinner Meeting

* * *

The auditorium of Central Baptist Church was filled Tuesday night by missioners from many parts of Vancouver Island who attended the annual dinner meeting of the Shantymen's Christian Association.

The busiest man in the church was the Rev. Percy Wills of Victoria, Vancouver Island Superintendent. Mr. Wills showed people to their seats, served food, made sure things were going smoothly and generally made everybody feel at home. At one point in the evening he was washing dishes while Fred Holm and Mrs. Rene Easton, both of Victoria, dried. Since about 1932 Mr. Wills has been active in the work of the association.

* * *

He began his missionary travels on the West Coast by canoe and on foot and then became a seagoing minister in the boat Messenger I. There was a Messenger II and a Messenger III which now has been superseded by a big camper truck called Messenger IV. Mr. Wills said this week there were only three areas around the Island which could not be reached by car. They are Carmana Point, Estevan Point and Cape Scott.

Mr. Wills retired from his travelling work in 1955 but this is hard to believe when one sees him in action. He began his evangelical career in 1920 in Winnipeg. After preaching in Prairie Pulpits he came to Vancouver Island and joined the Shantymen's Association. The Association began in Toronto in 1903. It was started by William Henderson to take the gospel to remote settlements in northern Ontario and Quebec. By 1932 it had reached Vancouver Island.

* * *

Speaker of the evening was Rev. Norman Archer. Also present were Rev. and Mrs. John Moore; Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Rowell; Donald Robertson of Courtenay; Harold Peters, a former skipper of the Messenger, of Union Bay; and Jack Spratt of Victoria, of the Gospel by Mail program.

Church Parade Planned

About 200 cadets and members of the staff of Royal Roads Military College will hold a church parade in Victoria Sunday morning.

Cadets will attend St. Andrew's Presbyterian and St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral. After church the officer cadets will be reviewed by Mayor Hugh Stephen on Douglas Street in front of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church The parade route will be from Gordon to Broughton, Broad, Fort, Douglas and Courtney. The parade will pass the reviewing stand about 12:15 p.m.

Attending church with the cadets will be Chaplain (P) D. A. Hatfield and Chaplain (RC) R. Delisle. Cadet Wing Commander is Randall Stowell of Pine Falls, Man.

Cultural Exchange Reaches Victoria

A cultural exchange program for youth, originating in Mexico City, has reached Victoria.

Purpose of the program is to acquaint the youth of Mexico, Central America, Canada and the U.S. with the actual values and truths of each other's cultures through living experiences in the countries as guest members of families, Mrs. Llona O'Gorman said this week.

A meeting will be held at Mrs. O'Gorman's home, 2904 Phyllis, at 8:30 p.m. today. One of the exchange students, Virginia Vasquez, will be on hand to talk about the program.

The exchange visits take place during the school vacation periods of the students.

The responsibility of the host family is to provide room, board and friendship for the visitors. Students are sponsored by their families or civic groups of their own country. Costs include round trip air transportation, group insurance and administrative expenses.

Anyone wishing to take part in the exchange is invited to tonight's meeting at Mrs. O'Gorman's.

Anglican Women Instal Officers

Anglican church women are doing things today which a few years ago would have seemed un-churchy.

This has come about through a growing awareness of the needs of the world reflected in the emphasis on social action and a realization that they must become actively involved.

This was part of the message brought to the women by Mrs. John Robertson, national president, last week.

ISLAND GATHERING

She spoke to 250 Anglican church women from as far away as Port Hardy at the annual meeting March 18 and 19 in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

Adding an ecumenical touch was the presence of Mrs. L. Shelling, president of the Catholic women's League; Mrs. A. Sheard, representing United Church Women, and Mrs. F. Elford, Presbyterian Church Women.

Mrs. A. Winser, convenor of handicrafts, reported sales of Pakistani embroideries amounting to $1,112.30 during the year. This project employs indigent women in Pakistan. Mrs. G. H. Greenhalgh, of Nanaimo, reported United Thank Offering of $3,275.53 for the year.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS

In her address, the Diocesan president, Mrs. F. A. Goodwin, said that all commitments for the year had been met in spite of declining membership. She spoke of the uncertainty of women's place in the working of the church; their future may not lie in such organized groups as Anglican Church Women. The changing pattern of women's work was also reflected in the reports of Ruth Scott, educational chairman; Mrs. E. W. Scott, chairman of family life, and Mrs. N. W. Life, chairman of vocation and girls. In the last two it was particularly stressed that the work is the responsibility of the whole church.

OFFICERS

Archdeacon J. W. Forth installed the following officers: Mrs. F. A. Goodwin, president; Ruth Scott, first vice-president; Mrs. H. Hubbard, second vice-president; Mrs. H. McDonald, recording secretary; Dora Brown, treasurer; Mrs. H. Newnham, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. Hugh, devotions; Mrs. M. W. George, extra cents; Mrs. H. Monaghan, dorcas supply; Marjory Bernard, social service; Mrs. N. B. Fatt, living message; Mrs. E. W. Scott, family life.

World College

'There's Still Hope'

By HUBERT BEYER

Racial strife — Black Power — White Backlash . . . the world's deficiencies, prejudices and hatreds are screamed daily over the front pages of every newspaper, and there seems to be little hope for a better tomorrow.

In spite of overwhelming odds, regardless of setbacks to be witnessed in every part of the globe, there are some gimmers of hope that, some day, co-operation will replace separation and hatred.

HERE'S HOPE

The United World College is such a glimmer.

Situated on the Atlantic Coast in Wales, the college brings together more than 270 young people from 36 nations.

Within the walls of a medieval castle, the students not only practice brotherhood and fellowship, co-operation and helpfulness, understanding and acceptance — they live it.

Lord Hankey, a member of the college's board of governers, was in Victoria to show a film Friday of the institution's activities and solicit further support from government and industry.

PREACHING OVER

"The days of preaching are over. We have to find ways and means of bringing the people of the world together, and that's what this college is doing," Lord Hankey said following the film presentation at the National Film Board theatre.

First and foremost, he said, the college was a place of education. Requiring exceptionally high academic achievements, its curriculum included the teaching of 11 languages, and all the arts and sciences.

"We place emphasis on individuality. It would be ridiculous to send 270 students home as perfect little Englishmen. It would be ridiculous, impossible and contrary to the very principle of the college," he said.

But there is something else, probably even more important, that binds the young people from virtually every part of the earth together.

RESCUE SERVICE

They operate the United World College Service, and since the college's founding in 1962, more than 50 persons were saved from death or serious injury.

"The students build the rescue boats themselves, and they must be seaworthy. They man the boats, carry out all necessary rescue operations and are on duty 24 hours a day," said Lord Hankey.

An illustration of how well the students are trained and how efficiently they work as a team, was given in the film. It showed a drill during which an "injured" girl was hauled up a 160-foot cliff.

And so, for two years, these young people study together, work together, discuss every topic under the sun, and when they go home take with them the spirit of brotherhood.

MANY FRIENDS

"They will have friends all over the world for the rest of their lives, and we hope these students will really know what brotherhood means," Lord Hankey said.

The college in Wales is the first of its kind, but there are already preliminary discussions under way to establish a second one in North America.

"It could conceivably be right here in Victoria or near Seattle," Lord Hankey said.

"We don't know when this college may actually open, but I would hope that it's going to be soon."

He said that the tuition fee was unfortunately rather high—about $2,000 a year for two years.

HIGH COST

"But I say this without hesitation or fear, because you can imagine that the operating costs are very high with such a place. We teach students from 36 different nations, and we need a lot of specialized equipment and more masters than a normal college would require."

The college was founded with the financial help of the British and German governments, a number of foundations and industrial concerns.

The question of tuition fee, however, wasn't that important, Lord Hankey said, because almost 70 per cent of the students were receiving bursaries.

And so, the experiment in brotherhood goes on. While the world is facing itself with hostility and suspicion, young students in a medieval castle on the coast of Wales are trying to work out a better deal.

They are preparing to take a message home — a message that proclaims their country simply a place in the world which wants to co-operate.

Speak White, Students Bait Calm Stanfield

QUEBEC (CP)—Laval University students heckled Robert Stanfield with shouts of "Let's go, Robert" and "Speak white" when the Conservative leader delivered a speech in French at the university Friday.

Stanfield calmly weathered the storm, completed his speech and answered questions in French later.

★ ★ ★

He ignored the heckling throughout. Some students claimed they could not understand his replies in French and got him to repeat them in English.

At one point, a student climbed onto the stage with a chocolate bar and glass of water, sat down near Stanfield and ate his "lunch."

Stanfield accepted the offer of a piece of chocolate and the student left the stage, throwing the water remaining in his glass toward the speaker.

★ ★ ★

The federal Opposiiton leader told the students he does not recognize any "particular status" for Quebec, and has never seriously considered the possibility the province would break with the rest of Canada.

★ ★ ★

He called on Quebecers to help eliminate what he called the climate of suspicion in the country.

"You are wondering if the West thinks or worries about you. But have you ever worried about the problems of the West?

"Is there an equal effort on both sides?"

Stanfield acknowledge that the Conservatives were beaten in the last federal election, but said "this does not prevent me from wanting to rebuild my party and from desiring seriously the prosperity and the unity of Canada."

At a news conference earlier, the Conservative leader criticized the approach of the federal Liberal administration to the problem of regional disparities.

He said Prime Minister Trudeau's government had put this problem on its priority list, but still has done nothing about it after eight months in office.

Reply to Loffmark

Stephen Hails Socred Zeal On Hospitals

By HUBERT BEYER

Victoria Mayor Hugh Stephen said Friday he was "delighted" to know that Health Minister Ralph Loffmark treated "with such urgency" the hospital situation.

Commenting on the minister's advice to the Capital Region Hospital Board that it had "better get cracking" in recommending construction of extended care facilities, the mayor, chairman of the board, had this to say:

"I'm overwhelmed with the minister's impatience, and I can assure Mr. Loffmark that the board's recommendation for all of the 600 beds, approved at last year's referendum, will be on his desk by the end of April."

The mayor, however, did not agree with the minister's statement that the board had recommended only one unit for 150 beds.

"If the minister adds up the 150 beds we recommended for the Gorge Road Hospital, which were approved, a second recommendation for Ganges Hospital consisting of 20 beds, 15 of which were approved and the 75 beds we recommended for the north end of the Saanich Peninsula, he would come to a total of 240 beds," he said.

JUST FOR RECORD

He didn't resent the minister's impatience, the mayor said, but he would like to keep the record straight.

"As a matter of fact, I'll set up a diary as of tonight containing all recommendations we make to the British Columbia Hospital Insurance Commission, and from time to time, I shall make a report to the people about the hospital situation.

"It may be interesting to find out who is delaying what," the mayor said.

DELAY GUILT

"If we are guilty of delay, the minister may take us to task, but if he is slow in answering letters or replying to our recommendations, we shall not hesitate to make it known."

Delay could occur on both sides, he said, but recommendations accounting for the total number of beds granted by last year's referendum would be before the minister in about four or five weeks.

Shop Centre

Oak Bay Protests Multiply

By NANCY BROWN

Established Oak Bay businessmen will be forced out of business if a proposed $1,000,000 shopping centre is built on Foul Bay Road, say members of the municipality's Board of Trade.

"Over the past five years there's only been an increase of 800 in the total population of Oak Bay," accountant Peter Lovric said Friday night.

"The businesses here right now aren't making that much money, and if more business comes in, things will be spread so thinly that some will be out of business altogether.

MORE PEOPLE

"Council is putting the cart before the horse. It should get more people here first and business will naturally follow," he said.

"We have a captive population here now, and no way for it to increase.

"It's like a private country club here, and there's a waiting list of people who want to join. But the only way they can get in is to take the place of someone who dies or moves out," Mr. Lovric said.

TRADE BOARD

Board of Trade president Ella Mae Geddes said the board is opposed to the development at this time.

"Perhaps in five years time we shall have another 50 apartment buildings here and then we shall be ready to welcome this type of development," she said.

"We're very upset about the proposal," she said.

FIRST PLACE

"In the first place it must be very obvious to everyone that there's barely enough to go round now.

"A few businesses have closed down and there are many more operating on a one-man basis simply because they can't afford to hire staff."

She said she was concerned at the way the proposals about the new centre have been handled.

"The announcement from the municipal hall says the developer has been working closely with council.

"I've learned recently that the developer has been in the area for some time trying to buy up property, but nobody has said a word to the retailers — the people most directly concerned."

Hearing Adds Space

Oak Bay council is apparently expecting a big crowd at a public hearing scheduled for April 10.

It was originally arranged for the municipal hall, but Ald. G. Scott Wallace said Friday night that the auditorium at Oak Bay junior high school has been rented for the occasion because of the amount of interest.

Two bylaws will be put before the hearing.

One will rezone Victoria Riding Academy property for nine and three-storey highrises, and has already met considerable opposition.

The second to rezone property on Foul Bay Road between Marion and Goldsmith for a new shopping centre is running into opposition from Oak Bay Board of Trade.

Meanwhile it was announced Friday that from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Sunday an orange balloon will be flown to mark the height of the proposed highrises.

It's Paint-Up, Perk-Up Time

Early spring means paint-up time in Greater Victoria and painter Bill Comerford, 1025 Burdette, is one of many sprucing up exteriors of homes in area in preparation for summer.—(William Boucher)

Ford Will

Son Files Appeal From Australia

Australian radio news editor John Douglas Ford has instructed city lawyer Donald Cameron to file an application for appeal of a March 7 B.C. Supreme Court judgment that validated a $1,152,792 will.

Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton had ruled that the May 22, 1958 will of Allan Douglas Ford, who died here in 1967, was valid and dismissed an application to have an earlier will, dated June 8, 1933, probated.

DELUSIONS CLAIMED

The 1958 will was contested by John Ford, the son, on the grounds that his father was suffering from delusions at the time it was made.

Under the terms of the 1958 will, the bulk of the estate was left to Victoria charities with a bequest of $50,000 to the son.

If that will had been broken and the 1933 will probated John Ford would have received most of the estate with the exception of about $350,000 which would have reverted to charity.

Seven days of evidence were heard in mid-January and Mr. Justice Wootton delivered his judgment earlier this month.

RULED CAPABLE

It set out that, for all his eccentricities, Mr. Ford was capable of making a valid will in 1958 and rejected the contention that he was not of sound mind, memory and understanding at that time.

Commenting on evidence given during the hearing, Mr. Justice Wootton said it was evident the testator was "a dramatist and an elderly persons of some conceit who liked to impress his audience."

EMBELLISHING

He added that Mr. Ford had a habit of embellishing the stories he told but added:

"All this, in my view, is an indication of old age and forgetfulness but not necessarily incompetence. So many old persons like to command and hold the stage and they adopt many expedients."

Mr. Wootton ruled that John Ford had grounds for requiring proof of the will and ordered that cost involved in the case be paid out of the residue of the estate.

CONSIDERABLE COSTS

That costs in the case were considerable was indicated by the fact that Mr. Cameron was advised during the hearing by a Queen's counsel and another lawyer he brought with him from Australia.

Mr. Ford returned to Australia at the conclusion of the case.

Seen In Passing

Highways' PR Poor

Road Refusal Riles Chamber

By PAT MURPHY

The provincial government was condemned Friday for its refusal to link Victoria's Rose-Blanshard road extension to the Patricia Bay Highway and for its poor public relations generally.

Approving a report by its harbor and transportation committee chairman, George Farmer, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce decided to seek an immediate meeting with provincial highways Minister Wesley Black.

"The provincial highways department may never have said in so many words that it would link the extension with the highway," said Mr. Farmer, "but the understanding was always there and it let the city go ahead and build the extension on the understanding that this would be done.

ONE EXAMPLE

"I am simply amazed at the decision of the government not to make the hookup and it is just one more example of the lack of liason between the provincial government and the chamber and municipality.

"I think the government should be condemned for its lack of public relations," Mr. Farmer said.

He added that he had asked for meeting with Mr. Black many times — on highway, parkway, freeway, airport access road issues and on other matters —but the provincial government just wouldn't meet with the chamber.

MET US ONCE

"It was better when Gaglardi was in there. At least he did meet with us once although he didn't tell us anything," Mr. Farmer said.

The transportation chairman said that a meeting will be held soon with the CNR to discuss the Ogden Point dock installations.

It was made necessary, he said, because the business of cruise ships calling at Victoria this summer was all sewed up.

NEVER RETURN

Unless some work was done on the docks the ships might never come back, Mr. Farmer said. Dock B, which would be used for the cruise ships, had to be raised.

He said there should be a big reception for the first ship to call here to indicate that the ships were welcome in Victoria.

With as many as 2,000 people on board the bigger ships it could mean a lot of business for Victoria, the speaker said. Taxi companies, bus companies and business generally would benefit.

PROJECT ALIVE

Douglas Abbott, the chamber's convention centre committee chairman, said that the Empress Hotel-CPR proposal was still very much in the forefront and that a meeting was scheduled for sometime within the next two weeks at which concrete plans would be unveiled.

He said the plans would be an "attractive package". The committee, said Mr. Abbott had seen nothing yet to match the CPR plan.

Chamber Manager

New manager of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, whose appointment was announced Friday at directors' meeting, is Brian J. Small. Chosen from among 48 applicants from across Canada and U.S., Mr. Small is a Victorian who, for many years, has been active in the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce. He is senator in Junior Chamber International and, in 1968, was chosen "Outstanding Jaycee in B.C."

Parade

Wheels For Seals Today

Today's Easter Seal parade, postponed from last Saturday, will start at 10 a.m. from the Saanich health and welfare centre next to the Municipal Hall.

Put on by the Society for Crippled Children, the parade will take the form of a motorcade and will include three Easter Seal buses, the Chinatown Drum and Bell Corps band and six or seven open cars carrying members of local Lions Clubs.

Island Goal

The Easter Seal appeal has collected $9,751, Vancouver Island executive secretary Ray St. Denis said Friday. The goal is $25,000. Donations are still being received at appeal headquarters, 3945-D Quadra.

Parade watchers will be able to see the motorcade on its route past the Town and Country shopping centre, down Douglas Street, around the Empress Hotel and back up Government to Fort and then to Foul Bay Road, where it is expected about 11 a.m.

Long Route

It will continue north to Lansdowne then west to Shelbourne where it is expected at the Hillside shopping centre about 11:20. It will move north to Shelbourne Plaza and then to Cedar Hill Cross Road, McKenzie, Quadra, south to Yates, west on Wharf, over the Johnson Street Bridge and out Esquimalt Road to Esquimalt Sports Centre by 12:45 p.m.

IWA Here to Attempt Wage Pact Reopening

The Victoria local of the International Woodworkers of America is finally reaching for a bigger piece of the profit pie.

Various officers of the big forest union have been hinting for more than a month that there would be an attempt to re-open negotiations because of increased industry profits.

The move became official Friday when Murray Drew, president of the Victoria local, announced that letters had gone out from his local to employers.

The letters are to serve as notification of the local's intention to re-open negotiations in the midst of a contract term.

The goal is across-the-board wage revision.

For Bishop April 17

Rites in Cathedral For Enthronement

The new Anglican Bishop of the diocese of British Columbia — John Ogle Anderson — will be enthroned in Christ Church Cathedral at 8 p.m. April 17, Archdeacon J. W. Forth announced Friday.

His diocese comprises Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands.

Because he is already Bishop of Red River and Bishop Coadjutor of Rupert's Land, no consecration is necessary, Archdeacon Forth said.

The ceremony will be conducted by Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathedral. For the full choral services the choir will be augmented by choristers from other Victoria churches.

Bishop Anderson was elected in Christ Church Cathedral at an extraordinary meeting of synod on March 7. A previous election meeting in February resulted in deadlock.

The new bishop is expected in Victoria from Winnipeg a day or two before his enthronement.

Among those expected to attend the ceremony are Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson, Premier Bennett, Maj.-Gen George Pearkes, Acting President Robert Wallace of the University of Victoria, the mayors of the four Greater Victoria municipalities, Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo and Rev. Dr. Samuel Parsons, executive secretary of the Greater Victoria Council of Churches.

B.C. Allotted Director For Ducks

G. Fitzpatrick Dunn of 2750 Thorpe was elected Friday to the board of directors of Ducks Unlimited (Canada) at the Empress Hotel.

Until recently, Ducks Unlimited — an organization working for the preservation and expansion of wetland to support North America's duck population — was mainly prairie-orientated.

During the coming year, however, the group plans the development of three major projects in British Columbia.

Newly-elected president Lorne M. Cameron of Winnipeg said at the 33rd annual meeting that another four-and-one-half million acres of dependable wetland would be needed by 1980 to insure the population of ducks required by that time.

Island-Trotting Quail Ends Quest

By DON COLLINS

From Russia With Love was a spy thriller featuring James Bond.

Vancouver Island has now provided the setting for a sequel — From Duncan for Love — featuring Quincey the Quivering Quail.

While this is by no means a spy thriller, it is a bit of a baffler for Trevor Davis, 5927 West Saanich Road.

Mr. Davis said Friday that a California quail, unlike a homing pigeon, isn't supposed to travel a great distance to reach home.

But Quincey, one of four quail he sold as pets to a man in Duncan, arrived back at the Davis home, tired but happy.

★ ★ ★

"I have never heard of this before," said Mr. Davis who has been raising and selling quail for seven years.

The distance travelled was about 35 miles.

California quail prefer to do their travelling on the ground and only fly when frightened, Mr. Davis said.

However, Quincey (a name hung on him by an amused observer) may have had another reason for taking to the air. He was the only one of the four Duncan-bought birds who left a mate behind at the Davis home.

Mr. Davis says he can't be sure this has anything to do with the bird's accomplishment.

But it did have that look in its eye when it arrived.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I could have kissed you when I read your answer to Stymied Mother. You told her to get off Isabelle's back and I hope she listens.

●

I used to be a fat and unhappy 16-year-old and my mother nagged me just the way Stymied Mother is nagging Isabelle. The more my mother harped the more I ate. She sounded like a broken phonograph record and I hated it. I used to sneak food into my room to spite her.

One day my mother went to school at the request of the guidance counselor. I don't know what they talked about, but from that day on my mother never mentioned my weight.

Within six months I lost 35 pounds. I not only look like a different person but feel like one. I have confidence, my grades are better and boys treat me like a girl instead of another guy. I hope every mother who bugs her daughter about being fat reads this and learns something.—36-25-36.

Read and Learn

Dear 36: I can't improve on your language so I'll simply repeat your well-chosen words. I hope every mother who bugs her daughter about being fat reads this and learns something.

□

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 20-year-old gal who is flustered easily. When I'm ill at ease (which is often) my hands get ice cold and clammy as the dickens. This usually happens when I meet new people. I try to avoid shaking hands, which gives the impression I'm unfriendly. Help me, please. —DRIPPY MITTS

Dear Drippy: Have you tried an anti-perspirant? This is not the same as a deodorant. If the anti-perspirant doesn't work, wear white silk or nylon wrist-length gloves. Gloves will give you confidence, reduce your anxiety and diminish the clamminess.

□

Dear Ann Landers: Thanks for advising that woman who signed herself Stuck At Home to learn how to drive. I'm sorry you didn't add, "But don't let a relative teach you," Here's my story:

Traffic Was Scary

After serving as a WAC in the Second War, I returned to Los Angeles. I was scared out of my wits by the traffic, refused to ride in a car with friends and took a bus or walked everywhere.

I realize this was crazy, so I forced myself to enroll in a drivers' school. My brothers were furious. "Why spend money on school?" they screamed, when THEY could teach me. Sure they could.

They could teach me to tailgate, run through yellow lights and get mad at every driver who passed me.

I kept on at the school. My teacher didn't swear at me. He didn't tear out his hair and make me feel like a hopeless idiot. I learned the parts of an automobile and the rules of the road. I made my mistakes on a dual-controlled car.

Today I am a competent driver and proud of myself. At this moment, however, I wish I'd paid as much attention to my typing instructor as my driving instructor, but typing is not a matter of life and death — and driving is.—HELEN S.

Dear Helen: Your typing isn't that bad, honey. Thanks for a good letter.

Pained Twin Aunt at Last

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Barbara Morgan had labor pains but her twin sister Gillian had the baby.

It was a relief for the 19-year-old identical twins when Gillian Crosby finally gave birth to a seven-pound 14-ounce daughter Thursday. An hour before the birth in hospital, Mrs. Crosby sent this message to her unmarried, unpregnant sister: "Hang on, Barbara, it won't be long now."

★ ★ ★

Barbara, under sedatives to ease the pain she was suffering at home, gritted her teeth then suddenly fell asleep immediately after Gillian's baby was born.

Doctors who examined both girls said it was a case of an unusually strong "sympathetic affinity" often observed between identical twins.

Hungry for Lent

Welfare Diet Lean

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A hungry week is ending for Sen. Philip Hart (D—Mich.) and his family, now concluding their Lenten observance of living for seven days on a welfare food budget.

"Survive" is the word to describe the welfare diet, Jane Hart said. The family is now going to bed hungry.

"Psychologically, we know it would end in a week and we started from fat, not lean," Mrs. Hart added. "But the children are feeling the pangs of hunger, and I've noticed a reduction in my efficiency."

The Harts decided on the spartan food budget, that averaged 25 cents a meal per person, at a family council. Their children —Michael, 16; May, 13; and Laura, 11 — agreed to the ordeal.

There was no trouble determining the facts about welfare existence. The senator has worked for years in the Congress to expand food programs for needy children.

★ ★ ★

"I say down with the paper and looked for the cheapest foods," Mrs. Hart said.

Pork liver at 29 cents a pound and chicken necks and and backs at 15 cents a pound were good buys, she said, but at 39 cents a pound stewing chicken was the best.

★ ★ ★

"You can throw a lot of junk in a stew — rutabaga and carrots, cabbage and canned tomatoes," she said. "Serve it on rice and it really fills you."

"Fruit is out of the question," she added.

Mrs. Hart tried to keep a rein on the meals served at home. "Phil took two eggs one morning so he got a smaller helping than usual for dinner," she said.

★ ★ ★

The meagre food budget was an about face in a home where money has never been a problem.

Mrs. Hart is the daughter of the late Detroit millionaire Walter Briggs, a car parts manufacturer and former owner of the Detroit Tigers. The senator's $42,500 congressional income is supplemented by investments and a Second World War disability pension.

Playsuits for the Rich

Madison Boutique Unique

By EUGENE SHEPPARD

NEW YORK — If you have a sneaky longing to see what 6he world's best dressed women wear for play, stop in at Veneziano, a boutique on upper Madison Avenue.

The other day one of the two partners who runs the shop was packing a big box for Mrs. Paul Mellon. It was full of rib-knit lisle sweaters with turtlenecks, to wear with her slacks. They were like lots of other sweaters in the shop, except that the shades like mauve, cinnamon, and pale lime, were by special request for Bunny Mellon.

★ ★ ★

Anne Ford Uzielli was there in person, shopping for a Caribbean holiday. She was buying the latest bikini, a mite of a thing with a matching, flowered sarong.

A pair of the mocassins with double brass rings on the toes, that Jackie Onassis made famous, was on its way to Mrs. John Hay Whitney. They were flatter-heeled than the regular stock, because Betsy Whitney likes them that way.

★ ★ ★

Timothy Burke, whose husband, Michael, is president of the New York Yankees, was getting ready to fly to the French West Indies.

Besides one of the new cotton velour beach dresses, pust the color of the Caribbean, and hip-hugger white crepe evening pants with a black silk organdie shirt that has enormous, full sleeves, Mrs. Burke was stocking up on the sweaters that Mrs. William Paley designed.

Not that Mrs. Paley has gone into business. She simply objected to the rib-knit turtleneck sweaters because they spoiled her hairdo when she pulled them on. She showed them how she wanted her sweaters made, either with flat collars and buttons almost to the waist or with a zipper cutting right through the turtleneck and on down.

The sweaters were made. Obviously turtlenecks bother lots of women, because the Paley sweaters became best-sellers the minute they appeared.

★ ★ ★

Veneziano is about to celebrate its tenth birthday, which means the boutique story on Madison Avenue is 10 years old. Veneziano was the first, and Babe Paley was the first customer. She looked in the window and came right in off the street. She has been coming every since. How lucky can you be?

★ ★ ★

The man who had the idea is Tony Anton, who went to Palm Beach and studied the shops and what the girls were wearing. He flew to Europe and inspired his cousin, Ralph Paterno, to join him.

Their stock is 99 per cent Italian, and new things keep arriving each week. Four years ago Jackie, then Kennedy, became a customer and made hte shoes famous. Hardly anybody orders just one pair but asks for assorted colors.

Right now the partners are especially happy about their own version of a Pucci-type print. The designer is an Italian girl named Davitti. The dresses are cut larger and don't cling like postage stamps. Some of them on silk, cotton or wool jersey have figured fronts and monotone backs to give them identity.

Italian Men Pay And Pay and Pay

ROME (AP) — Italy's highest court has ruled that a husband responsible for the break-up of his marriage must pay alimony whether his wife needs it or not.

But if the wife is to blame, she must pay only if the husband is in dire need.

The ruling by the constitutional court upheld the present matrimony law in five cases brought by husbands who contend they were deprived of equal rights.

The court ruled a married woman has a right to a share of her husband's money regardless of her own wealth.

A wife with independent means, however, does not have to support her husband unless he is in need.

The justices said the law merely extends the same standard to couples after their marriage breaks up.

Legal separations are permitted but there is no provision for divorce in Italy.

A Lovelier You

Stretch for Leggy-Look

By MARY SUE MILLER

If your figure problem is straight, thin legs, fattening foods are no cure. Chocolate eclairs are more likely to go to your hips than your legs.

Then you have two problems where once you had one.

The only wise course is to build up the leg muscles. Spindly legs have notoriously spindly muscles.

★ ★ ★

As the muscles gain in strength, the legs gain in girth. The following routines are tried-and-true builder-uppers:

● Stand on a thick book (or wood block), letting your heels dangle over the edge.

Slowly stretch heels toward the floor and then quickly raise them until level with the top surface of the book. Repeat 20 times with precision.

● Sit on a hard chair or stool with your knees crossed. Slowly bend the raised foot upward as far as possible; hold the position for a slow count of five and then relax — really let the foot go limp. Repeat 10 times, recross your knees and perform with the other foot. Always aim for an increased pull in the ankle and calf muscles.

● Bend your knees until the thighs are parallel to the floor. Holding the position, take 20 steps forward — very slow and rhythmical steps. At your own speed, work up to 100 steps. But don't overdo, lest you undo your good work.

Swinging Fashions Could Be Sellout

By BILL THOMAS

High fashion is a glorious put-on or take-off depending on the designer.

Way-out looks have long since gone out with the great name designers but in Canada the Unicorn Shops have persisted with the kooky things and they have proved incredibly successful for John and Marilyn Brooks of Toronto.

Their flair for merchandising has pushed the Unicorn from a small shoe-box operation to a $1,000,000 business in five years.

★ ★ ★

This season they are staging a showing of their spring collection at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Empress Hotel. The Toronto show drew 3,000 fashion faddists so it is anticipated the show will be a sellout.

The key to the success of this operation is that the clothes are high-fashion, the materials and workmanship are excellent and the prices run from $15 to $150.

★ ★ ★

The show, titled Naturally 1969, has been arranged by local Unicorn manager Martha Clarke, who has assembled highlights of the Toronto showing for the local presentation.

Top model for the show here will be Eva Carr who has worked for the California originator of the topless look, Rudi Gernreich.

The items on show will include:

- Pearlized leather pants with matching bras.
- Aunt Mod's collection of crochet dresses, shirts and bathing suits. All these items fall into the very-bare-look category. This collection is certain to turn a few heads.
- The Sam-Made-the-Pants-Too-Long look features the latest in garden party wear. The pants come in yards of pleated and washable linen and are complemented by matching bolero tops.
- Pants will also dominate fluffy mini-dresses with lacy tops. The dresses are worn over the pants that are cut in a wide hipster style.
- Jump suits are here again. This time in jersey with lavish silk print ties that can serve as head scarves or belts.
- Stretch terry cloth accentuates the comfort features of beach wear. It is used for bikinis and matching tops. Still with the emphasis on the nude look.

★ ★ ★

Chains are everywhere. Miss Carr will model a chain bra that has made national news. It comes with a silk chiffon suit in a bright print. The suit has a flowing cape and billowy pants. But the chain bra is the feature.

This is a fashion show with a difference, and a swinging party afterward, with dancing until 1 a.m.

God Deleted from Army Lectures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has ordered chaplains to eliminate all reference to God and religious philosophy in lectures aimed at instilling moral responsibility in its soldiers.

An army spokesman confirmed the new policy Thursday after word of it had reached some members of Congress, angering many of them.

The new policy was prompted by a complaint last year from the American Civil Liberties Union that the lectures were being used as religious indoctrination. The ACLU is asking the air force and navy to take similar steps.

★ ★ ★

The ACLU objected to numerous passages in character-guidance training manuals, including one that told members of the Women's Army Corps they should do their jobs well "not for reward . . . but simply because it is obviously the will of God."

The foreword to character guidance manuals, in use by the army for many years, states the program is based on the philosophy of American freedom which "regards man as a creature of God."

"As such, every soldier is responsible and accountable to his Creator for the way he performs his civic and military duty, for the maintaining of his own and his nation's honor, and for the quality of service he renders to his country as a soldier," the manual states.

About TV

"SURE I used to save the coupons. That's how I got this harp."

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Friday's fibbing answer — The late Madge Blake was Batman's Aunt Harriet, Byron Keith played Mayor Linseed of Gotham City, Glynis Johns was the villainous Lady Peasoup and Carolyn Jones the equally-bad Marsha, Queen of Diamonds. No more Batman questions, I promise.

Today's question — Often the man behind the camera, producer or director, is the real star. who were the geniuses behind the movies Intolerance, Potemkin, All Quiet on the Western Front, Treasure of the Sierra Madre, Champion and Quiet Man? Take the weekend to hit what books you have. Answers Tuesday.

Saturday Highlights

SPECIAL coverage of ceremonies for Dwight Eisenhower is listed by Channel 12 from 7:30 to 9 a.m., and from 10:30 a.m. to noon. It will probably also be on Channels 4, 5 and 7, disrupting all morning schedules.

WELL MAYBE, BUT

Where else but here in our beautiful city can you start at a busy intersection and immediately be on a secluded tree lined street winding in and out between lovely homes up to the top of the hill and there find the most charming little bungalow that looks as if it had been carved out of strawberry ice cream. Believe it or not, this is true. There is a lovely living room with fireplace. Oak floors, a dining room and a bright convenient kitchen, all across the front of the house. Two twin-size bedrooms and a 4-piece bathroom. No basement but cement crawl space. Lots of room for storage, oil hot water heat, large garage and a perfectly beautiful backyard in trees and lawn and a perfect place for a rock garden.

PRICES ARE TERRIBLE AREN'T THEY?

It's getting so that a man with a REALLY BIG family just can't buy a home that he can afford unless the kids share bedrooms and line up at the ONE bathroom to wait their turn. But once again that man DON BACON has come up with the answer. At 1831 Kings Road there is a stucco home with SIX BEDROOMS and TWO BATHROOMS at a price you CAN afford. The bedrooms aren't big mind you, but there ARE six of them. There is also a DEN and a LARGE FAMILY dining room. Big laundry room ON THE MAIN FLOOR to save mother steps. The lot is rather narrow (meaning low taxes?, but it goes back 130 feet, so that there is ample place for small children to play. Fruit trees, too. Two blocks to OAKLAND SCHOOL, and well-ing distance to Lansdowne Jr. High. Full basement with workshop for dad. Rewired and OOM heat. Can you imagine getting all this for only $18,900? The line forms on the right for appointments to view. Call DON BACON, 385-2458.

4 BEDROOMS AND FAMILY ROOM

This beautiful 2-year-old family home is located in a lovely wooded area. The large living room and L-shaped dining room have new wall-to-wall carpeting, and feature an especially fine walnut panelling on one wall. Sliding glass doors lead to a pleasant sundeck. The cherry all-electric kitchen has plenty of "different" walnut cabinets. Also on the main floor are 3 bedrooms and a spacious vanity bathroom. Downstairs off the main entry is another bedroom and a 13.6x22 family room (would you like a pool table) with an unusual attractive stone fireplace. From here, sliding glass doors lead to a patio, just asking for children and outdoor summer living. Close to schools.

MOVING THIS SUMMER?
TO COLWOOD?
THEN READ ON . . .

I have just listed a beautiful home on a quiet cul-de-sac, close to schools. The owner is transferred but wishes to leave his family here until school ends. Possession will be July 1st. The home is 3 years old, with double door entry, in line living and dining room with feature wall of walnut panelling, a big bright kitchen with many cupboards, fan over range, a beautiful vanity bathroom with huge mirror, and 3 very good sized bedrooms on main floor. Hardwood floors throughout. The basement is well developed with a dandy rumpus room, extra bedroom, and 2-pce. bath. Indoor-outdoor carpet on the floors. There is a workshop with bench, and full laundry facilities. Exterior is white stucco and siding, with carport, and lot is extremely well landscaped with many shrubs and fully fenced rear yard. Now — if you have to sell your home, we will list it now for sale, and if it is not sold by July 1st, we will list it as suitable and terms can be guarantee to purchase it from you negotiated to suit you and our firm. This price is $28,900 with about $15,500 still remaining at 7% per cent. If your equity or down payment is less than required we can refinance this home for you. What could be easier? Duncan Complex

Provincial Building Going Up

DUNCAN — Another stage in the development of a public area at the bottom of Station Street, Duncan, is about to start.

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant announced Friday that a $833,000 contract had been awarded for construction of provincial government offices.

The work will be started immediately by Burns and Ditton Construction Ltd. of Richmond.

New law courts were opened in the area, which borders Government Street, in January. A city plan for that section, outlined several years ago, includes a civic complex which will include a theatre, council chamber and city offices, library and landscaped grounds.

Duncan aldermen said several weeks ago that it was hoped a start would be planned soon on at least a part of the group.

Commenting on the latest provincial project, Mayor Jim Quaife said Friday, "The provincial government has thrown the ball at us for our participation in the public use area."

He said it was decided some years ago by the city and provincial government to develop the area.

"Council is now confronted with the relocation of roads adjacent to the new law courts and the proposed provincial administration office building, and with planning of the public use area.

"What the completion of the government project will do for Duncan's downtown area is fantastic. The government is instilling new life into the downtown area and it will have a very beneficial affect on the whole city."

Midair Collision 1960

Air Crash Claims Hit $29,000,000

NEW YORK (UPI) —The U.S. government and two airlines have settled all claims arising from the midair crash of two airliners over Staten Island in 1960. The awards totalled $29,000,000.

An announcement in Brooklyn federal court Friday broke the seal on the case, whose proceedings had been kept secret for more than three years while the awards were decided. The largest single award made to the estate of an unidentified man was $750,000.

TWO PLANES

A United Airlines jetliner and a Trans World Airlines Lockheed Super Constellation, groping through fog and sleet, collided on Dec. 16, 1960, over Miller Field, a small army airport on Staten Island. All 128 persons aboard the planes and six people in downtown Brooklyn, where the jet crashed, died.

The Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington declared the United crew negligent in June, 1962. The huge DC-8, the first all-jet airliner to crash with passengers aboard, was more than seven miles beyond the farthest limits assigned to it by radar controllers at Kennedy International Airport, then called Idlewild, the cab said. The plane also had a defect in its navigational equipment.

FROM CHICAGO

United Flight 826, homing in on Idlewild from Chicago with 77 passengers and seven crewmen, sliced into TWA flight 266, on its way to Laguardia airport from Dayton and Columbus, Ohio, with 39 passengers and a crew of five.

The jet staggered for 10 miles after the crash, plunging into a church in Brooklyn and causing a seven-alarm fire. The impact and flames destroyed 10 Brownstones, several shops and a funeral home.

SIX PERSONS

A sanitation department street sweeper was one of the six persons on the street killed instantly. A 25-foot wing section sliced halfway through one of the tenements and set it afire. No one inside the buildings was killed.

The TWA plane dropped in three pieces to a runway on Miller Field, almost directly below the spot where the collision occurred.

Meir-Dayan Split Grows; Mourners Disbanded

From UPI

Jerusalem police, apparently fearing a violent outburst, broke up a group of about 350 Arab women participating in a funeral procession Friday for an Arab who died in an Israeli jail.

On the diplomatic front, the UN security council debated the Middle East crisis on the second day of a session demanded by Jordan to condemn Israel for an air raid Wednesday which allegedly killed 18 Jordanian civilians.

In another development, political sources in Jerusalem said Israel's ruling Labor Party was faced with an open split involving a leadership struggle between Premier Golda Meir and Defence Minister Moshe Dayan.

Unofficial reports from witnesses said at least four women in the funeral procession Friday were arrested, and that one woman suffered a slight hand wound.

The women had walked silently, bound they said to do honor to the memory of Kassen Abu Akr, a 30-year-old Arab who died in Israeli police custody earlier this week.

The political dispute in Jerusalem centred around statements made by Dayan to a group of students last week in which he said he felt like "an alien element" in the Labor Party.

It involves a division among party leaders who want to try to negotiate with Dayan and those who want the party to make a break with him. Both sides have an eye cocked toward the Israeli general elections this fall.

Supersonics

'Safety Comes First'

MONTREAL (CP) — Supersonic passenger aircraft will have to be made just as safe as planes now in service before they will be allowed into airline use, a spokesman said Friday.

The spokesman for the 116-Aviation Organization said a multi-nation panel now is in the process of studying:

1. What needsto be known about the big supersonics—which "involve an aviation departure comparable with the flight of the Wright brothers."

2. What standards will have to be applied for safety in numerous fields.

OFFICIAL REACTION

The spokesman was commenting on a Calgary speech by an Air Canada senior pilot who stressed economic and safety problems presented to airlines by the supersonics.

The pilot, Capt. Frank E. W. Smith, said Wednesday the majority of airlines would be happy to see supersonic transport projects founder.

WISH DENIED

An Air Canada spokesman at headquarters here said Friday the crown corporation does not wish to see the projects collapse and he is sure that Capt. Smith does not wish to see that happen, either.

"But perhaps some airlines are concerned about the economics as far as the initial costs are concerned," said the Air Canada official, stressing the enormous sums of money involved.

M.V. CHESNUT

Feed, Then Kill!

"Dear Mr. Chesnut: We have just bought a home with a very large and very prominent front lawn. The grass isn't too bad but there are quite a few weeds, and I propose to treat it with a weedkiller.

What I can't figure out, though, is the proper timing. Do I kill the weeds first, before feeding the grass with lawn fertilizer? Should the fertilizer go on first, or can they both be applied at the one time?"

In these days of "instant" products, the easy way to condition a lawn is to do the whole job in one go, and for this purpose, every garden centre sells lawn fertilizers which have been fortified with weedkiller chemicals in granular form. Just buy a sack of this fertilizer-weedkiller combination and sprinkle the stuff on the grass, either by hand or with a proper fertilizer spreader, and the job is done.

As an incurably lazy gardener, these labor-saving methods have a strong appeal to me, and these weedkiller-fertilizer mixtures really do work. However, I don't think they work quite as well as separate applications and my own preference is to feed the lawn first, then kill the weeds some weeks later.

At first thought, this idea may seem all cockeyed. Why waste fertilizer feeding the unwanted weeds? Why build them up and make them grow strong before attacking them? Wouldn't you get a better kill if the weeds were sprayed while still in an impoverished and undernourished condition?

The answer is no. You must remember that hormone weedkiller chemicals must be absorbed through the leaves, not the roots, and the greater expanse of leaf surface exposed to the spray, the better the kill. Moreover, a lush, sappy, fast-growing weed leaf absorbs more weedkiller than an impoverished, hard, leathery one.

★ ★ ★

The trick, then, is to feed the lawn generously in the spring to encourage lush growth in both grass and weeds, then hit the weeds when their leaves are big and green and sappy. Given reasonably warm weather and sufficient moisture, the effect of a spring fertilizer dressing should be noticed in about a week — a general greening up of the whole lawn.

In two weeks, both grasses and weeds will be in full flush of exuberant growth, and the weeds in particular will be tender and lush, with wide-open leaf pores and in a most receptive state for a knockout punch. Sprayed in this condition, the weedkiller is absorbed through the leaf pores and is taken into the plant's bloodstream, and is passed on down to the roots, killing them completely.

I think it pays to leave the lawn unmown for about 10 days before applying weedkiller. The more leaf surface exposed to the spray, the more of the chemical will be absorbed, and in a closely mown lawn, the mower may not leave enough leaf surface to absorb a lethal dose.

★ ★ ★

One word of warning: Don't be tempted to mix your weedkiller spray stronger than the dosage recommended on the label. It is a common human failing to think that if a little is good, a lot must be better, but if you are tempted to add an extra spoonful of concentrate to your sprayer, remember that a too-strong solution will kill the weed leaves too quickly, before they have time to pass the chemical on down to the roots.

In this case, with only the topgrowth killed, the roots escape to sprout again, often even more vigorously than before.

Secret Resentment

One of the secret resentments held by professional writers is that, while nobody can become a musician without patient years of practice, and nobody can enter medicine or the law without a long period of study, anybody who owns a typewriter feels qualified to set up shop as a "writer."

★ ★ ★

What detonated this uncharitable thought was an item in the papers recently that Ladybird Johnson is contemplating authorship. She may, it is said, contribute regularly to a national magazine, or pen her memoirs in serial form. I urge her to reconsider this rash step.

Writing is not what it seems to be. It is difficult and painful labor, involving hard thought and the skillful use of professional tools that must be sharpened through years of apprenticeship. Many persons with good minds, and warm feelings, and even scholarship of a sort, turn out to be wretched writers.

Mrs. Johnson should consider the case of her eminent predecessor, Eleanor Roosevelt, who, despite her many detractors, was a lovely woman with a keen interest in the world around her, and a background which Ladybird falls considerably short of. Yet Mrs. Roosevelt consistently turned out one of the worst columns ever known to American journalism.

By no means a fool in her personal and social dealings — indeed, some qualified White House observers thought she had more grey matter than her husband — Mrs. Roosevelt nevertheless composed columns of the most relentless banality that made even her admirers wince much of the time.

★ ★ ★

My photographer friends tell me the same sad story: anybody with the purchase price of a good foreign camera imagines that he or she is a "photographer," even though this craft is at least as difficult and complex as good writing.

But because it calls for no previous formal training — like mastering the notes on a piano — people erroneously believe that some native unschooled talent will lift them to the peak.

The widely-known "arrogance" of the artist is Franciscan modesty compared with the unconscious arrogance of the layman, who would never dream of trying to build a house without some architectural training, but who sits down to compose a sonnet or an essay with no more technical preparation than a hog has for performing a priouette.

SHEILAH GRAHAM

A Town Needed

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Is there a small town of not more than 5,000 inhabitants that would like to star in Norman Lear's next film, Cold Turkey? Of course, there is a catch. Each of the 5,000 must give up smoking, for that is what the film is all about. Norman, who directed The Night They Raided Minsky's, and more recently, Two Times Two in Paris, asked my help in finding his town of 5,000 people who are willing to abandon the weed.

★ ★ ★

"It's a story of a tobacco billionaire who has pangs of conscience that he might be responsible for the deaths of thousands and thousands of people through lung cancer and other assorted diseases. "Like Alfred Nobel, who is remembered for his peace prizes rather than for his manufacture of nitro-glycerine, the tobacco man wants posterity to revere him for saving them from his product. He gives the town $25,000,000." It sounds like a good story. Now, are you the town? Don't write me, write Norman Lear, United Artists, Hollywood, California.

★ ★ ★

Talk about going as far as you can go in I Am Curious (Yellow). In The Staircase, in which Richard Burton and Rex Harrison are starred as a pair of homosexual barbers we see a couple for the first time in an American movie, making real love with the camera trained on them for the duration. It happens this way. Richard, the homo hair-snipper, pauses in his work to look out of the window. "Come here," he calls to Rex, and points to the couple in the grass outside. The camera follows. I guess we have now caught up with the Swedes. One thing bothers me — what are we going to do for an encore?

★ ★ ★

New York actress Sylvia Miles, who recently finished Midnight Cowboy with Dustin Hoffman and Britisher John Voight in the title role, told me, "We have a scene where we romp from the living room into the bedroom completely naked. And you know something, I thought I'd be embarrassed — I had to do it because it was written into the contract — but instead, I felt absolutely free, exhilirated." I'm not sure that everyone would react in the same uninhibited way.

★ ★ ★

They still think that Don Ameche, who played Alexander Graham Bell in the long-ago biography, owns all the telephone companies and is a millionaire. I overheard someone kidding him about this recently in New York.

And Wine Connoisseurs

He Can't Abide Gourmets

By BERT PRELUTSKY

If there are two types of people I can't abide, they're gourmets and wine connoisseurs. Of the two, I prefer the winos. At least the first couple of times the routine of studying the cork and sniffing the bouquet can be amusing.

Food nuts, however, have no redeeming qualities. To make a fetish out of feeding one's face is sheer decadence.

I'm certain that just before the Roman empire collapsed not only was everyone bathing eight or nine times a day, but half the guys in the senate were card-carrying gourmets.

★ ★ ★

As I read history, the empire was doomed the first time some pervert put anchovies on his pizza.

If I sound overly defensive, it's because I've gone through life a victim of the raw meat conspiracy. I happen to like my meat well-done. Which makes me everybody's favorite scapegoat.

In fact, today it may be the only thing a person can confess to and know that he will, in return for his honesty, receive scorn rather than sympathy and a government grant.

For just about any other sin, heredity and environment will be held responsible. But the man who orders his meat well-done is a man alone.

The waiter strolls over to take the order. Everything's fine until he gets to me. No sooner are the words past my lips than the mood of the table changes. The waiter sets the tone: "Well-done?" he asks, sounding as if I had ordered barbecued mouse.

"Yes, well-done."

He looks at my dining companions. For THEM he has sympathy and understanding. He turns and walks away, shaking his head and making little noises in his throat.

★ ★ ★

Someone at the table inevitably says, "How can you stand to eat your steak that way? All the flavor — all the juices — are gone."

"The flavor's not gone," I explain, "it's just different. I like the texture of well-done meat. What's so hard to understand?"

Then everyone sits around playing with their knives and forks — trying not to talk about it. There's always one person who doesn't try hard enough. "Have you always had this psychological hangup?"

"Why is it only a psychological hangup when I like my steaks well-done and not when you like yours bloody? The way you vampires go at it, you don't need a fork, you need a straw."

★ ★ ★

Conversation at an end, we all sit there in gloomy silence until the steaks are served. Only then is their sniping interrupted — by the sounds of my feasting on steak-flavored charcoal and of their slurping their suppers.

The truce lasts only until the coffee is served. It's remarkable how many people take it personally that I refuse to drink my coffee black.

So if you ever see a small, nervous fellow in a fine restaurant ordering a tuna sandwich and a glass of milk, you'll know who and you'll know why.

STAN DELAPLANE'S

Travel Tips

BEAR VALLEY, California — This has been the snowiest winter in the high Sierra. The snow pack is 15 to 30 feet. You can expect skiing far into May. (There are the usual skiers in leg casts here. But it's the first time I've seen a dog in a cast. "Fell off a 30-foot pack into the snow-plowed clear road," said the owner.)

This is Club Mediterranee's first venture into America. Specializes in inexpensive, all-expense sporting vacations in the Med, Switzerland, the Caribbean and Tahiti.

A week of skiing costs $182 and includes: Bus transportation (four hours) from San Francisco airport. Room with bath. Three French meals with wine. All rides on four chair lifts. Daily ski lessons by French instructors.

★ ★ ★

There's an instant replay by TV. They're still digging it out of the snow, but it should be working now. No tipping. (Place is so French they have Gauloise cigarettes in the machine.)

For the folder, write Club Mediterranee, Bear Valley, Alpine country, California. (The cover says "Ski a Bear" shows a lady on skis, but as a radish. But you don't have to do it that way, Claude.)

"What do you know about the Club Mediterranee in Tahiti?"

These places are not Hiltons, but they're good values. (Less than $600 for two weeks from the West Coast.) Each place is geared for what it has to offer — in Tahiti it's fishing and skin diving with free lessons.

Meals are always family style in tables of eight. You change all the time so you meet everybody. American Export is the agency for folders. Best weather in Tahiti begins about now.

★ ★ ★

". . . something like a castle hotel in Italy?"

The most luxurious I've seen is Villa d'Este on blue Lake Como in northern Italy. Built in the 16th century by a cardinal. Rented to an English queen and a Russian empress. Elegance in all ways and wonderful villages around the lake.

Not cheap by a long shot, but not murderously expensive. Beautiful folder by writing Jean Govoni Salvadore, Villa d'Este, Cernobbio, Lago di Como, Italy.

★ ★ ★

Some great castle hotels in Portugal. And here's an inexpensive country. Great castle hotel at Sintra, an hour's drive from Lisbon. Another a couple of hours north of Lisbon in the walled town of Obidos. This one is a pousada—run by the government—and cost me $5 a day for two with meals and wine.

There's a five-day limit on staying in pousadas. But you can travel the country in them, and they're the most attractive places in Portugal.

★ ★ ★

"We have two weeks and would like to drive to Mexico . . ."

I think you come out better on money by flying down and driving a rent car. You should get a new book by David Dodge — The Best of Mexico by Car. He'll prove this to you and then tell you how to do it.

Also for your Mexican driving trip: My Private File for Mexico. Mexico Trip Planner from Dan Sanborn, McAllen, Texas. Both free, but send ME a stamped envelope with your address on it. (I answer those first.)

★ ★ ★

"If we go to Portugal for a year, should we buy a car there? Should we ship our own car over?"

The tax on cars in Portugal is frightful. American cars are too big for European roads. And they gulp gasoline at 80 cents a gallon. I'd have a small European car paid for here and delivered in some country where you get tourist plates. No tax. You can take that into Portugal. There's a time limit — about a year — and then they'll tax it. Unless you take it out again and refresh its tourist status.

★ ★ ★

"What will it cost us for a week in Tokyo?"

One of the world's expensive cities. It destroys me at the rate of about $50 a day.

★ ★ ★

"How would you suggest for a couple going to Hawaii for the first time?"

First time around I'd take one of the cheap, all-expense tours. They move you around pretty much — bags out at 8 — but you do see everything. Second time you know what you like and can go on your own. I've done two of these. Excellent value.

NEW YORK (Reuters) — The New York Times has announced it has begun the development of a multi-million-dollar computerized information bank which will make general reference material available to users in a matter of seconds.

Sirhan Brother Wild Over Brother

PASADENA, Calif. (LAT) — A wild, early morning scene in the intensive care ward of a Pasadena hospital Friday led to the arrest of Sharif Sirhan, eldest brother of the man on trial for the Sen. Robert Kennedy killing.

Sirhan burst into the ward where a third brother was undergoing treatment for injuries suffered in a traffic accident, police said, and demanded to know how badly he was hurt.

Sirhan, not satisfied with a physician's explanation of the injuries, yanked off his brother's bed covers and flailed out at doctors and nurses who attempted to restrain him, officers added.

★ ★ ★

Police Lieut. Richard Smith forcibly subdued Sirhan after a scuffle. Later Smith booked him at the Pasadena police station on charges of simple assault and disturbing the peace.

The injured brother, Saidallah Sirhan, 36, suffered a fractured skull and broken leg when struck by a car at a pedestrian crossing. He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Pasadena, where his condition remained serious Friday.

En route from the family home in Pasadena to the hospital early Friday to visit the injured brother, Sharif Sirhan, 37, was stopped by a California highway patrolman and cited for driving at excessive speed.

The officer, worried because Sirhan appeared unduly "agitated" over the citation, telephoned Smith, watch commander at Pasadena police headquarters, to alert him.

As a precaution, Smith decided to visit the hospital, and arrived to find Sharif Sirhan berating hospital personnel, resisting their efforts to restrain him and disturbing four other patients in the ward.

Sirhan received a bruised lip in scuffling with the lieutenant. He was treated for the minor injury after being released from custody on $125 bail.

By Handwriting Expert

Hypnotic Theory Shaken In Kennedy-Death Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A handwriting expert testified Friday he did not believe Sirhan Sirhan was in a hypnotic trance when he wrote down in a notebook pledges that he would kill Sen. Robert Kennedy.

The witness, Laurence Stone, struck a major blow at the defence contention that Sirhan scribbled down "RFK must be eliminated like his brother" after hypnotizing himself before a mirror. Sirhan claims he cannot remember writing any of the words.

Stone told the murder trail jury he had compared the quality of the writing in the notebook with scribbling Sirhan made while under hypnosis induced by a psychiatrist in his jail cell. He said the quality was markedly different.

Stone said that as a result of the comparisons, "it is my opinion the writings in the notebook were not done under a state of hypnosis."

NO NAME

It was a had day for the defence.

Police Sgt. Frank Patchett said on the morning of the shooting he asked Sirhan why he wouldn't give his name.

"I asked him if he was ashamed of his name because of what he had pulled off that evening," Patchett said.

"He said 'Hell, no.' But he still wouldn't give his name."

Sirhan contends he did not remember killing Kennedy and still does not.

Two other officers testified Sirhan showed not the slightest trace of intoxication when he was taken into custody and questioned.

The prosecution Friday afternoon called its chief psychiatric witness, Dr. Seymour Pollack, a professor of psychiatry at the University of Southern California school of medicine.

Pollack said he believed the defendant was a young man with a paranoid personality and a certain outlook on life that was mentally disturbed.

"But I believed the assassination was motivated by political reasons, which were highly emotionally charged," he said.

The trial was recessed until Tuesday because of the day of mourning for ex-president Dwight Eisenhower.

Council Praise Appreciated

'Army' Man Points Out Error

The Salvation Army was grateful for Ald. Ian Stewart's praise but he was not correct when he said the provincial government was doing nothing for alcoholics, Capt. Hugh Tilley said Friday.

The aldermanic statement was made at a city council meeting Thursday when a request for a $6,000 grant was refused by the city.

Lavish in their praise of the work being done by the Salvation Army rehabilitation centre, members of council nevertheless refused the application on the grounds that alcoholism was a provincial responsibility.

Ald. Stewart said it was too bad the request had to be refused, but he agreed it was a matter for the province and one the province should do something about.

Capt. Tilley, Salvation Army public relations officer, said that the government made a grant of $6,000 toward the maintenance of Harbor Light and that it contributed $16,500 to the army's alcoholism rehabilitation services elsewhere, including Miracle Valley near Mission.

The officer thought the Victoria Intermunicipal Committee, which also refused the grant, was being inconsistent.

"It doesn't seem to make sense that $2,400 should be granted to Halfway House, which has seven men, and nothing given Harbor Light which has 128," Capt. Tilley said.

Van Horne

Field Trip Today

The intermediate section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet at 1:30 p.m. today at Douglas and Hillside for a beach exploration trip to south Taylor Beach at Metchosin. Conducted trail-walks will be held at 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Sunday at Francis Park.

Maritime Tory Banished

FREDERICTON (CP) — J. Charles Van Horne, former leader of the New Brunswick Progressive Conservative party, Friday was suspended from the provincial legislature for two weeks after he called Liberal Premier Louis J. Robichaud a "liar."

The flareup between Van Horne (PC—Restigouche) and the premier started when Van Horne rose to ask the premier if no other purpose but incitement of the people had been served by Robichaud's handling of a Moncton protest delegation here Thursday.

★ ★ ★

In reply to Van Horne, Premier Robichaud denied he had incited anyone, but charged the Conservative with inciting people by bringing the matter up in the legislature.

Van Horne jumped to his feet and shouted: "That is a deliberate lie and the premier is a liar."

Robichaud demanded a retraction, but Van Horne refused to withdraw his remark and said that "furthermore I will resign if you are not a liar."

Speaker Robert McCready then asked Van Horne to withdraw the accusation, but the former Conservative chief refused unless the premier withdrew his remark. He said Robichaud's accusation was much graver than his.

★ ★ ★

There was silence while Premier Robichaud drafted a motion that said:

"I move that Mr. Van Horne be suspended from the service of the House."

The Speaker reread the motion but was interrupted by Rodman E. Logan (PC—Saint John West) who protested the Speaker had added to the motion that the length of the suspension be two weeks.

However, the Speaker ignored Logan and put the motion to an oral vote. It carried on straight party lines and Van Horne left the chamber.

Richard Hatfield, Conservative House leader, then moved that Robichaud's remarks be referred to the legislature's privileges committee, but the motion was defeated in a voice vote.

Death His Life

Cheery Hello, No Goodbye

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — William Ross Peeler enjoyed dying.

He laughed all the way to the mortuary for nine years, and got his friends to chuckle with him.

A retired clerk in a real estate office, Peeler sat down in 1960, wrote his own orbituary in newspaper style and mailed it to his friends.

It was accompanied by a card that read:

"This is to announce that I, William Ross Peeler, am not dead yet. Anticipating the day of my demise, I am taking this method of informing you there will be no formal funeral. You will find enclosed herewith my obituary. . ."

Thereafter, Peeler always greeted acquaintances with the cheery announcement: "I'm still here." He especially delighted in using that line on his doctor.

★ ★ ★

As the years went by, the friends grew fewer. Peeler, an elderly bachelor, had no known relatives in California. When his health failed last August, he had the financial resources to enter a rest home.

There William Ross Peeler, 75, Saturday met the death he had laughed at so long.

★ ★ ★

He left no records of his finances, and no names of relatives were found in his papers. He had made no provision for his burial.

The public administrator took charge of the affairs of the man who wrote in his own orbituary: "He is not sure whether his future abode will be hot or cold, but he is fully prepared to make the best of it, as he expects to find friends in either place."

Three Men Electrocuted

BELLUNO, Italy (UPI) — Three men working on a building site were killed when one touched a high tension wire. Two died instantly and the third died a short time after the accident without regaining consciousness.

Spacefaring 'Clover' Still Puzzles

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mariner 7 spacecraft performed smoothly Friday on its lengthy journey toward the planet Mars but scientists were still puzzled by three irregularities that turned up shortly after launch.

"The spacecraft is doing fine now. But we are trying to find out what happened earlier," a spokesman said.

The 910-pound spacecraft, which resembles a four-leaf clover with its 19-foot-wide solar panels extended, was launched Thursday from Cape Kennedy atop an Atlas-Centaur rocket. Scientists hope the craft and its space twin, Mariner 6, will tell them whether Mars can support life.

Teachers Look Back

SURREY (CP) — Surrey teachers want a return to the days before 1961 and the Chant Commission on education with longer Christmas holidays and a shorter school day.

They will put a resolution before the upcoming Teachers Federation convention asking for two-week Christmas holidays beginning at least four days before Christmas and an average six-hour day, rather than 6½.

THEY DON'T MAKE SHIPS LIKE THIS ANYMORE.
There is an opulence in the world that has little to do with computers, or chrome or instant coffee. This once, cross to Europe on the s.s. Nieuw Amsterdam.

If you have the time to sail to Europe, take the ship that knows how. The Floatel Nieuw Amsterdam is sort of a dream hotel at sea with impeccable service, but no tipping. Shows nightly but never a cover or minimum. And every midnight the kind of buffet a real hotel saves for New Year's Eve.
You will travel two extra days in a world of soaring ceilings, grand ballrooms, spiral staircases, even a floating sculpture two decks high. A world of people who all know how to enjoy, and who'd rather enjoy their first week of vacation on a fine ship than anywhere else.
The Nieuw Amsterdam is the only ship sailing from Halifax to Europe's 3 big ports: Southampton, Le Havre and Rotterdam. Departures June 21, August 3, August 24, September 13.
Also 12 crossings from New York, April 15 through September 12. For details see your travel agent or write Holland-America. Ask about our special Mini-Tours, too.

Flames, Fireballs Kill One, Hurt 83 In Plant Inferno

WILMINGTON, Calif. (UPI) — Small jets of flame, fed by leaking gas, sputtered up Friday from twisted, broken pipelines at a devastated oil refinery in the aftermath of an inferno that killed one man and injured 83 other persons, including many chlidren.

Although firemen finally controlled the $1,000,000 holocaust at the Fletcher Oil and Refining Co. early Friday, they continued to pour foam into the area throughout the day to prevent another eruption of the flames that broke out shortly after 5 p.m. Thursday.

A series of explosions in the flaming gasoline and aviation fuel storage tanks shot gigantic fireballs 1,000 feet into the air. The heat radiated by the fireballs, which were visible 25 miles away in the Hollywood Hills, was so intense that persons on a street two blocks away sustained flesh burns.

Bill Lyons, 27, a motorist driving a few blocks from the refinery, said he felt a "very, very hot" blast of air on his face.

"I felt the heat, I turned and I saw a giant ball of fire, about 330 yards across, just sitting there, hanging in the sky. In a couple of minutes it diminished in size and smoke began to come up."

The fire was touched off as gasoline was being removed from a truck at a loading dock.

"We don't know whether there was a minor fire followed by an explosion or whether there was an instant explosion," said a fire department spokesman.

The truck driver, Myron Chase, 47, Long Beach, Calif., was killed and a man working on the loading dock, Stephen Yancy, 51, Torrance, Calif., was in critical condition with burns over much of his body.

The flames whipped through small buildings and set afire 10 tanks containing aviation fuel, diesel oil, naptha and gasoline.

Most of the injured suffered minor burns. Many were children who were watching the fire and suffered flash burns when the fireballs swooshed up.

Czech Ice Victory Makes Up 'for August'

PRAGUE (UPI) — Thousands of Czechoslovaks burst into the streets of Prague Friday night in a fiery frenzy of celebration for the nation's 4-3 victory over the Soviet Union in the semi-finals of the world hockey championships. (See Page 12.)

Most of the celebrants converged on Wenceslas Square, where they waved burning brooms and newspapers, chanted "For August! For August!

● Cougars even series with 7-5 victory. Page 12.

For August!" and demolished the offices of the Soviet airline Aeroflot.

The Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia took place last August, and Soviet occupation troops are still stationed in the country.

The square, whose official capacity is 200,000 persons, was jammed with yelling celebrants.

The crowd singled out the Aeroflot offices, the only Soviet office on the square, for destruction and had virtually demolished it before police fought through to set up a protective cordon. The office's windows and signs were smashed, its files scattered and burned and its furniture pitched into the street.

"It is a revolution of good feeling," cried one man. But another shouted "Russian beasts, go home."

Old soldiers never die

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ike is dead.

Soldier, president and one of the revered figures of American history, Dwight David Eisenhower died Friday at 9:25 a.m. PST in Walter Reed Army Hospital.

His death ended a heroic struggle against a long series of major illnesses with a heart weakened by repeated attacks.

He was 78.

Final state funeral services will be held Monday in the National Cathedral here. Burial will be Wednesday in Abilene, Kan.

He had led the mightiest armed force ever assembled to victory over the German Nazis in the Second World War.

D-DAY ARCHITECT

He was the architect of D-Day, the invasion of the European continent that broke the back of enemy resistance.

He was the 34th president of the United States during eight cold war years.

His was a Republican administration of domestic tranquillity.

The country will pay final tribute to Ike in a state funeral that, beginning today, will span three days in the U.S. capital before the body is borne by slow train to his boyhood home in Abilene.

MOURNING DAY

There, near the Eisenhower Library, Ike will be buried.

President Nixon, who was Eisenhower's vice-president for eight years and who assumed some presidential duties during the president's illnesses, formally announced the death in a proclamation.

Designating Monday a national day of mourning, Nixon said

New Car Insurance Protection for First $250

B.C. Fills Liability Gap

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

B.C. drivers will be able to buy third-party liability insurance to protect themselves against damage claims up to $250 if they are negligent, Attorney-General Leslie Peterson told the Legislature Friday.

The government's change in plans was announced as the Legislature gave approval in principle to legislation setting up a new compulsory, non-cancellable car insurance scheme which will provide basic no-fault coverage for 1,000,000 licensed B.C. drivers.

Mr. Peterson indicated the government bowed to public pressure demanding the change. But he told the House the government hoped the majority of drivers would not take advantage of the easing of the previous prohibition on third-party liability coverage for property damage up to the $250 maximum that can be recovered in a damage suit.

By agreeing that "if negligent, they should assume this cost out of their own pocket," drivers who don't purchase the supplementary third-party coverage will be helping to fulfil the government's original intent of promoting defensive driving on B.C. highways, the attorney-general said.

THREE HOURS

For much of the three hours of debate on second reading of amendments to the Insurance Act, the government's new insurance scheme came under heavy attack from the opposition. Both NDP and Liberals voted against approval in principle of the bill which was passed by a vote of 28 to 19.

William Hartley (NDP-Yale Lillooet), acting as spokesman for his party, said it was immoral for the government to force every licensed driver in the province to contribute to the income of a private industry "that has been condemned for price-fixing and gouging for years."

FUNDS POINT

The NDP member tried to claim that a portion of compulsory premiums would find its way into the campaign funds of Social Credit but was sharply ordered by Speaker William Murray to withdraw the remark and apologize to the House.

Mr. Hartley did as he was asked and added that a government-run car insurance scheme was the only way the Legislature could live up to its

Students advance on Sherbrooke Street

McGill Fuss Fades

MONTREAL (CP) — As roving nands of demonstrators smashed some store windows in downtown Montreal Friday night, about 500 persons attempted to return to the McGill University campus, scene of an earlier 6,000-strong march to show support for converting the university into a French-language institution.

The 500 were quickly chased back downtown by police on motorcycles and other police squads quickly broke up the wandering groups of window breakers.

There were unconfirmed radio reports of some minor looting.

MINOR SCUFFLES

The banner-waving 15-block march by about 6,000 persons along Sherbrooke to the university had been relatively orderly. Minor scuffles broke out in front of the university, but there was no major clash with reinforced squads of police.

No demonstrators managed to get on to property owned by the 148-year-old university and marchers began dispersing about 1½ hours after reaching the university gates on Sherbrooke Street.

SUCCESS CLAIMED

Organizers claimed the demonstration had succeeded in publicizing their demands and appealed to marchers to head for home.

However, police later moved in with vehicles in riot equipment to break up lingering groups of hard-core demonstrators.

At least eight persons were reported arrested and there were four persons injured in the later clashes.

SEA OF FACES

Sherbrooke Street in front of the university was a sea of faces dotted with placards, flags and banners.

Raymond Lemieux, president of the Ligue pour l'Integration Scolaire, an organizer of the demonstration told the crowd:

Hunt for Nazis Now Unlimited

BONN (Reuters) — The West German government has announced it intends to abolish the statute of limitations restricting the prosecution of Nazi war criminals.

Justice Minister Horst Ehmke told the Bundesrat (upper house) Friday that the bill would be introduced before the end of the present legislature period in July.

The statute of limitations originally would have barred courts from opening proceedings covering Nazi murders and genocide after 1965, but the 20-year limitation was extended until the end of this year.

Disaster?

SHE'LL NEVER KNOW

SPOKANE (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth Steen, 29-year-old Spokane seeress who had predicted an earthquake for California next month, died Friday.

Doctors said cause of death was a heart attack but that Mrs. Steen had been ill for some time with Collogan's disease. The ailment involves deterioration of the body's connective tissue.

She came to Spokane last November from the San Francisco area. The move here with her husband and children was based on her forecast of an earthquake for the Pacific coast sometime in April.

Mrs. Steen had been the subject of articles in national magazines after predicting Martin Luther King would be shot to death April 6, 1968. He was killed in Memphis, Tenn., last April 4.

Saddened de Gaulle Flying to Funeral

Colonist Los Angeles Times Service

PARIS — President Charles de Gaulle, who now is the last of the living great figures of the Second World War, will fly to Washington to attend the state funeral of Dwight Eisenhower.

In a message to President Nixon, released a few hours after the announcement of Eisenhower's death, de Gaulle said: "For me, I see disappear with much sadness a dear companion in arms and a friend."

To Mrs. Eisenhower, de Gaulle messaged: "I want to assure you in these painful circumstances that I will keep forever the memory of he who was a great soldier, an eminent statesman, a sincere friend of France and for whom I had a deep affection."

'Only to Smile' Monty Recalls

LONDON (UPI)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery answered the telephone himself when it rang Friday evening at his country estate just outside London.

"I know, I know," he told a newsman calling to inform him of the death of his old comrade-in-arms. "All my old friends are dying."

His voice shaking with emotion, the 81-year-old British hero of the North Africa campaign who served under Eisenhower in the invasion of Europe and has since criticized Eisenhower's military ability, said his death "leaves a gap in my life."

"Ike was a very great human being, utterly sincere and incapable of anything mean or underhanded," Montgomery said. "His passing leaves me very sad."

The field marshal recalled that Eisenhower "had only to smile at you and there was nothing you would not do for him. I served under his command from April, 1943, to the end of the German war and was proud to do so."

Montgomery said the Eisenhower family had asked him to go to the funeral but he had declined.

"I said I was too old and would probably break down. They will understand, I feel sure."

Insurance Firm Fires NDP Member and Agent

William Hartley (NDP-Yale Lillooet) in the Legislature Friday linked his surprise dismissal after nearly 19 years service as an agent with a B.C. insurance firm with his role as chief spokesman for the New Democratic Party on car insurance. He sold all types of insurance, including car.

During the debate on second reading of the government's proposed new car insurance plan, Mr. Hartley recalled that he was attacked by Jim Chabot (SC-Columbia River) who claimed that as an insurance agent the NDP member should not be allowed to sit on the Legislature's committee studying the Wootton report.

After the question had been referred to Speaker William Murray he was allowed to sit on the committee, but recalled that Philip Gaglardi (SC-Kamloops), minister without portfolio, kept up a continual sniping by asking "are you still selling insurance?"

"I did not pay too much attention to (Mr. Gaglardi's) wisecracks," Mr. Hartley said. "However, it would appear that these representatives of the Social Credit paryt were either acting for, or just thinking, as the insurance industry, when they called for my removal from the insurance committee.

"An odd coincidence happened just a few hours after Bill 74 (establishing a new car insurance plan) was tabled in this House. I received a letter from the insurance company with

Turkey Terrorized By Deadly Quake

ISTANBUL (UPI) — An earthquake rolled across western Turkey early Friday, killing scores of persons and destroying houses, factories and mosques in the pre-dawn darkness, and isolating hundreds of villages.

Preliminary reports put the death toll at 50. Authorities said the figure was likely to rise.

Bishop Scott Speaks Twice On Victoria Visit

Scott

Bishop E. W. (Ted) Scott of Kootenay will speak at the Maundy Thursday evening eucharist at 8 p.m. and the three hours' devotion on Good Friday starting at noon in Christ Church Cathedral.

The bishop will also speak at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Lenten series of talks sponsored by the Greater Victoria Council of Churches. The series, under the title What is Your Response?, is being held in the Youth Room of First United Church.

WELL KNOWN HERE

Bishop Scott is well-known in Victoria. He is secretary of the House of Bishops (B.C.), chairman of the board of Sorrento Anglican Lay Training Centre, secretary of the joint committee of Anglican Training college and United College in Vancouver, a member of the Primate's commission on marriage and related matters, and a member of the general synod committee on women's work in the church.

He was consecrated, in January, 1966, the sixth Bishop of Kootenay diocese. Born in Edmonton, he completed his higher education at UBC, graduating from ATC in 1942.

FIRST PARISH

His first parish was St. Peter's, Seal Cover, in the diocese of Caledonia. He moved to Winnipeg in 1945 where he served in various capacities until 1964, when he became associate secretary of the Christian social service department of the church in Toronto.

PROBABLE ORIGIN

Chess probably originated in India during or before the 7th century.

Appeal Loses Money

By DON GAIN

The Colonist this week received a touching letter from Father N. J. Hendriks of Kipalapala, Tanzania.

The Dutch priest sent the results of a Christmas card campaign for funds which he launched last year on the people of Victoria. Unfortunately Victoria was not ready for it. In his letter of this week Father Hendriks reported that more than 60,000 cards were mailed at a cost of $4,300.00. He received 146 replies with a total of $1,620.00 in donations. This means TMP Printing Department lost $2,680.00.

BLAMES HIMSELF

"A flop for which I have to blame mainly myself," Father Hendriks wrote.

"I should have better explained and given better information beforehand. Most people of Victoria have feared a racket. They had serious doubts and consequently have thrown the card in the wastepaper basket. You will understand that we are disappointed that so few have reacted upon our cry for help."

LEGITIMATE

Father Hendriks' project has been checked out and found to be legitimate. His printing department supplies school books, newspapers, and other necessities for the area. It is not self-supporting and requires outside help.

Father Hendriks put in his letter: "Easter is approaching! Perhaps some good people in Victoria will still find an Easter egg for us to get us out of the dump." The address for donations is TMP Printing Department, Box 314, Tabora, Tanzania, East Africa, or Bank of Montreal, 1225 Douglas, Victoria.

Island Shantymen Hold Annual Dinner Meeting

The auditorium of Central Baptist Church was filled Tuesday night by missioners from many parts of Vancouver Island who attended the annual dinner meeting of the Shantymen's Christian Association.

The busiest man in the church was the Rev. Percy Wills of Victoria, Vancouver Island Superintendent. Mr. Wills showed people to their seats, served food, made sure things were going smoothly and generally made everybody feel at home. At one point in the evening he was washing dishes while Fred Holm and Mrs. Rene Easton, both of Victoria, dried. Since about 1932 Mr. Wills has been active in the work of the association.

He began his missionary travels on the West Coast by canoe and on foot and then became a seagoing minister in the boat Messenger I. There was a Messenger II and a Messenger III which now has been superseded by a big camper truck called Messenger IV. Mr. Wills said this week there were only three areas around the Island which could not be reached by car. They are Carmana Point, Estevan Point and Cape Scott.

Mr. Wills retired from his travelling work in 1955 but this is hard to believe when one sees him in action. He began his evangelical career in 1920 in Winnipeg. After preaching in Prairie Pulpits he came to Vancouver Island and joined the Shantymen's Association. The Association began in Toronto in 1903. It was started by William Henderson to take the gospel to remote settlements in northern Ontario and Quebec. By 1932 it had reached Vancouver Island.

★ ★ ★

Speaker of the evening was Rev. Norman Archer. Also present were Rev. and Mrs. John Moore; Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Rowell; Donald Robertson of Courtenay; Harold Peters, a former skipper of the Messenger, of Union Bay; and Jack Spratt of Victoria, of the Gospel by Mail program.

Church Parade Planned

About 200 cadets and members of the staff of Royal Roads Military College will hold a church parade in Victoria Sunday morning.

Cadets will attend St. Andrew's Presbyterian and St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral. After church the officer cadets will be reviewed by Mayor Hugh Stephen on Douglas Street in front of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church The parade route will be from Gordon to Broughton, Broad, Fort, Douglas and Courtney. The parade will pass the reviewing stand about 12:15 p.m.

Attending church with the cadets will be Chaplain (P) D. A. Hatfield and Chaplain (RC) R. Delisle. Cadet Wing Commander is Randall Stowell of Pine Falls, Man.

Cultural Exchange Reaches Victoria

A cultural exchange program for youth, originating in Mexico City, has reached Victoria.

Purpose of the program is to acquaint the youth of Mexico, Central America, Canada and the U.S. with the actual values and truths of each other's cultures through living experiences in the countries as guest members of families. Mrs. Llona O'Gorman said this week.

A meeting will be held at Mrs. O'Gorman's home, 2904 Phyllis, at 8:30 p.m. today. One of the exchange students, Virginia Vasquez, will be on hand to talk about the program.

The exchange visits take place during the school vacation periods of the students.

The responsibility of the host family is to provide room, board and friendship for the visitors. Students are sponsored by their families or civic groups of their own country. Costs include round trip air transportation, group insurance and administrative expenses.

Anyone wishing to take part in the exchange is invited to tonight's meeting at Mrs. O'Gorman's.

Land Petition For Castlegar

TRAIL (CP) — The Land for Canadians Committee is circulating a petition around the West Kootenay district to have land around Arrow Dam reservoir near Castlegar kept available for Canadians for a period of five years before letting Americans have it. The committee is headed by H. W. Herridge, former MP for Kootenay West, and Royal Canadian Legion officials.

Anglican Women Instal Officers

Anglican church women are doing things today which a few years ago would have seemed un-churchy.

This has come about through a growing awareness of the needs of the world reflected in the emphasis on social action and a realization that they must become actively involved.

This was part of the message brought to the women by Mrs. John Robertson, national president, last week.

ISLAND GATHERING

She spoke to 250 Anglican church women from as far away as Port Hardy at the annual meeting March 18 and 19 in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay.

Adding an ecumenical touch was the presence of Mrs. L. Shelling, president of the Catholic women's League; Mrs. A. Sheard, representing United Church Women, and Mrs. F. Elford, Presbyterian Church Women.

Mrs. A. Winser, convenor of handicrafts, reported sales of Pakistani embroideries amounting to $1,112.30 during the year. This project employs indigent women in Pakistan. Mrs. G. H. Greenhalgh, of Nanaimo, reported United Thank Offering of $3,275.53 for the year.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS

In her address, the Diocesan president, Mrs. F. A. Goodwin, said that all commitments for the year had been met in spite of declining membership. She spoke of the uncertainty of women's place in the working of the church; their future may not lie in such organized groups as Anglican Church Women. The changing pattern of women's work was also reflected in the reports of Ruth Scott, educational chairman; Mrs. E. W. Scott, chairman of family life, and Mrs. N. W. Life, chairman of vocation and girls. In the last two it was particularly stressed that the work is the responsibility of the whole church.

OFFICERS

Archdeacon J. W. Forth installed the following officers: Mrs. F. A. Goodwin, president; Ruth Scott, first vice-president; Mrs. H. Hubbard, second vice-president; Mrs. H. McDonald, recording secretary; Dora Brown, treasurer; Mrs. H. Newnham, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. Hugh, devotions; Mrs. M. W. George, extra cents; Mrs. H. Monaghan, dorcas supply; Marjory Bernard, social service; Mrs. N. B. Fatt, living message; Mrs. E. W. Scott, family life.

Early Start Possible For Building

PARKSVILLE — It was a story of success which was told at a recent annual meeting of Parksville and District Credit Union.

Members were told that it was a record year in growth and membership, that there were substantial increases in all phases of operation and there was a promise of an early start in building a new office building complex.

Total assets amounted to more than $2,000,000 at the end of December, it was stated. They increased to more than $3,000,000 at the end of February. There were 2,800 members in the Parksville-Qualicum district Manager Howard Besson reported that in 1968, assets had increased by $899,999 in 1968 compared to 1967, a gain of 47.1 per cent.

He said that there was a high demand for loans—more than $2,000,000 worth were granted in 1968.

Mr. Besson felt it was much better to be able to use members' money to help other members to assist in promoting local industry.

In the directors' report, presented by vice-president Jerry Thompson, it was stated that a 4¼ per cent dividend had been declared on paid-up share capital. The rate was the same as in 1966 and 1967.

The report said that the Qualicum Beach branch had assets totalling more than $1,500,000, including rented store space.

The branch had proved to be "a great success" since it opened in October, 1967, said the report.

The credit committee approved 1,001 in loans for 1968, a record total, which amounted to $2,018,263 — a 10 per cent increase over 1967.

Director Arnie Van Horne, building committee chairman, said it was hoped to have the new office building ready for occupancy by September.

Mr. Toews was re-elected as president. Directors are Jerry Thompson, Ed Lockhart and James Dodler, for three years; M. H. Manuel, for one year.

Tub Race Draws Navy Ships

NANAIMO — There will be some naval visitors in Nanaimo Harbor for this year's bathtub race.

Capt. H. J. Garnet of the U.S. naval base at Key Port, Wash., has told Mayor Frank Ney that there will be a torpedo recovery vessel in the harbor.

Rear-Admiral J. A. Charles, commanding officer of the Maritime Forces, Pacific, has said that Canadian vessels Porte Quebec, Cowichan, Porte de la Reine and Miramichi would also be present.

Work Cuts Curve

UNION BAY — Construction of a cutoff which will eliminate curve at Keenan's Corner, south of Buckley Bay, on the Island Highway, is well advanced.

The reverse curve has caused complaints among travellers for years and protests have been made to the highways department by the area Chamber of Commerce.

"It is hoped that the job will be completed before the heavy summer traffic starts," said R. G. Mulcaster, district engineer.

"The plan is that the southern section of the cutoff will be wholly completed, including pavement. At that point, the old curve will be closed off.

"Where the new road and the existing highway connect at the north end, it will be necessary to dump fill gravel to bring the area to grade. At that stage, traffic will be handled over a one-lane road for a short period."

Chairman Chosen By SPCA

NANAIMO — Mrs. Margaret Foley was elected chairman of the Nanaimo SPCA at the annual meeting recently. Lorne McLaughlin was named vice-chairman.

Other officers are: Joan Rawlson, recording secretary; Doris Edwards, corresponding secretary, Jean McGrath, treasurer; Thelma Brown, ways and means chairman.

CRUELTY CHARGES

The society reported there were 58 charges of cruelty and neglect issued last year, 1,765 phone calls made, 60 licence violation tickets issued and 125 impounded dogs with only 65 claimed. The cat population, the society said, was growing quickly and the community needed to be educated to have the females spayed.

Survey Work Begins

B.C. Hydro has started survey work on the right-of-way for a new distribution line that will bring electrical power to Cortes Island about 24 miles northwest of Powell River.

The new line begins at Lund, 14 miles north of Powell River, extends north 7.2 miles to Sara Point where submarine cables will carry the power 2.3 miles underwater to Mary Point on Cortes Island. Three cables will be installed one of which will act as a spare.

Love Quest Launches Quail

By DON COLLINS

From Russia With Love was a spy thriller featuring James Bond.

Vancouver Island has now provided the setting for a sequel — From Duncan for Love — featuring Quincey the Quivering Quail.

While this is by no means a spy thriller, it is a bit of a baffler for Trevor Davis, 5927 West Saanich Road.

Mr. Davis said Friday that a California quail, unlike a homing pigeon, isn't supposed to travel a great distance to reach home.

But Quincey, one of four quail he sold as pets to a man in Duncan, arrived back at the Davis home, tired but happy.

★ ★ ★

"I have never heard of this before," said Mr. Davis who has been raising and selling quail for seven years.

The distance travelled was about 35 miles.

California quail prefer to do their travelling on the ground and only fly when frightened, Mr. Davis said.

However, Quincey (a name hung on him by an amused observer) may have had another reason for taking to the air. He was the only one of the four Duncan-bought birds who left a mate behind at the Davis home.

Mr. Davis says he can't be sure this has anything to do with the bird's accomplishment.

But it did have that look in its eye when it arrived.

Duncan Complex

Provincial Building Going Up

DUNCAN — Another stage in the development of a public area at the bottom of Station Street, Duncan, is about to start.

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant announced Friday that a $833,000 contract had been awarded for construction of offices.

The work will be started immediately by Burns and Ditton Construction Ltd. of Richmond.

New law courts were opened in the area, which borders Government Street, in January. A city plan for that section, outlined several years ago, includes a civic complex which will include a theatre, council chamber and city offices, library and landscaped grounds.

Duncan aldermen said several weeks ago that it was hoped a start would be planned soon on at least a part of the group.

★ ★ ★

Commenting on the latest provincial project, Mayor Jim Quaife said Friday, "The provincial government has thrown the ball at us for our participation in the public use area."

He said it was decided some years ago by the city and provincial government to develop the area.

"Council is now confronted with the relocation of roads adjacent to the new law courts and the proposed provincial administration office building, and with planning of the public use area.

"What the completion of the government project will do for Duncan's downtown area is fantastic. The government is instilling new life into the downtown area and it will have a very beneficial affect on the whole city."

After U.S.

Lumber Dip Sighted

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lumber industry spokesmen predicted Friday that declining United States lumber prices will be reflected in the Canadian market, but saw a halt in the downward trend.

A spokesman for MacMillan Bloedel said it was "inevitable" that the U.S. prices would lead to lower Canadian prices but added there was no sign of the reduction yet.

L. L. G. Bentley, senior vice-president of Canadian Forest Products said he does not believe prices will fall very far.

"I think they were too high," he said. But I hope they stay reasonably high.

Lumber dealer, George Roe of Abbotsford described the market as "very unusual," and added that he could see no reason for the present unrealistic prices.

Fishing Licence Views 'Mischief' for Politics

PORT ALBERNI—Vancouver-Seymour MP Ray Perrault Friday accused the NDP of "political mischief" in its representation of recent federal salmon fishing legislation and the two-per-cent social development tax.

Mr. Perrault spoke to a luncheon on behalf of Richard Durante, Liberal candidate in the April 8 Comox-Alberni by-election.

Referring to the Trudeau government fisheries policy, Mr. Perrault said, "This administration will never permit big fishing companies to own all class A fishing boats."

BIG COMPANIES

He said the NDP had stated otherwise.

"The word is," he said, "this government is allowing the big companies to buy up the licences," He said this was "simply not true."

Mr. Perrault, former B.C. Liberal leader, also called "total nonsense" the NDP claim, in Perrault's words, "that this tax showed the awful way the little man is being crushed."

He said, "People in low income brackets will benefit," and will not pay the total $120 annual levey, but will receive a rebate.

He also said B.C. will receive $50,000 as a result of the levy. He noted either hospital taxation rates should come down or service should improve as a result.

But, he said, what the premier did with the money was not controlled by the federal government.

Addressing himself to the NDP charge that the federal government is "do-nothing administration, Mr. Perrault said statistics prove "the critics of this government who . . . spread gloom, doom and disaster around this country are wrong.

Seniors Seek Ringers

DUNCAN — Old age pensioners are back in there pitching after a cold winter.

Horseshoes, that is.

"We sure missed our horseshoes during this terrible winter," said 85-year-old George Taylor. "It's good to be back at them again."

★ ★ ★

For the past 12 years, there has been a horseshoe pitch on the old agricultural grounds. "It is sponsored by the Duncan old age pensioners, but anyone can play," said Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Taylor said the old age pensioner players range in age from 65 to 91. He, G. A. Watson, 78, and Otto Gaught, 91 have been going after ringers ever since the pitch was made.

Budget Vote Today

DUNCAN — About 8,500 Cowichan school district ratepayers are eligible to vote in today's referendum on the 1969 school budget bylaw.

Polls are open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Returning officer Peter Hayward, secretary of the Cowichan Valley regional board said polling stations will be at: Crofton, Maple Bay, Westholme, Sahtlam, Old Koksilah Bench, Cowichan Station and Shawnigan Lake elementary schools, George Bonner junior high school at Cobble Hill, North Cowichan municipal hall, Duncan city hall and North Cowichan (south end) firehall.

A 60 per cent majority is required for passage of the bylaw, which would approve a total budget of $4,366,572.

Cup Challenger Picks Lumber from Island

LAKE COWICHAN — Australia has turned to Canada for special lumber to build the next challenger for the 117-year-old America's Cup.

Western Forest Industries at Honeymoon Bay received the order for lumber for the Australian sloop and during the last few weeks 7,000 board feet of western red cedar and Douglas fir were assembled, selected from prime old growth cedar and fir logs.

NDP Will Choose Campbell Challenger

"YOU CAN feel the sound," Indian singer Abel Joe seems to be telling youngster at Khowhemun elementary school, Duncan, as schoolmates gather round to hear beat of Indian drum. Mr. Joe sang Indian songs during recent visit to school, told some Indian history and explained meaning of some Indian words.—(Klaus Muenter)

Nomination of the New Democratic Party standard bearer in the Comox constituency in the next B.C. general election will be decided at Campbell River during a party meeting Sunday.

The seat thas been held since 1956 by Dan Campbell, Social Credit, who is minister of municipal affairs and social welfare in the Bennett cabinet.

Three candidates for the NDP nominations are Courtenay School District teacher and alderman Harry Harris, Campbell River fisherman Norman Lysen and papermaker Larry Widen.

The convention starts at 2 p.m. in the Elks Hall, Campbell River.

A motorcade of Comox Valley members will rally at 3rd and Cliff in Courtenay at 12:30 p.m. before proceeding to Campbell River.

Legion Win

Campbell River branch of the Royal Canadian Legion has won a trophy for the best skit in an annual Bits and Pieces concert held recently in the junior high school auditorium.

Award for the best musical went to the senior high cheerleaders and the prize for best comedy was won by Sayward school drama club. Brian Duncan and Lorna Duncan, both of Sayward were judged best actor and actress.

Sid Williams of Courtenay led the local talent which provided entertainment between the skits. Proceeds will go to community projects of the Rotary Club which sponsored the concert.

New Church

A concert at Parksville community hall today will help to raise money for a new Roman Catholic church which is being built at French Creek to serve the Parksville-Qualicum district.

Work on the church is nearly complete.

The concert is sponsored by the St. Thomas Aquinas organization and will be headlined by singer David Galbraith of Qualicum Beach. Others taking part include Tom Batty, Mrs. R. Cody and Herman Vanderbyl.

Parking Study

Nanaimo downtown parking commission split into three groups this week each held separate meetings, the last of which was on Thursday.

Commission chairman Norm Graham, said members agreed that they should press fo ranother plebescite for parking areas in the city centre.

The commissioners, Mr. Graham said, felt that the area must have more parking space.

The groups would merge into one and have a common meeting within two weeks, said Mr. Graham.

Easter Walk

North Cowichan Ald. Dennis Hogan will be sponsored by North Cowichan council members at 50 cents each per mile in an Easter Monday eight-mile walkathon to raise funds for Boy Scouts.

The walk from the North Cowichan municipal hall to Pioneer Park is open to all ages and prizes will be given to the oldest and youngest participants and for best costumes.

AFTER SURVIVING tough winter, small palm trees in Nanaimo's George Pearson Bridge park have new battle on their hands thriving in middle of construction for widening the bridge to four lanes. The three palms were given to city by Mayor Frank Ney before he was mayor. Here, one of trees looks rather bedraggled as wooden forms for concrete rise about it.—(Agnes Flett)

Lone Complaint

Hovercraft 'Sound Of Progress'

The only place Nanaimo Mayor Frank Ney has heard complaints about hovercraft noise is in Oak Bay, where there is no hovercraft.

"We have had no complaints of hovercraft noise in Nanaimo at all," he told Saanich Chamber of Commerce members Thursday night.

The sound of the craft is the "sound of progress," he said. "We hardly hear it go."

Mayor Ney said riding in the hovercraft was "like being in a jet airplane. It has the same type of engine as planes."

★ ★ ★

If West Vancouver residents are bothered by the sound of the craft, "they should double up on martinis," he recommended.

"The hovercraft is here to stay," Mayor Ney said. "We have to give tourists every type of transportation we can to get them here. Transportation is vital to the Island. Can we really and truly overlook the hovercraft?" he asked.

★ ★ ★

The craft now in use between Vancouver and Nanaimo is the SRN6, worth about $450,000, Mayor Ney explained. He said Pacific Hovercraft plans to have three similar crafts in operation by May, sharing time among Vancouver, Nanaimo and the Victoria area.

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis told the chamber that "we are all a little redfaced over the hovercraft fiasco."

★ ★ ★

"It's amazing that a new means of transportation, developed in Britain, of all places, should be rejected by Oak Bay, the last bastion of Britain here," he said.

Saanich has asked for hovercraft demonstrations, but as yet has had "no formal contact" except by telephone from the company, Mayor Curtis said.

"Let's encourage them and make damned sure we get a hovercraft,' he said.

Chamber president Alfred Pettersen said he understodd an application from Pacific Hovercraft had been received by Sidney.

★ ★ ★

Sidney Mayor A. W. Freeman said Thursday night that his council has not received an application for a port from the company.

"They have written to me explaining the problems they have had, and asking if they can demonstrate the craft at Sidney,' Mayor Freeman said.

"I feel this isn't something that has to be decided personally or by the council. I have discussed it with the council. We have accepted their offer to demonstrate the model to interested parties in the area," he said.

Czech Ice Victory Makes Up 'for August'

PRAGUE (UPI) — Thousands of Czechoslovaks burst into the streets of Prague Friday night in a fiery frenzy of celebration for the nation's 4-3 victory over the Soviet Union in the semi-finals of the world hockey championships. (See Page 12.)

Most of the celebrants converged on Wenceslas Square, where they waved burning brooms and newspapers, chanted "For August! For August! For August!" and demolished the offices of the Soviet airline Aeroflot.

● Cougars even series with 7-5 victory. Page 12.

The Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia took place last August, and Soviet occupation troops are still stationed in the country.

The square, whose official capacity is 200,000 persons, was jammed with yelling celebrants.

The crowd singled out the Aeroflot offices, the only Soviet office on the square, for destruction and had virtually demolished it before police fought through to set up a protective cordon. The office's windows and signs were smashed, its files scattered and burned and its furniture pitched into the street.

"It is a revolution of good feeling," cried one man. But another shouted "Russian beasts, go home."

Old soldiers never die

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ike is dead.

Soldier, president and one of the revered figures of American history, Dwight David Eisenhower died Friday at 9:25 a.m. PST in Walter Reed Army Hospital.

His death ended a heroic struggle against a long series of major illnesses with a heart weakened by repeated attacks.

He was 78.

Final state funeral services will be held Monday in the National Cathedral here. Burial will be Wednesday in Abilene, Kan.

He had led the mightiest armed force ever assembled to victory over the German Nazis in the Second World War.

D-DAY ARCHITECT

He was the architect of D-Day, the invasion of the European continent that broke the back of enemy resistance.

He was the 34th president of the United States during eight cold war years.

His was a Republican administration of domestic tranquility.

The country will pay final tribute to Ike in a state funeral that, beginning today, will span three days in the U.S. capital before the body is borne by slow train to his boyhood home in Abilene.

MOURNING DAY

There, near the Eisenhower Library, Ike will be buried.

President Nixon, who was Eisenhower's vice-president for eight years and who assumed some presidential duties during the president's illnesses, formally announced the death in a proclamation.

Designating Monday a national day of mourning, Nixon said

Saddened de Gaulle Flying to Funeral

Colonist Los Angeles Times Service

PARIS — President Charles de Gaulle, who now is the last of the living great figures of the Second World War, will fly to Washington to attend the state funeral of Dwight Eisenhower.

In a message to President Nixon, released a few hours after the announcement of Eisenhower's death, de Gaulle said: "For me, I see disappear with much sadness a dear companion in arms and a friend."

To Mrs. Eisenhower, de Gaulle messaged: "I want to assure you in these painful circumstances that I will keep forever the memory of he who was a great soldier, an eminent statesman, a sincere friend of France and for whom I had a deep affection."

'Only to Smile' Monty Recalls

LONDON (UPI)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery answered the telephone himself when it rang Friday evening at his country estate just outside London.

"I know, I know," he told a newsman calling to inform him of the death of his old comrade-in-arms. "All my old friends are dying."

His voice shaking with emotion, the 81-year-old British hero of the North Africa campaign who served under Eisenhower in the invasion of Europe and has since criticized Eisenhower's military ability, said his death "leaves a gap in my life."

"Ike was a very great human being, utterly sincere and incapable of anything mean or underhanded," Montgomery said. "His passing leaves me very sad."

The field marshal recalled that Eisenhower "had only to smile at you and there was nothing you would not do for him. I served under his command from April, 1943, to the end of the German war and was proud to do so."

Montgomery said the Eisenhower family had asked him to go to the funeral but he had declined.

"I said I was too old and would probably break down. They will understand, I feel sure."

First $250 Coverage Again

B.C. FILLS LIABILITY GAP

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

B.C. drivers will be able to buy third-party liability insurance to protect themselves against damage claims up to $250 if they are negligent, Attorney-General Leslie Peterson told the Legislature Friday.

The government's change in plans was announced as the Legislature gave approval in principle to legislation setting up a new compulsory, non-cancellable car insurance scheme which will provide basic no-fault coverage for 1,000,000 licensed B.C. drivers.

Mr. Peterson indicated the government bowed to public pressure demanding the change. But he told the House the government hoped the majority of drivers would not take advantage of the easing of the previous prohibition on third-party liability coverage for property damage up to the $250 maximum that can be recovered in a damage suit.

By agreeing that "if negligent, they should assume this cost out of their own pocket," drivers who don't purchase the supplementary third-party coverage will be helping to fulfil the government's original intent of promoting defensive driving on B.C. highways, the attorney-general said.

THREE HOURS

For much of the three hours of debate on second reading of amendments to the Insurance Act, the government's new insurance scheme came under heavy attack from the opposition. Both NDP and Liberals voted against approval in principle of the bill which was passed by a vote of 28 to 19.

William Hartley (NDP-Yale Lillooet), acting as spokesman for his party, said it was immoral for the government to force every licensed driver in the province to contribute to the income of a private industry "that has been condemned for price-fixing and gouging for years."

FUNDS POINT

The NDP member tried to claim that a portion of compulsory premiums would find its way into the campaign funds of Social Credit but was sharply ordered by Speaker William Murray to withdraw the remark and apologize to the House.

Mr. Hartley did as he was asked and added that a government-run car insurance scheme was the only way the Legislature could live up to its

Students advance on Sherbrooke Street

McGill Fuss Fades

MONTREAL (CP) — As roving bands of demonstrators smashed some store windows in downtown Montreal Friday night, about 500 persons attempted to return to the McGill University campus, scene of an earlier 6,000-strong march to show support for converting the university into a French-language institution.

The 500 were quickly chased back downtown by police on motorcycles and other police squads quickly broke up the wandering groups of window breakers.

There were unconfirmed radio reports of some minor looting.

MINOR SCUFFLES

The banner-waving 15-block march by about 6,000 persons along Sherbrooke to the university had been relatively orderly. Minor scuffles broke out in front of the university, but there was no major clash with reinforced squads of police.

No demonstrators managed to get on to property owned by the 148-year-old university and marchers began dispersing about 1½ hours after reaching the university gates on Sherbrooke Street.

SUCCESS CLAIMED

Organizers claimed the demonstration had succeeded in publicizing their demands and appealed to marchers to head for home.

However, police later moved in with vehicles in riot equipment to break up lingering groups of hard-core demonstrators.

At least eight persons were reported arrested and there were four persons injured in the later clashes.

SEA OF FACES

Sherbrooke Street in front of the university was a sea of faces dotted with placards, flags and banners.

Raymond Lemieux, president of the Ligue pour l'Integration Scolaire, an organizer of the demonstration told the crowd:

Hunt for Nazis Now Unlimited

BONN (Reuters) — The West German government has announced it intends to abolish the statute of limitations restricting the prosecution of Nazi war criminals.

Justice Minister Horst Ehmke told the Bundesrat (upper house) Friday that the bill would be introduced before the end of the present legislature period in July.

The statute of limitations originally would have barred courts from opening proceedings covering Nazi murders and genocide after 1965, but the 20-year limitation was extended until the end of this year.

Disaster?

SHE'LL NEVER KNOW

SPOKANE (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth Steen, 29-year-old Spokane seeress who had predicted an earthquake for California next month, died Friday.

Doctors said cause of death was a heart attack but that Mrs. Steen had been ill for some time with Collogan's disease. The ailment involves deterioration of the body's connective tissue.

She came to Spokane last November from the San Francisco area. The move here with her husband and children was based on her forecast of an earthquake for the Pacific coast sometime in April.

Mrs. Steen had been the subject of articles in national magazines after predicting Martin Luther King would be shot to death April 6, 1968. He was killed in Memphis, Tenn., last April 4.

Insurance Company Fires NDP Member and Agent

William Hartley (NDP-Yale Lillooet) in the Legislature Friday linked his surprise dismissal after nearly 19 years service as an agent with a B.C. insurance firm with his role as chief spokesman for the New Democratic Party on car insurance. He sold all types of insurance, including car.

★ ★ ★

During the debate on second reading of the government's proposed new car insurance plan, Mr. Hartley recalled that he was attacked by Jim Chabot (SC-Columbia-River) who claimed that as an insurance agent the NDP member should not be allowed to sit on the Legislature's committee studying the Wootton report.

After the question had been referred to Speaker William Murray he was allowed to sit on the committee, but recalled that Philip Gaglardi (SC-Kamloops), minister without portfolio, kept up a continual sniping by asking "are you still selling insurance?"

Hartley

★ ★ ★

"I did not pay too much attention to (Mr. Gaglardi's) wisecracks," Mr. Hartley said. "However, it would appear that these representatives of the Social Credit party were either acting for, or just thinking, as the insurance industry, when they called for my removal from the insurance committee.

"An odd coincidence happened just a few hours after Bill 74 (establishing a new car insurance plan) was tabled in this House. I received a letter from the insurance company with

Turkey Terrorized By Deadly Quake

ISTANBUL (UPI) — An earthquake rolled across western Turkey early Friday, killing scores of persons and destroying houses, factories and mosques in the pre-dawn darkness, and isolating hundreds of villages.

Preliminary reports put the death toll at 50. Authorities said the figure was likely to rise.

Reply to Loffmark

Stephen Hails Socred Zeal On Hospitals

By HUBERT BEYER

Victoria Mayor Hugh Stephen said Friday he was "delighted" to know that Health Minister Ralph Loffmark treated "with such urgency" the hospital situation.

Commenting on the minister's advice to the Capital Region Hospital Board that it had "better get cracking" in recommending construction of extended care facilities, the mayor, chairman of the board, had this to say:

"I'm overwhelmed with the minister's impatience, and I can assure Mr. Loffmark that the board's recommendation for all of the 600 beds, approved at last year's referendum, will be on his desk by the end of April."

The mayor, however, did not agree with the minister's statement that the board had recommended only one unit for 150 beds.

"If the minister adds up the 150 beds we recommended for the Gorge Road Hospital, which were approved, a second recommendation for Ganges Hospital consisting of 20 beds, 15 of which were approved and the 75 beds we recommended for the north end of the Saanich Peninsula, he would come to a total of 240 beds," he said.

JUST FOR RECORD

He didn't resent the minister's impatience, the mayor said, but he would like to keep the record straight.

"As a matter of fact, I'll set up a diary as of tonight containing all recommendations we make to the British Columbia Hospital Insurance Commission, and from time to time, I shall make a report to the people about the hospital situation.

"It may be interesting to find out who is delaying what," the mayor said.

DELAY GUILT

"If we are guilty of delay, the minister may take us to task, but if he is slow in answering letters or replying to our recommendations, we shall not hesitate to make it known."

Delay could occur on both sides, he said, but recommendations accounting for the total number of beds granted by last year's referendum would be before the minister in about four or five weeks.

Shop Centre

Oak Bay Protests Multiply

By NANCY BROWN

Established Oak Bay businessmen will be forced out of business if a proposed $1,000,000 shopping centre is built on Foul Bay Road, say members of the municipality's Board of Trade.

"Over the past five years there's only been an increase of 800 in the total population of Oak Bay," accountant Peter Lovric said Friday night.

"The businesses here right now aren't making that much money, and if more business comes in, things will be spread so thinly that some will be out of business altogether.

MORE PEOPLE

"Council is putting the cart before the horse. It should get more people here first and business will naturally follow," he said.

"We have a captive population here now, and no way for it to increase.

"It's like a private country club here, and there's a waiting list of people who want to join. But the only way they can get in is to take the place of someone who dies or moves out," Mr. Lovric said.

TRADE BOARD

Board of Trade president Ella Mae Geddes said the board is opposed to the development at this time.

"Perhaps in five years time we shall have another 50 apartment buildings here and then we shall be ready to welcome this type of development," she said.

"We're very upset about the proposal," she said.

FIRST PLACE

"In the first place it must be very obvious to everyone that there's barely enough to go round now.

"A few businesses have closed down and there are many more operating on a one-man basis simply because they can't afford to hire staff."

She said she was concerned at the way the proposals about the new centre have been handled.

"The announcement from the municipal hall says the developer has been working closely with council.

"I've learned recently that the developer has been in the area for some time trying to buy up property, but nobody has said a word to the retailers — the people most directly concerned."

Hearing Adds Space

Oak Bay council is apparently expecting a big crowd at a public hearing scheduled for April 10.

It was originally arranged for the municipal hall, but Ald. G. Scott Wallace said Friday night that the auditorium at Oak Bay junior high school has been rented for the occasion because of the amount of interest.

Two bylaws will be put before the hearing.

One will rezone Victoria Riding Academy property for nine and three-storey high-rises, and has already met considerable opposition.

The second to rezone property on Foul Bay Road between Marion and Goldsmith for a new shopping centre is running into opposition from Oak Bay Board of Trade.

Meanwhile it was announced Friday that from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Sunday an orange balloon will be flown to mark the height of the proposed highrises.

Ford Will

Son Files Appeal From Australia

Australian radio news editor John Douglas Ford has instructed city lawyer Donald Cameron to file an application for appeal of a March 7 B.C. Supreme Court judgment that validated a $1,152,792 will.

Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton had ruled that the May 22, 1958 will of Allan Douglas Ford, who died here in 1967, was valid and dismissed an application to have an earlier will, dated June 8, 1933, probated.

DELUSIONS CLAIMED

The 1958 will was contested by John Ford, the son, on the grounds that his father was suffering from delusions at the time it was made.

Under the terms of the 1958 will, the bulk of the estate was left to Victoria charities with a bequest of $50,000 to the son.

If that will had been broken and the 1933 will probated John Ford would have received most of the estate with the exception of about $350,000 which would have reverted to charity.

Seven days of evidence were heard in mid-January and Mr. Justice Wootton delivered his judgment earlier this month.

RULED CAPABLE

It set out that, for all his eccentricities, Mr. Ford was capable of making a valid will in 1958 and rejected the contention that he was not of sound mind, memory and understanding at that time.

Commenting on evidence given during the hearing, Mr. Justice Wootton said it was evident the testator was "a dramatist and an elderly persons of some conceit who liked to impress his audience."

EMBELLISHING

He added that Mr. Ford had a habit of embellishing the stories he told but added:

"All this, in my view, is an indication of old age and forgetfulness but not necessarily incompetence. So many old persons like to command and hold the stage and they adopt many expedients.'

Mr. Wootton ruled that John Ford had grounds for requiring proof of the will and ordered that cost involved in the case be paid out of the residue of the estate.

CONSIDERABLE COSTS

That costs in the case were considerable was indicated by the fact that Mr. Cameron was advised during the hearing by a Queen's counsel and another lawyer he brought with him from Australia.

Mr. Ford returned to Australia at the conclusion of the case.

Highways' PR Poor

Road Refusal Riles Chamber

By PAT MURPHY

The provincial government was condemned Friday for its refusal to link Victoria's Rose-Blanshard road extension to the Patricia Bay Highway and for its poor public relations generally.

Approving a report by its harbor and transportation committee chairman, George Farmer, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce decided to seek an immediate meeting with provincial highways Minister Wesley Black.

"The provincial highways department may never have said in so many words that it would link the extension with the highway," said Mr. Farmer, "but the understanding was always there and it let the city go ahead and build the extension on the understanding that this would be done.

ONE EXAMPLE

"I am simply amazed at the decision of the government not to make the hookup and it is just one more example of the lack of liason between the provincial government and the chamber and municipality.

"I think the government should be condemned for its lack of public relations," Mr. Farmer said.

He added that he had asked for meeting with Mr. Black many times — on highway, parkway, freeway, airport access road issues and on other matters —but the provincial government just wouldn't meet with the chamber.

MET US ONCE

"It was better when Gaglardi was in there. At least he did meet with us once although he didn't tell us anything," Mr. Farmer said.

The transportation chairman said that a meeting will be held soon with the CNR to discuss the Ogden Point dock installations.

It was made necessary, he said, because the business of cruise ships calling at Victoria this summer was all sewed up.

NEVER RETURN

Unless some work was done on the docks the ships might never come back, Mr. Farmer said. Dock B, which would be used for the cruise ships, had to be raised.

He said there should be a big reception for the first ship to call here to indicate that the ships were welcome in Victoria.

With as many as 2,000 people on board the bigger ships it could mean a lot of business for Victoria, the speaker said. Taxi companies, bus companies and business generally would benefit.

PROJECT ALIVE

Douglas Abbott, the chamber's convention centre committee chairman, said that the Empress Hotel-CPR proposal was still very much in the forefront and that a meeting was scheduled for sometime within the next two weeks at which concrete plans would be unveiled.

He said the plans would be an "attractive package". The committee, said Mr. Abbott had seen nothing yet to match the CPR plan.

Chamber Manager

New manager of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, whose appointment was announced Friday at directors' meeting, is Brian J. Small. Chosen from among 48 applicants from across Canada and U.S., Mr. Small is a Victorian who, for many years, has been active in the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce. He is senator in Junior Chamber International and, in 1968, was chosen "Outstanding Jaycee in B.C."

Parade

Wheels For Seals Today

Today's Easter Seal parade, postponed from last Saturday, will start at 10 a.m. from the Saanich health and welfare centre next to the Municipal Hall.

Put on by the Society for Crippled Children, the parade will take the form of a motorcade and will include three Easter Seal buses, the Chinatown Drum and Bell Corps band and six or seven open cars carrying members of local Lions Clubs.

Island Goal

The Easter Seal appeal has collected $9,751, Vancouver Island executive secretary Ray St. Denis said Friday. The goal is $25,000. Donations are still being received at appeal headquarters, 3945-D Quadra.

Parade watchers will be able to see the motorcade on its route past the Town and Country shopping centre, down Douglas Street, around the Empress Hotel and back up Government to Fort and then to Foul Bay Road, where it is expected about 11 a.m.

Long Route

It will continue north to Lansdowne then west to Shelbourne where it is expected at the Hillside shopping centre about 11:20. It will move north to Shelbourne Plaza and then to Cedar Hill Cross Road, McKenzie, Quadra, south to Yates, west on Wharf, over the Johnson Street Bridge and out Esquimalt Road to Esquimalt Sports Centre by 12:45 p.m.

For Bishop April 17

Rites in Cathedral For Enthronement

The new Anglican Bishop of the diocese of British Columbia — John Ogle Anderson — will be enthroned in Christ Church Cathedral at 8 p.m. April 17, Archdeacon J. W. Forth announced Friday.

His diocese comprises Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands.

Because he is already Bishop of Red River and Bishop Coadjutor of Rupert's Land, no consecration is necessary, Archdeacon Forth said.

The ceremony will be conducted by Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathedral. For the full choral services the choir will be augmented by choristers from other Victoria churches.

Bishop Anderson was elected in Christ Church Cathedral at an extraordinary meeting of synod on March 7. A previous election meeting in February resulted in deadlock.

The new bishop is expected in Victoria from Winnipeg a day or two before his enthronement.

Among those expected to attend the ceremony are Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson, Premier Bennett, Maj.-Gen George Pearkes, Acting President Robert Wallace of the University of Victoria, the mayors of the four Greater Victoria municipalities, Roman Catholic Bishop Remi De Roo and Rev. Dr. Samuel Parsons, executive secretary of the Greater Victoria Council of Churches.

IWA Here to Attempt Wage Pact Reopening

The Victoria local of the International Woodworkers of America is finally reaching for a bigger piece of the profit pie.

Various officers of the big forest union have been hinting for more than a month that there would be an attempt to re-open negotiations because of increased industry profits.

The move became official Friday when Murray Drew, president of the Victoria local, announced that letters had gone out from his local to employers.

The letters are to serve as notification of the local's intention to re-open negotiations in the midst of a contract term.

The goal is across-the-board wage revision.

B.C. Allotted Director For Ducks

G. Fitzpatrick Dunn of 2750 Thorpe was elected Friday to the board of directors of Ducks Unlimited (Canada) at the Empress Hotel.

Until recently, Ducks Unlimited — an organization working for the preservation and expansion of wetland to support North America's duck population — was mainly prairie-orientated.

During the coming year, however, the group plans the development of three major projects in British Columbia.

Newly-elected president Lorne M. Cameron of Winnipeg said at the 33rd annual meeting that another four-and-one-half million acres of dependable wetland would be needed by 1980 to insure the population of ducks required by that time.

Island-Trotting Quail Ends Quest

By DON COLLINS

From Russia With Love was a spy thriller featuring James Bond.

Vancouver Island has now provided the setting for a sequel — From Duncan for Love — featuring Quincey the Quivering Quail.

While this is by no means a spy thriller, it is a bit of a baffler for Trevor Davis, 5927 West Saanich Road.

Mr. Davis said Friday that a California quail, unlike a homing pigeon, isn't supposed to travel a great distance to reach home.

But Quincey, one of four quail he sold as pets to a man in Duncan, arrived back at the Davis home, tired but happy.

★ ★ ★

"I have never heard of this before," said Mr. Davis who has been raising and selling quail for seven years.

The distance travelled was about 35 miles.

California quail prefer to do their travelling on the ground and only fly when frightened, Mr. Davis said.

However, Quincey (a name hung on him by an amused observer) may have had another reason for taking to the air. He was the only one of the four Duncan-bought birds who left a mate behind at the Davis home.

Mr. Davis says he can't be sure this has anything to do with the bird's accomplishment.

But it did have that look in its eye when it arrived.
